SYDNEY (JAN. 2) - Bond group lawyers fought on two fronts Tuesday to save Alan Bond's debt-ridden empire from collapse as they tried to fend off attacks by creditors on both sides of Australia.

A hearing opened in the southeastern city of Melbourne on a petition by Bond Corp. Holdings Ltd. to overturn the Victorian Supreme Court's appointment of a receiver to Bond's Australian brewing interests.

Bond attorneys were also on deck in Perth, where the Western Australia State Government Insurance Commission (SGIC) sought a provisional liquidator for Bond Corp. on the grounds that it is insolvent.

The Melbourne courtroom was packed as Justice Barry Beach opened the hearing on his appointment Friday of a receiver for Bond Brewing Holdings Ltd. and other Bond subsidiaries.

But he adjourned after a half hour to allow attorneys to consider an affidavit filed by Bond Brewing.

Bond Brewing attorney Alan Myers said, meanwhile, that he would seek to invoke interstate cross-vesting legislation to move the case to Western Australia, where the Perth court refused to intervene over the weekend.

Bond executives say appointment of a receiver for the brewing interests, initiated by the National Australia Bank Ltd. (NAB), could trigger a chain of claims that might produce one of the world's largest corporate failures.

Peter Lucas, executive director of public and investor relations of the group currently engaged in a massive selloff of its assets to reduce debt, said continued banker support was essential.

"If indeed other bankers follow (NAB), then I am afraid the battle by the Bond executives to pursue an orderly disposition of its assets will run into a series of barriers which may be just too much for us," he told Australian television Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - California Energy Company Inc. (ASE,PSE:CE) Tuesday announced the completion of the $615 million, 240 megawatt first phase of its Coso Geothermal Project, located in Inyo County, Calif.

With the synchronization process successfully completed, the project's final three units entered commercial operation last month and are supplying electricity to consumers in California.

The Coso field is recognized as the second largest commercial geothermal resource in the United States. The project is now producing enough electricity to meet the needs of 240,000 households in Southern California. In addition to being economical, geothermal is a clean, environmentally benign and renewable source of energy, factors of particular importance to regulatory authorities.

''This is a proud moment for the employees and shareholders of California Energy Co. The exceptional efforts performed by our people have allowed us to do exactly what we set out to do: complete all nine units of the Coso Project by year-end 1989,'' said Charles T. Condy, chairman and chief executive officer.

''In less than two years time, we have put eight power plant units on-line at Coso and drilled 99 wells there with a productive capacity equal to more than 400 MWe, while opening and staffing a new exploration and development office in Portland, Ore.

''This extraordinary achievement will serve as the cornerstone for this company's future growth,'' said Condy. ''According to a recent independent engineering study of the Coso geothermal reservoir, the field could be expanded in size to 600 megawatts or more. With this kind of potential we believe that the new decade holds great promise.''

California Energy Co. is a leading independent producer of electric power and developer of geothermal resources. The company is an owner and the operator of the 240 megawatt Coso Geothermal Project, located 175 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

The company also controls nine geothermal prospects on nearly 340,000 acres in Northern California, Oregon and Washington.

MONTREAL (JAN. 2) NTN Canada Inc. (NASDAQ:NTNC) is pleased to announce results for the first quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989, of fiscal year 1990.

Net income for the quarter was the second best in the company's history. Net income was Cn$85,195 while total revenues were Cn$496,643. The net income performance surpassed every quarter of the company's previous fiscal year, with the exception of a very strong first quarter.

''While the total revenue and net income results for the first quarter represented declines of 15.9 percent and 24.4 percent, respectively from the comparable year ago quarters, the underlying trends in our business during the quarter actually reflect important improvements in our current and long-term operating results,'' said Peter Rona, president.

''During the first quarter, new subscribers began taking advantage of our new three-year lease program and our one-year rental program. These new programs are providing NTN Canada with the opportunity to expand our marketing base by appealing to a broader potential market for hospitality industry installations.

''During the quarter, we added 20 new subscribers, increasing our hospitality industry customer base to 175. The attractiveness of our new marketing strategy is underscored by the significant improvement that we experienced in our gross margin for the quarter.

''For the recently completed quarter our gross margin increased to 47.10 percent, from 36.85 percent in the year ago period. Revenues from broadcast services increased by 51.93 percent for the quarter, to Cn$278,796 from the year ago Cn$183,503 indicative of our growing subscriber base,'' said Rona.

BEAVERTON, OR (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - With an eye toward 1992 and the need to be more competitive in the changing market environment of a unified European Economic Community, Tektronix Tuesday announced plans to streamline its European manufacturing operations.

Effectively immediately, Tektronix will begin to consolidate Europe-based manufacturing of products for its Waveform Measurement Division at its plant at Heerenveen, The Netherlands. The division makes oscilloscope products for the European market. Another manufacturing facility on Guernsey in the Channel Islands of Great Britain will be closed. The realignment doesn't affect other sites.

''This move is based on a strategy to locate Tektronix operations closer to key customers on the continent,'' said Dick Knight, Test & Measurement Group vice president and general manager.

''The new Common Market of 1992 is expected to create many new business opportunities and challenges,'' Knight said. ''Companies capable of responding more quickly and with improved service to the customer will be in a stronger position for success in 1992 and beyond.

''Our Guernsey operation has been very successful and the employees have done an excellent job,'' Knight added. ''Our decision to close it is not based on its performance.''

The Quernsey facility was opened in 1959. Plant closure will be phased over the rest of the fiscal year, which ends in May 1990. Tek's 220 employees in the Guernsey operation will be provided with an economic separation package (redundancy benefits). The package will assist the employees in making a transition from Tektronix Inc. to other opportunities on the island, Knight added.

CINCINNATI (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Federated Department Stores Inc., Tuesday announced that it has reached an agreement with its bank lenders regarding an assertion of a credit agreement default by one of the lenders.

The assertion was made by Citibank in a letter to the company dated Dec. 21, 1989.

Under the terms of the agreement announced today, the lenders have agreed not to enforce the asserted credit agreement default prior to Jan. 15, 1990. In exchange, Federated has agree to prepay its $250 million asset bridge loan facility, which had been scheduled to mature on April 30, 1990.

To make the prepayment, Federated used funds in a cash collateral account that had been pledged to and held by the bank group.

The cash collateral account had been intended for use to satisfy certain indenture requirements in connection with a planned mortgage financing by Federated. Accordingly, the banks have agreed that the next $250 million of asset sale proceeds, if any, that otherwise would be required to be prepaid to the banks will be deposited instead into the cash collateral account. Any such deposit would preserve the company's ability to undertake a future mortgage financing.

Federated and the banks continue to disagree as to the existence of a default, and the agreement between the company and the banks preserves the right of each side to contest or assert that a default exists.

SAUSALITO, CA (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Autodesk (NASDAQ/NMS:ACAD) announced Tuesday that it has commenced shipping a version of AutoCAD Release 10 that maximizes the CAD software's performance on 386-based PCs running under DOS.

AutoCAD 386 combines the popular CAD package with Phar Lap's (Boston) 386/DOS-Extender, which allows users to exploit the full computing power of 386-based personal computers.

AutoCAD 386 runs in protected mode in the memory above 1 megabyte, allowing users most of the 640K space for network drivers, memory resident programs such as Sidekick, and other utilities -- without interfering with AutoCAD's operation.

In addition, because AutoCAD 386 can address all of the memory in the computer system, large drawings, add-on applications, AutoLISP routines and macros can be loaded into memory, avoiding time-consuming paging to the hard disk.

AutoCAD 386 is available through authorized Autodesk resellers at a suggested list price of $3,300. Existing registered owners of AutoCAD Release 10 will be able to upgrade to this version of AutoCAD for a suggested list price of $300.

The program comes with a new menu-driven install program that makes program installation both fast and easy.

Autodesk develops, markets and supports a family of computer-aided design, engineering and animation software products for desktop computers and workstations.

MIAMI (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - The President and Chief Executive Officer of AmeriFirst Bank (NASDAQ: AMRI), Mr. Alfred L. Teti, Monday announced that the bank had signed a memorandum of understanding to settle all claims against AmeriFirst in the four stockholder class action claims recently filed against the Bank, its former management, and its former auditors.

The agreement, reached after weeks of intensive bargaining, is subject to several contingencies, including verification of certain representations made by AmeriFirst to the plaintiffs, regulatory review and judicial approval.

Final judicial consideration of the settlement will occur only after formal notification of the terms of the settlement is sent to class members and stockholders and after a fairness hearing before the Court. The settlement requires AmeriFirst to pay the plaintiff class in escrow $2 million by Feb. 1 and an additional $2.5 million not later than 30 months after final approval of the settlement.

It also contains provisions for the cross-assignment of claims between AmeriFirst and the plaintiff class. It requires AmeriFirst to cooperate with plaintiffs in pursuing claims against the remaining defendants and others to recover the losses recognized by the Bank and its fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1989.

If feasible and practicable (and subject to court approval), the agreement will also require AmeriFirst to offer all stockholders (as of a future record date) the right to participate (subject to reasonable restrictions) pro rata in AmeriFirst's capital plan. Additional details will be contained in a formal notice to be sent to all class members and AmeriFirst stockholders.

Teti stated: ''The settlement is a major accomplishment for AmeriFirst. If judicial approval is obtained, this settlement will greatly enhance our ability to propose and implement a capital plan to restore the Bank's capital to federally required levels.

''It permits the Bank to pursue claims against those who we believe are responsible for the losses in our real estate and commercial loan portfolios. And perhaps, most importantly, the settlement will permit our new management team to focus attention and resources on serving our customers and rebuilding the Bank.''

The products include HIV-1, HIV-2 and HTLV-1 screening and confirmation assays, the HIVCHEK rapid test for HIV-1/HIV-2 and the DuPont Summit sample transfer system and software.

It is expected that key employees of DuPont in marketing, field sales, technical service and software development also will join the Ortho organization.

With the addition of the DuPont business and the introduction of the new hepatitis C test, Ortho and Chiron will be able to offer the full range of viral tests required for blood screening. DuPont will continue to sell AIDS and other virology tests to research markets.

DuPont, which entered the AIDS and hepatitis testing business in 1985, is the largest supplier of these tests in the microplate format in North America, and the world's largest supplier of AIDS confirmatory tests. Its HTLV-1 test is one of two FDA-approved tests for this virus in the microplate format.

Ortho and Chiron are acquiring rights to the DuPont virology tests on a worldwide basis except for Italy, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Cyprus and Northern Africa.

Ortho and Chiron together are developing a series of tests for AIDS and hepatitis. The first of these, a recombinant test for antibodies to hepatitis B core antigen, was approved for marketing in the United States in December 1988 and is being sold by Ortho.

The Ortho/Chiron hepatitis C test is being sold in several European countries and recently was approved for screening and diagnostic use in Japan. The two companies filed applications to manufacture and market the test in the United States in August 1989.

DUNCAN, SC (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - One Price Clothing Stores Inc. (NASDAQ: ONPR) Friday announced that sales for the fourth quarter were less than planned.

The shortfall in sales was due primarily to sluggish consumer spending, and to weather related factors including hotter than normal temperatures at the beginning of the quarter and sporadic ice and snow storms during December. A total of 38 stores were either partially or totally closed during the final Saturday and Sunday of the Christmas selling season.

Company officials stated that higher markdowns in response to the softness in sales will have a negative impact in the gross margin for the fourth quarter as compared to the like quarter last year. In addition, the company will incur additional costs in connection with the anticipated closings in early 1990 of some of its low volume stores.

As a consequence of the above, the company expects that its earnings per share for the fourth quarter will be significantly less than the reported earnings per share of 27 cents for the fourth quarter of 1988.

BEAVERTON, OR (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Mentor Graphics Corp. Tuesday announced a strategic partnership with Microtec Research Inc..

A leading supplier of microprocessor development tools, Microtec is located in Santa Clara, Calif. The first phase in this on-going relationship incorporates the XRAY high-level debugger into Mentor's new embedded software development product, CodeLink Station. Through this relationship, Mentor Graphics will be able to make on-going improvements and enhancements to XRAY, which is now available on CodeLink.

"Both Mentor Graphics and Microtec Research share the vision of linking CASE and CAE in the embedded software development market," said Rick Potter, general manager of Mentor Graphics' CASE Division. "The industry has needed and asked for enhanced software development tools; the merging of these technologies is the best way to support customers' needs."

"Our goal is to contribute significantly towards improving engineering productivity during the implementation and hardware/software integration phases of software development," said Jerry Kirk, president of Microtec.

In September 1989, Mentor's CASE Division introduced CodeLink Station, a comprehensive tool set that supports the entire software lifecycle and links software development with the hardware design environment.

CodeLink addresses software developent from initial design through maintenance and offers the industry's first solid connection between a graphical interface and the debug environment. CodeLink Station allows software engineers to debug at higher levels of abstraction than the code level, yet maintain line-level capabilities for analysis.

The XRAY debugger is used with CodeLink Station to evaluate code within three target system environments: native mode, virtual mode and physical mode. In addition, the debugger's interface is the same for all three modes. Microtec XRAY debuggers are designed to debug production level (optimized) code, a feature not available with most other debuggers.

"Together we are redefining CASE for the embedded software development world. By combining re-engineering and front-end CASE tools with high-level debugging tools, neither company has to re-invent technologies to enhance software development," said Potter.

Microtec Research Inc. provides a complete line of software development tools as well as hardware and software integration tools. All Microtec Research development and integration tools are optimized for a variety of industry standard host computers, including those from Sun, Apollo and DEC. The company maintains subsidiaries in London, Munich, and Tokyo.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Larry Crume, an AT&T employee for more than 20 years with broad UNIX operating system development experience has been appointed vice president of international development for Lotus Development Corp., the company announced Tuesday.

Crume, whose appointment takes effect today, will be based in Cambridge. He will report to Frank King, senior vice president of the Software Products Group.

Crume most recently has been president and representative director of AT&T UNIX Pacific Co. Ltd. in Tokyo, Japan. In his new position, Crume will be responsible for integrating international product and marketing requirements into Lotus U.S. strategies. He also will be responsible for identifying new international product development and business opportunities for the Software Products Group.

''One of Lotus' major objectives for the 1990s is to expand our international business operations,'' King said. ''To achieve this we'll need to maintain a strong flow of new products and marketing programs, particularly for hardware and operating-system platforms beyond our personal computer core. Because of his unique experience in overseas business development and software-engineering management, Larry is highly qualified to provide the leadership we need to meet our objectives.''

Crume planned and started AT&T's UNIX System V internationalization activities and sales operations in 1984. He had been president and representative director of AT&T Unix Pacific Inc. since March 1985. This business unit is responsible for UNIX software development, marketing and sales in Japan, Asia, India and the South Pacific.

In the past five years, Crume has been responsible for the development of multi-language support for UNIX System V and a variety of systems integration projects, including development of a five-language editing system for China's Xinhua News Agency.

Prior to moving to Tokyo, Crume held several management and software engineering positions for AT&T's Bell Laboratories. From 1980 to 1984, he managed UNIX software development and was the project manager responsible for definition and development of UNIX System V Releases 1.0 and 2.0, which formed the basis for AT&T's UNIX operating systems standardization efforts.

From 1972 to 1980, he worked at Bell Laboratories' Naperville, Illinois facility where he supervised software projects associated with electronic switching systems.

In his earlier years at Bell Laboratories, he was a member of the technical staff researching parallel computer compilers, operating systems for parallel computers, computer-aided software engineering tools and telecommunications news service applications. Crume joined AT&T in June 1967 as a member of the technical staff doing software research in Whippany, N.J.

Crume, 45, was graduated from Portland State University with a bachelor's degree in mathematics and received a Bell Laboratories fellowship for a master's degree in computer science from the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J. SANTA CLARA, CA (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - 3Com Corp. Tuesday announced it is reducing prices on its entire family of internetwork bridges (IBs).

The reductions will result in user savings of between 5 percent and more than 25 percent, depending on product and configuration.

3Com's IB products include the IB/1 (local Ethernet-to-Broadband), IB/2000 (local Ethernet-to-Ethernet) and IB/3 (remote Ethernet or Broadband) routing bridges. Effective immediately, the IB/1 is priced at US $9100. The IB/2000 is priced at US $4995. Prices for the IB/3 now begin at US $7500 for dual low-speed line support, and US $8500 for a single T-1 connection.

''The internetwork bridge market is becoming increasingly price competitive in both the local and remote segments,'' said Bobbi Murphy, director of marketing for 3Com's Enterprise Systems Division. ''Some companies have recently announced lower prices only for their one-port routing bridges. 3Com is offering lower prices for not only its IB/1 and IB/2000 bridges, but for its multiport IB/3 bridges, as well.''

3Com recently announced plans to enhance its IB products by making them network bootable for the easy maintenance and upgrade of network software, and through the addition of the SNMP and CMOT network management protocols for access by any SNMP and/or CMOT manager on the network.

Support of both Simple Network Management Protocol (SNMP) and Common Management Information Protocol over TCP/IP (CMOT) network management standards will give users a choice of network management protocol capabilities on a 3Com 3+Open network. This flexibility will enable them to employ a wider variety of network management applications to integrate and manage their multi-vendor networks.

3Com is a computer networking systems company providing multivendor connectivity and information sharing for workgroups, departments and corporate environments worldwide. The company designs, manufactures, markets and supports a wide range of networked client-server systems based on industry standards and open systems architecture.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, CA (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Genentech Inc., Tuesday announced that it has filed a Product License Application (PLA) with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to seek approval to market recombinant gamma interferon to treat patients with chronic granulomatous disease.

The drug would be used along with anti-microbial therapy for treatment of active infections as well as for prevention of infections.

Chronic granulomatous disease (CGD) is a rare inherited disorder in which the body's white blood cells are unable to function normally to kill invading bacteria or fungal agents. As a result, patients with CGD may suffer recurrent infections, some of which may lead to death. To date, the only therapy for these children is frequent doses of antibiotics to help prevent and fight acquired infections.

The electronic filing of the Product License Application for Actimmune (interferon gamma-1b) with the FDA's Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research is a first; it is expected that this new approach will result in time savings for the review officers.

Rather than having to manually recreate graphs and tables based on clinical research study data included in the application submitted by the company, the review officers can work with the data submitted on specially designed computer software programs. Genentech filed the PLA on Dec. 20.

Genentech also is studying gamma interferon's ability to stimulate the immune system as a potential treatment in other indications. Phase III clinical studies continue to evaluate gamma interferon's safety and effectiveness in treating patients who have acquired infections relating to traumatic injuries, and as an adjuvant therapy in the treatment of patients with melanoma and small-cell cancer of the lung.

Gamma interferon, which has the brand name Actimmune, is a drug developed by Genentech, through recombinant DNA technology, aimed at attempting to reduce the number and severity of CGD-related infections. The company was granted orphan drug designation by the FDA in September 1988 for gamma interferon's treatment of CGD patients, and holds three U.S. patents relating to the expression and manufacture of the drug.

Genentech Inc. is a leading biotechnology company focusing on the development, manufacture and marketing of pharmaceuticals produced by recombinant DNA technology.

MARLBORO, MA (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Stratus Computer Inc. Tuesday announced a $1.9 million dollar contract with systems integrator Toshiba Engineering Co. Ltd. to supply Yamaichi Securities, Japan's fourth largest brokerage, with three Stratus XA2000 Continuous Processing Systems.

Toshiba Engineering, a subsidiary of Toshiba Corp., is developing an advanced on-line futures and options trading system to run on Stratus computers for Tokyo-based Yamaichi.

The Stratus-based system, which is already on-line, distributes real-time prices for futures and options listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange to Sun Workstations located on Yamaichi's trading floor and at its branch offices in Japan. The system eventually will be expanded to handle real-time order execution of trades.

''By basing our new trading system on Stratus' advanced technology, Yamaichi will be able to better complete in Japan's newly-deregulated markets for futures and options,'' stated Mr. Ryoichi Koyanagi, Yamaichi's information Systems Manager. ''Stratus' superior fault-tolerant design and high performance ensure that Yamaichi traders have rapid, guaranteed access to the crucial market information they need to make intelligent trading decisions.

''In our business, a saved second means being able to trade stock at a better price.''

The Yamaichi sale is another example of Stratus' continued commitment to Asia -- a region which is undergoing tremendous economic expansion. Stratus' fault-tolerant systems help meet the demand in Asia's fast-growing financial industry for high-performance computers which can process critical on-line applications 24 hours a day.

The Yamaichi contract is a key win for Stratus in Asia because Yamaichi is one of Japan's largest brokerages and a pacesetter in the use of computer technology.

Three Stratus computers form the core of Yamaichi's on-line trading system which is networked with trader workstations, mainframes, as well as external systems. A Stratus XA2000 Model 120 receives ticker feeds from the Tokyo and Osaka stock exchanges and disseminates stock prices to workstations on the trading floor. A Model 110 accepts this data from the Model 120 for distribution to branch offices. Yamaichi utilizes an additional Model 120 for applications development.

The Stratus-based system provides Yamaichi traders with fast access to on-line stock prices which are updated as market changes occur. Prior to the Stratus installation, traders on Yamaichi's trading floor and at branch offices used terminals that were directly connected to the mainframe.

When transaction volumes became heavy, traders would have to wait longer for quotes to be displayed on their terminal screens. Consequently, traders would be forced to base their trading decisions on market data that did not always accurately reflect current prices.

Yamaichi is transfering on-line applications, such as real-time access to stock quotes, from mainframes to Stratus systems because Stratus' high-performance architecture is better at handling peaks and dramatic fluctuations in trading volumes. Mainframes will continue to be used for Yamaichi's less time-critical applications, such as overnight batch processing.

The combination of fault-tolerant Stratus systems with powerful workstations has brough Yamaichi end-users more reliable and flexible access to critical market information. The workstations display multiple screens of information, enabling floor traders to review the lastest news reports, access real-time stock quotations, display their portfolios, and run powerful analysis software -- all at the same time.

Based in Marlboro, Mass., Stratus Computer Inc. supplies a family of fault-tolerant computer systems for on-line transaction processing and communication control. The company offers the most technologically advanced architecture for on-line, distributed, and networked applications and has set a new standard for computer reliability.

One of the fastest-growing computer companies in the industry, Stratus reported revenues of $265.3 million for fiscal year 1988, up 44 percent from $184.2 million in 1987.

TORONTO (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Deprenyl Research Ltd., (Toronto Stock Exchange:DEP) (NASDAQ:DEPLF) reported Tuesday that the drug Eldepryl was approved on Dec. 29, 1989 by the Health Protection Branch (HPB) of the Canadian Federal Government.

The drug should be widely available in Canadian pharmacies in six to eight weeks. Until now, Eldepryl has been prescribed only on ''compassionate grounds'' (very limited basis) to advanced Parkinson's patients.

Deprenyl Research owns the Canadian rights to Eldepryl.

Parkinson's disease, a progressive neurological illness, affects more than 70,000 Canadians primarily over the age 50.

Eldepryl currently offers Parkinson's patients a therapy which substantially enhances traditional approaches to the disease. In addition preliminary findings of a major research study, DATATOP, show Eldepryl could also be indicated soon for a much larger market -- people with early-stage symptoms of Parkinson's.

The study, released in the Nov. 16, 1989 edition of the New England Journal of Medicine, found Eldepryl a powerful drug, which appears to delay the onset of serious and debilitating features of Parkinson's disease, with minimal side effects. Traditional drug therapy tends to lose its effectiveness over the longer term and often produces severe side effects.

Ongoing studies are examining the long-term effects of Eldepryl and assessing the impact of the drug on mental functioning and general life expectancy. Since Eldepryl may retard the progression of Parkinson's disease, it raises the hope the drug could also be used in the treatment of other brain diseases -- Multiple Sclerosis, Alzheimer's disease and Lou Gehrig's disease.

Deprenyl Research Limited is a Toronto-based prescription pharmaceutical company which commenced operations in February 1988 to import the product Eldepryl for the treatment of Parkinson's disease. Over the last year, the company has evolved into an organization with the capability to license, develop and market ethical pharmaceutical products.

In addition, Deprenyl Research owns rights to the sale of Eldepryl for use in animals in Canada and the U.S.A. Initial reearch on small animals indicates that their life span may be extended with the addition of Eldepryl to their diet.

DALLAS (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of Maxus Energy Corp. approved an exploration and development program budget of USD 320 million for 1990, an increase from approximately USD 200 million for 1989.

''The increase is primarily attributable to an aggressive development program in the Southeast Sumatra area of Indonesia,'' said Chairman C.L. Blackburn. ''Approximately USD 120 million will be spent developing the Intan and Widuri fields and constructing a permanent processing facility for completion in late 1990.''

Production from these fields in Southeast Sumatra is expected to reach 120,000 gross barrels per day by the end of 1990 and 220,000 gross barrels per day, or approximately 60,000 net barrels, by late 1991. Total spending in production sharing contract areas of Indonesia next year will be USD 164 million.

Spending in other international areas will be USD 25 million, of which USD 5 million is dedicated to a development program in Ecuador. North American program spending will be USD 125 million.

An additional USD 4 million has been allocated for the Maxus Frontier Group, a new exploration unit with the initial territorial scope of Europe Asia Minor, Africa and selected North American areas.

GERMANTOWN, TN. (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Community Bancshares Inc. (NASDAQ:CBOG), the parent company of Community Bank of Germantown, Tuesday announced that its management has increased the company's allowance for credit losses by $1 million.

According to Donald E. Russell, the company's president and chief executive officer, the decision to provide an additional $1 million to the allowance resulted from uncertainties associated with several non-real estate loans identified by management during the ongoing review of all loans held in the Community Bank of Germantown's loan portfolio.

Russell stated that the additional provision, net of related tax implications, will, for the most part, offset the company's fourth quarter earnings. However, Russell also noted that although audited numbers are not yet available, it appears that net income from operations experienced improvement over the prior year.

As previously announced, the board of directors declared a fourth quarter cash dividend of 6 cents per share which was paid to stockholders on Dec. 29, 1989.

VILLAROCHE, FRANCE (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - The first CFM International CFM56-5C2 development engine initiated ground testing on schedule Dec. 27, 1989, here at SNECMA test facilities.

Initial testing will focus on engine mechanical behavior and operability.

In the coming weeks, testing will concentrate on performance, fan and booster stress surveys, fan and booster aerodynamic mapping, engine vibration surveys, preliminary exhaust performance, and engine systems evaluation.

The second test engine will enter the test program in the first quarter of 1990 at GE's outdoor test facilities near Peebles, Ohio.

Ground testing of the -5C2 will culminate in the first flight of the engine on a modified Boeing 707 aircraft in the second quarter of 1990. First flight on the A340 is scheduled for mid-1991, with the engine scheduled for certification at 32,500 pounds takeoff thrust in late 1991.

The -5C2 will enter service at 31,200 pounds thrust in 1992. Current plans call for growth to at least 34,000 pounds to accommodate potential A340 growth requirements.

CFM International, a 50/50 joint company of General Electric of the United States and SNECMA of France, launched the -5C2 with Airbus Industrie on 1987, when the airframer selected the engine to power its new very-long-range, four-engine A340 aircraft. To date, CFMI has received firm and option engine orders to power more than 120 aircraft for 17 customers worldwide.

The CFM56-5C2 is a derivative of the CFM56-5-A1, powerplant for the Airbus A320, and was designed for the A340 and potential future applications. The -5C2 is a dual rotor, high bypass turbofan engine with new features that include a larger, 72.3-inch diameter fan, a four-stage booster, an improved core, a five-stage low pressure turbine, and a long-duct, mixed-flow nacelle.

Airbus opted to have CFMI produce the entire propulsion system in order to achieve the best possible engine/nacelle integration.

Due to changes in the engine cycle and the incorporation of the mixed-flow exhaust system, the -5C2 is expected to provide 5 percent better specific fuel consumption than the CFM56-5-A1. The core for the -5C2 will be used for the CFM56-5B, also a -5-A1 derivative, which will power the A321, a stretched version of the A320.

The entire CFM56 family, which includes the CFM56-2, -3, and -5-A1, has logged more than 15 million flight hours since 1981 and has set industry standards for performance, reliability, maintainability and quiet operation.

MARLBORO, MA. (JAN. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Data Translation (NASDAQ:DATX) announced Tuesday that it expects earnings for its fourth quarter fiscal quarter (the period ended Nov. 30, 1989) to reflect a significant increase over the corresponding figure for the previous fiscal quarter.

The company's preliminary, unaudited estimates are that consolidated net sales for the fiscal quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989, will be approximately $9.9 million, as compared with $9.4 million for the previous fiscal quarter and that anticipated consolidated net income per share will be at least 14 cents, as compared with 5 cents for the previous fiscal quarter.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 2) COMTEX - MMI Medical Inc. filed a Form 10-Q with the NASD stating subsequent to Oct. 27, 1989, General Electric Co. brought a new lawsuit against MMI's subsidiary, R Squared Scan Systems Inc. The suit was filed in the federal district court for the northern district of Illinois.

This action alleges copyright violations by R Squared of certain GE diagnostic software used with GE manufactured CT scanners. The suit seeks injunctive relief and unspecified damages. MMI says the Illinois litigation may affect business in excess of 20% of its consolidated revenues.

In Feb. 1987, GE brought a similar action against R Squared with respect to diagnostic software used with CT Scanners manufactured by the Technicare subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson. R Squared filed an antitrust counterclaim against GE in March, 1987. This lawsuit is domiciled in the federal district court for the middle district of North Carolina.

In April, 1989, GE had unsuccesfully attempted to amend the North Carolina complaint to include the charges relating to GE diagnostic software which have now been brought in Illinois.

This new action is in preliminary stages of discovery, but R Squared expects to contest the new litigation vigorously as it has the prior litigation.

LONDON (JAN. 2) - Company takeovers in Britain in 1989 were worth a total 52 billion pounds (84 billion dollars), up 62 percent from the year-before level, the magazine Acquisitions Monthly said in an issue published Tuesday.

The figure included 18 takeovers with a value of more than half a million pounds (810 million dollars), the specialist magazine said.

Merchant bank S.G. Warburg was top of the list of financial advisors who handled takeovers, being involved in 36 bids worth a total 26.2 billion pounds, ahead of Lazard Brothers with 25 bids worth 24.2 billion and U.S. investment bank Goldman Sachs with four bids worth 19.7 billion.

Schroders, which led the field in 1988, fell to sixth place with 14.43 billion pounds, while merchant bank Morgan Grenfell, itself taken over by Deutsche Bank at the end of the year, slipped from second to seventh position with 14.31 billion.

The year's takeover total could have been even higher "but for last October's mini-crash" coupled with the resignation the same month of Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson, Acquisitions Monthly said.

This year is likely to see a slowdown in the number of takeovers in Britain, although those made from abroad are likely to continue to increase.

Of the 18 major takeovers in 1989, 12 involved foreign bids.

The year was dominated by a failed 13.4 billion pound (21.5 billion dollar) bid for BAT Industries by the Hoylake consortium.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Shareholders of Angeles Corporation (AMEX: ANG), at a special meeting Dec. 29, approved the issuance of a new hybrid security, the Angeles Corporation Unit, to be used primarily to purchase the assets of certain affiliated companies, and for other purposes.

Angeles has offered to purchase the net assets of five of its public investment vehicles and a series of small private partnerships, whose investors will vote on the transaction in January 1990. The assets, consisting primarily of mortgages and direct interests in real properties, have an aggregate net value of approximately $37 million, assuming all the affiliated entities approve participation. Completion is expected as soon as practicable after the entities have voted.

Terms of the transaction provide that Angeles purchase the assets with its newly issued units, each unit consisting of a common stock component and a debenture component. Once the transaction is completed, the new Angeles Corporation units will be listed for trading on the American Stock Exchange.

A meeting is scheduled for Jan. 26, 1990, for a vote by the stockholders of Angeles Finance Trust (AMEX: AFT), the newest and largest of the included affiliates. The Angeles Finance board of trustees had voted unanimously in April 1989 that the Trust, a real estate lender formed in 1985, be included in the offer. Its assets consist solely of a portfolio of loans made to Angeles affiliates and guaranteed as to principal and interest by Angeles Corporation.

The other affiliates involved, whose investors will vote by means of mailed consent forms, are public and private real estate limited partnerships formed as early as 1972. The public partnerships, many of which have been in the process of liquidation for several years through the disposition of their portfolio properties, are Share Partners Ltd.-1972; S-N Partners Ltd.; Share Partners Ltd.-1973; and Angeles Future Interest Partners Ltd. The remaining entities are seven small private partnerships originally formed to invest in other Angeles-sponsored programs.

Among the objectives of the proposed exchange are: the immediate liquidation of the entities involved, which would eliminate tax and accounting-related administrative burdens; and the delivery to investors of a security with more predictable cash flow plus liquidity. The transaction would also add to the capitalization and broaden the shareholder base of Angeles Corporation, a diversified investment management firm whose subsidiaries manage in excess of $4 billion of securities, real estate, mutual funds and leased equipment assets for more than 130,000 corporate, institutional and individual investors.

NEW YORK (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - The Chase Manhattan Bank (USA) (NYSE: CMB), the Delaware affiliate of The Chase Manhattan Bank, has reached agreement to acquire the credit card portfolio of The First National Bank of Boston and its affiliate, Bank of Boston Connecticut. At the same time Chase has acquired the credit card portfolio of Investors Savings Bank of Richmond, Va.

Chase's fourth and fifth acquisitions of 1989, the portfolios -- consisting of both MasterCard and VISA -- represent combined outstandings of $660 million. The Bank of Boston portfolio has $625 million in outstandings, the Investors Savings Bank portfolio approximately $35 million.

The Bank of Boston acquisition is subject to governmental review. Earlier in 1989 Chase purchased the portfolios of Michigan National Bank, Meritor Financial Group (Philadelphia) and Leader Federal Bank for Savings (Memphis).

As a result of its acquisitions and its own marketing efforts, Chase has added three million cardholder accounts during l989. With nine million accounts, Chase is the second largest credit card bank in the United States.

Chase is also second in unsecured revolving credit, with more than $9 billion in outstandings.

David J. Cornell, Chase vice president in charge of credit card portfolio acquisition, said, "Because of the high quality of their accounts these two portfolios make ideal additions to Chase's cardholder base. BOSTON (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Bank of Boston Corporation (NYSE: BKB) today announced that it expects to make an estimated $280 million provision for credit losses and expects net chargeoffs to approximate $300 million in the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989. Additionally, the corporation announced the sale of its credit card business to Chase Manhattan and a gain from the settlement of certain pension obligations.

Ira Stepanian, chairman and chief executive officer, indicated that the reserve and chargeoff actions reflect the corporation's response to the further deterioration of the environment in New England in the fourth quarter and to continuing uncertain economic conditions for 1990.

Bank of Boston's total credit loss reserve will be approximately $925 million, or about 85 percent of the estimated $1.1 billion in nonaccrual loans and leases. By comparison, at Sept. 30, 1989, total nonaccrual loans and leases were $1.5 billion, and the credit loss reserve was $942 million, or 62 percent. These reserve and nonaccrual totals include the corporation's non-trade-related, cross-border loans to Less Developed Countries (LDCs), which are now only about $200 million. By combining all credit loss reserves and all nonaccrual loans, the reserve for LDC loans, which was previously reported separately at 100 percent, effectively becomes the same percentage as for other nonaccrual loans, or about 85 percent.

Total nonperforming assets will be approximately $1.7 billion at year-end, including approximately $600 million in Other Real Estate Owned (OREO). The decrease from $1.8 billion at Sept. 30 is mainly a result of chargeoffs taken in the fourth quarter.

Stepanian said that the corporation expects to break even for the fourth quarter after realizing approximately $195 million in pre-tax gains from the sale of its credit card business and the funding of a portion of its pension obligations with annuity contracts. Bank of Boston previously reported net income of $62 million for the first nine months of 1989 and thus expects to show a profit for the full year.

Bank of Boston's sale of its credit card business to Chase Manhattan will contribute approximatley $145 million to fourth- quarter income.

The corporation will also realize approximately $50 million in gains from funding a portion of its pension obligations with annuity contracts purchased from two nationally recognized insurers. Purchasing annuities is an increasingly common method of pension financing, which in no way affects pension payments to retirees.

DALLAS (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Maxus Energy Corporation (NYSE: MXS) approved an exploration and development program budget of USD 320 million for 1990, an increase from approximately USD 200 million for 1989.

"The increase is primarily attributable to an aggressive development program in the Southeast Sumatra area of Indonesia," said Chairman C.L. Blackburn.

"Approximately USD 120 million will be spent developing the Intan and Widuri fields and constructing a permanent processing facility for completion in late 1990."

Production from these fields in Southeast Sumatra is expected to reach 120,000 gross barrels per day by the end of 1990 and 220,000 gross barrels per day, or approximately 60,000 net barrels, by late 1991. Total spending in production sharing contract areas of Indonesia next year will be USD 164 million.

Spending in other international areas will be USD 25 million, of which USD 5 million is dedicated to a development program in Ecuador.

North American program spending will be USD 125 million. An additional USD 4 million has been allocated for the Maxus Frontier Group, a new exploration unit with the initial territorial scope of Europe, Asia Minor, Africa and selected North American areas.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Gartner Group, Inc., the leading research company in the information industries, has reported to its clients that in 1990 IBM will announce new personal computers to be used in trucks, aircraft, ships and cars for Mobile Satellite Services (MSS) and Specialized Mobile Radio (SMR).

The Gartner Group chief MSS analyst, John Pemberton, wrote that IBM will announce an on-board PC to be used with the Radio Determination Satellite Services, an MSS system produced by Washington-based Geostar Corporation (an IBM business partner). He also noted that IBM's on- board PC will likely support Motorola's ConveragePLUS SMR System as well as other MSS and SMR systems.

Gartner Group predicted that in 1995, 2 million MSS terminals worth $4 billion will be sold worldwide for MSS systems, up from 1989's current 20,000-terminal level ($50 million).

This would be a compound annual growth of 150 percent, exceeding even the desktop PC industry, which grew at a rate of over 50 percent from 1981 to 1986, a strong growth period.

IBM is not new to mobile communications. It was involved in a mobile communications project for the Baltimore police department. Furthermore, its field service force has a nationwide SMR system based on its popular 3270 terminal.

Gartner Group reported that IBM's introduction of an on-board PC could further accelerate efforts to integrate mobile operations into existing information services systems.

Additional support for Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) and Systems Application Architecture (SAA) are two of the potential user benefits Gartner Group sees resulting from IBM's entry into this market.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - A work plan outlining the scope of Niagara Mohawk's (NYSE: NMK) organizational and management self assessment has been approved by all parties to the company's recent regulatory settlement agreement.

That agreement, approved by the state Public Service Commission in October called for the company to undertake a comprehensive review of its organization with a goal of achieving maximum operating effectiveness and efficiency.

Parties to the agreement with Niagara Mohawk include the staff of the Public Service Commission, the Attorney General, the Consumer Protection Board and Multiple Intervenors.

"The overall goal of self assessment is to place the company in a position to manage itself more effectively and efficiently, achieving a continual enhancement of customer and shareholder value," said William J. Donlon, chairman and chief executive officer of Niagara Mohawk.

The work plan identifies nine focus areas to be examined during the self assessment. They are budgeting, planning, meeting customer needs, government relations, environmental awareness, management development, teamwork/communications, activity value analysis, and building capacity for continued self assessment.

Recommendations and plans to optimize these skills will be the result of the self assessment, and will be included in a final report to the PSC in November.

The agreement with the various groups established a financial interest coverage ratio floor of 1.6 times through the deferral of recognition, for financial reporting purposes, of certain expenses which are to be recovered in future rates. As per the agreement, approval of the work plan will offer the company the opportunity to achieve targeted interest coverage levels higher than 1.6 times during 1990.

Work plan approval will permit the company to defer a certain amount of expenses for future recovery in an effort to achieve a target coverage level of 1.75 times for the first six months of this year.

Donlon stressed that there is no assurance, however, that targeted coverage levels will be achieved since such levels are dependent on actual results of operations and exclude extraordinary losses.

HEWLETT, N.Y. (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Anchor Savings Bank FSB (NASDAQ/NMS: ABKR), Hewlett, N.Y., today announced that it was not paying a dividend on its outstanding $157 million cumulative preferred stock due the beginning of January. Anchor's preferred stock, originally issued to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, is now held by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) as custodian for the FSLIC Resolution Fund. Anchor stated that it was prohibited from paying the dividend by regulations of the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) which bar capital distributions by institutions not meeting their regulatory capital requirements.

As previously announced, Anchor does not satisfy the recently adopted capital requirements of the OTS, in part because their regulations do not permit Anchor to include its preferred stock as capital. In making the announcement, James M. Large, chairman and chief executive officer of Anchor, stressed that, "Anchor has the full ability to make the payment but is simply complying with the requirements of the law." He added that

"Anchor continues to believe that these new capital requirements, which result from the recent passage of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989, should not apply to Anchor in view of previous agreements with the government. The bank will, nevertheless, refrain from paying the dividend until the matter is resolved."

Large also stated that, "Anchor has already commenced negotiations with the FDIC regarding the conversion of the preferred stock to an instrument that can be counted as capital for all regulatory purposes by the OTS." Large further stated that, "Conversion of Anchor's preferred stock would go a long way towards helping Anchor meet its capital requirements." He added that, he "was encouraged by the positive note on which negotiations had begun and was hopeful that an agreement acceptable to the FDIC and the bank could be reached before the end of the first quarter of 1990.

"Additionally," Large said, "Anchor will be presenting a capital plan to the OTS on Jan. 8, 1990. The plan will outline steps Anchor proposes to take to obtain the required capital levels." Large further stated, "We are pleased with the way the plan is coming together."

Large concluded by noting that, "The bank's performance continues to improve and I am optimistic about Anchor's long term prospects."

Anchor Savings Bank is among the 25 largest U.S. thrifts. It operates 125 branches in four market areas: 65 in metropolitan New York/New Jersey, 18 in upstate New York, 24 in Georgia, and 18 in Florida. Anchor also has a major mortgage banking presence through two wholly owned subsidiaries Anchor Mortgage Services, Inc. and Residential Funding Corporation.

SAN FRANCISCO (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - The Pacific Stock Exchange (PSE) announced today that it is reallocating options on three underlying securities, and moving six others, on the options trading floor in San Francisco. The unprecedented decision will be effective at the opening of trading on Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1990, and is intended to improve the quality of markets made in those issues. No other options exchange has ever reassigned issues to new trading pits because of a trading crowd's poor performance evaluations.

Three issues will be reallocated to different posts on the floor: Gannett Co. Inc. (GCI), Reynolds Metals Corp. (RLM), and Stone Container Corp. (STO). Those issues represent nearly 50 percent of the trading volume in the affected crowd.

Reallocation of the issues was prompted by an "unsatisfactory" trading crowd evaluation over two consecutive quarters made by the PSE's Options Listing Committee. The affected market makers have appealed the decision to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The Exchange was notified by the SEC this past week that the reallocation could proceed pending consideration of the appeal.

The Exchange announced that six other issues also traded in the GCI/RLM/STO crowd would be combined with those of another trading post, to improve the quality of markets in those issues. These are Calfed Inc. (CAL), Enserch Corp. (ENS), Maxus Energy Corp. (MXS), Murphy Oil Corp. (MUR), Scientific-Atlanta Inc. (SFA), and Stanley Works (SWK). This action also takes effect on Jan. 2, 1990.

The appeal by the affected market makers of the PSE's decision awaits SEC action. In its order allowing the reallocation to become effective, however, the SEC indicated it "expressly reserves the right to dismiss this proceeding at a later time if it determines that the PSE's action in reallocating the options at issue here is not properly subject to commission review."

PHILADELPHIA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Dechert Price & Rhoads said today the following statement is being provided at the request of its client, George Strawbridge Jr., who, together with members of his immediate family is the beneficial owner of approximately 3 million shares, 2.5 percent of the outstanding common stock of the Campbell Soup Company:

There has been some public speculation about my intentions with regard to my investment in Campbell Soup Company common stock.

I believe that Campbell has a tremendous potential to increase its profitability. It is common knowledge that Campbell's brands are among the best in the world and that outstanding brands are the key to future profitability in the food industry. In addition, the Board of Directors has identified an extraordinary new CEO who I am confident will be able to capitalize on these unique brands and build shareholder value for the future.

I believe it would be shortsighted to take a merger premium now, just as the tremendous potential values of Campbell are about to be tapped by a new CEO. Any merger premium will not disappear in the future and I believe that future values will be much greater as Campbell demonstrates the full value of its franchise.

In summary, I believe that shareholders will realize the greatest value for their stock by the Campbell Soup Company remaining independent at this time. My shares are not for sale.

NEW YORK (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - The Image Bank Inc. (NASDAQ: TIBI) announced results for its fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1989 and for its 1989 fourth quarter. The company is filing a notification of late filing on Form 12b-25 with respect to its 1989 Annual Report on Form 10-K. Although the announced results are unaudited, the company believes that such results are substantially the same as will be reported in its 1989 Form 10-K, which the company expects to file on or before Jan. 12, 1990. Operating results were announced on a pro forma basis to reflect adjustments reducing officers' compensation to amounts prescribed in employment agreements and the company's executive bonus plan, effective August 1989, and to provide for federal and state income taxes as if the company had not been an S corporation prior to August 1989.

Total revenues for the 1989 fiscal year increased 29 percent to $36,496,000 from $28,198,000 in fiscal 1988. Pro forma income from continuing operations declined by 38 percent to $838,000 in fiscal 1989 from $1,341,000 in fiscal 1988. The company incurred a loss from the operation of the discontinued Art Kane Photo Workshop for fiscal 1989 of $494,000, net of pro forma income tax benefits of $350,000.

For the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989, the company had total revenues of $10,250,000, a 21 percent increase from revenues of $8,444,000 reported in the 1988 fourth quarter. Pro forma income from continuing operations for the 1989 fourth quarter was $214,000 as compared with $574,000 in the corresponding 1988 quarter, a decrease of 63 percent. The 1989 fourth quarter loss from the Art Kane Photo Workshop was $387,000, net of pro forma income tax benefits.

On a historical basis, the company reported income from continuing operations of $780,000 in fiscal 1989, as compared to $1,893,000 in fiscal 1988. Repeating his comments previously stated on Dec. 12, 1989, Stanley Kanney, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "We are pleased with the company's strong revenue performance in fiscal 1989, which we believe will continue. We believe we will be able to achieve a strong earnings recovery in 1990."

TOKYO (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - On Monday, Jan. 1, Dr. Shoichiro Toyoda, the president of Toyota Motor Corporation, released his annual New Year's message to the worlds' press.

In his remarks, Dr. Toyoda reviewed the accomplishments of the past year, as well as the challenges that lay ahead for 1990 and beyond. As Dr. Toyoda sees it, these challenges are not limited strictly to business aspects of our lives but also include many humanistic concerns as well. His statement follows:

As globalization begins to take on real meaning for Toyota, we have begun to realize the value and importance of integrating into the communities where we do business. We are working hard to be a positive contributing factor in these local communities, economies and societies. Last year, in line with this policy, we undertook a number of new projects.

Major examples are the start of joint production with Volkswagen in West Germany, resumed manufacturing in the Philippines, the announcement of two new manufacturing plants in the United Kingdom, the decision to manufacture trucks at New United Motor Manufacturing, Inc. (NUMMI) in the United States, start of full-scale production at Toyota Motor Manufacturing Canada Inc., and inauguration of engine production at the power train plant of Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A., Inc.

Thanks to integration with local communities and support from residents, these overseas activities started up smoothly, and last year's overseas production rose to 490,000 units, up 102 percent over 1988's figure. As a result, exports declined 8 percent to 1.67 million units.

Buttressed by the healthy economy, the entire domestic market last year grew 7 percent to 7.2 million units, an all-time high. As for Toyota, the launch of new and attractive cars, in addition to diligent sales efforts by dealers, brought domestic sales to 2.3 million units, an increase of 8 percent over the previous year's sales.

All told, Toyota's domestic production, including export vehicles, rose 1 percent last year to 3.98 million units.

For 1990, Toyota has drawn up ambitious plans both for Japan and abroad. In overseas operations, preparations are scheduled to get under way for manufacturing in the United Kingdom, truck production at NUMMI, and expansion of production at existing plants overseas. We expect these steps to boost overseas production in 1990 by 32 percent to about 650,000 units.

As far as exports are concerned, we believe that European and Asian markets are likely to continue growing, though we do not expect the United States market to recover its past strength. With this in mind, we foresee that overseas sales will rise slightly, which puts our goal for exports roughly at last year's level of 1.68 million units.

Meanwhile, in the domestic sphere, personal consumption and capital spending were solid in the past year, and the GNP growth rate in real terms for 1989 was 4 percent. This strength is expected to continue, and the automobile market overall is likely to rise 6 percent to roughly 7.6 million units in 1990. For the coming year, Toyota's plans call for domestic sales of roughly 2.48 million units.

As a result, domestic production, including units for export, is projected to rise 5 percent to roughly 4.16 million units.

On a down note, the number of traffic accidents in Japan last year showed a large increase, something that as an automaker we find particularly tragic. For more than 20 years now, we have organized the Toyota Traffic Safety Campaign in the spring and fall in our ongoing effort to improve traffic safety awareness among a wide variety of people, especially young children. Recently, the campaign has incorporated a Young Drivers' Clinic to promote the understanding of safety in driving. And in the future, both inside and outside the company, Toyota will be taking even more aggressive action to prevent accidents and promote traffic safety.

We are therefore ready to make every effort to contribute to society not only through our business operations, but also through social and cultural activities, as well as measures aimed at solving the important environmental problems facing all of us today. We hope we can count on your support.

BRENTWOOD, TN (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - United Cities Gas Co., (NASDAQ: UCIT), the Nashville area-based natural and propane gas distributor, announced today it has completed the acquisition of Union Gas System, Inc. in Kansas. The $55 million transaction was made effective December 20,

United Cities paid Union Holdings, Inc., the parent company of Union Gas, $20 million in cash and assumed $15 million in long-term debt, $5 million in short-term debt, and approximately $15 million in other outstanding liabilities. Union Gas System, Inc., a local distribution company serving 65,000 customers in southeastern and northeastern Kansas, had revenues of $38 million last year.

In making the announcement, Gene C. Koonce, United Cities' president and chief executive officer, said, "We are pleased to add Kansas to our multi-state operation and believe we have made an attractive investment." Koonce pointed out that the two counties where most of Union Gas' customers reside, represent excellent potential for expansion. "Both Wyandotte and Johnson County include small cities and rural communities that offer long-term economic growth."

Koonce has selected Donald L. Howard to head the Kansas division of United Cities. "Don's record of achievement as vice-president of our Georgia/South Carolina division, along with his 26 years of experience with the company, make him the ideal person to head United Cities' newest service territory. Earlier this year, the company acquired Great River Gas Company, which served 17,000 customers in Iowa and Missouri, as well as two propane companies located in Middle Tennessee. Union Gas is United Cities' largest acquisition and adds an eleventh state to United Cities' service territory as well as a twelfth pipeline supplier.

United Cities Gas Company distributes natural and propane gas to approximately 280,000 customers in eleven states. The company is also engaged in other energy related businesses.

PHILADELPHIA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - MCI (NASDAQ-NMS: MCIC) today announced a major contract to provide public pay telephone service to two Philadelphia airports.

The three-year, $10.5 million contract between the city of Philadelphia and MCI Mid-Atlantic will provide a long distance service to pay phone customers at Philadelphia International and Northeast Philadelphia Airports.

The agreement includes two optional one-year extensions, making it a potential five-year contract exceeding $18 million to $20 million, according to Gerald H. Taylor, president of MCI's Mid-Atlantic Division. Under the agreement, MCI will provide "0 +" services to customers making collect, third-party, person-to-person and credit card calls at any of the 550 pay phones at the two airports, which service the nation's fourth largest city.

MCI has vigorously pursued the national pay phone market -- worth $2 billion annually -- which was opened by court order to non-AT&T carriers earlier this year. The decision by Federal Court Judge Harold Greene was the latest milestone in telephone deregulation.

Nationwide, MCI's client roster for pay phone accounts include Chrysler Corporation; Firestone, Inc.; Peoples Drug Co.; Marshalls department stores; and Cumberland Farms, a national chain of 1,200 convenience stores among others.

MCI is the world's second largest long-distance provider, supplying a full range of voice and data telecommunications services to business and residential customers, as well as a growing number of government agencies. MCI's long-distance service enables customers to call throughout the United States and dial direct to 163 nations representing 99 percent of overseas calling from the United States.

MCI Mid-Atlantic serves customers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

ARGONNE, IL (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Westinghouse Electric Corp. (NYSE: WX) and the Superconductivity Pilot Center at the U.S. Department of Energy's Argonne National Laboratory have agreed to a joint research project to develop electrical current leads that incorporate high-temperature superconductors, it was announced today.

Current leads connect devices that use electricity to sources of electrical current.

The first lead using high-temperature superconductors was fabricated by Argonne and shipped to Westinghouse for testing in December.

The project could benefit superconducting magnetic energy storage technologies and make it easier to use superconducting technologies in space. Argonne and Westinghouse will each contribute $60,000 to the six-month project. No money will change hands.

High-temperature superconductors are recently discovered ceramics that lose all resistance to electricity when cooled by liquid nitrogen. Previously known metallic superconductors, called low-temperature superconductors, must be cooled to nearly absolute zero by relatively expensive, hard to handle liquid helium.

The Argonne-Westinghouse project aims at developing current leads that use high-temperature superconductors to connect low-temperature superconductors to sources of current.

Existing superconducting technologies are based on low-temperature superconductors, which are connected to current sources by leads made from normal conductors, such as copper. But resistive heating in normal conductors converts liquid helium to gas, which either escapes from the system or needs reconversion to liquid, a process which requires much energy.

Leads of high-temperature superconductors could eliminate resistive heating and conserve liquid helium, an important consideration in certain circumstances, such as in space, where helium replacement could be prohibitively expensive.

For large-scale, earth-bound applications, such as magnetic energy storage current leads of ceramic superconductors could reduce helium losses by providing better thermal insulation than metal leads between the outside environment and the helium-cooled environment of the superconductor.

The Engineering Technology Division at the Westinghouse Science and Technology Center in Pittsburgh will participate in design and will test the new current leads. Argonne will fabricate high-temperature-superconducting leads and mate them to other lead components.

Long known for its pioneering role in applying superconductivity, Westinghouse developed the world's first commercial metallic superconducting wires and magnetic coils in the early 1960s, and designed the first commercial-sized superconducting electrical generator a decade ago.

Argonne's Superconductivity Pilot Center was one of three created at national laboratories last year by the U.S. Department of Energy to foster joint industry-government programs to speed the transfer of new superconducting technology to the marketplace. Funding for the pilot centers comes from DOE's Office of Conservation and Renewable Energy.

Argonne National Laboratory has the nation's largest federally funded research program in superconductivity. Some 100 Argonne employees are working on various aspects of superconductors.

Argonne National Laboratory is operated by the University of Chicago for the U. S. Department of Energy.

RICHMOND, VA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - CSX Corp. (NYSE: CSX) today reported fourth quarter earnings rose to $125 million, $1.25 per share, in 1989.

This compares with the $122 million, $1.01 per share, earned by the company in the same period last year.

The fourth quarter results increased 1989 earnings to $452 million, or $4.34 per share. This compares with $147 million, or 93 cents per share, for 1988 which included a special charge that reduced earnings $492 million, $3.36 per share.

Additionally, Snow noted that the annual operating results of American Commercial Lines, the company's inland maritime unit, were well ahead of a year ago even though its operations in the fourth quarter also were significantly interrupted by severe December weather.

Earnings from continuing operations were $126 million, $1.26 per share, and $427 million, $4.09 per share, for the fourth quarter and year of 1989 respectively. For the same 1988 periods, earnings (loss) from continuing operations were $126 million, $1.04 per share, for the quarter and $(38) million, (33) cents per share, for the year, which reflects the special charge.

During the fourth quarter, the company completed its 60 million common share repurchase program, which lowered total outstanding shares by 38 percent since the program was announced September 1988. The program provided $1.9 billion in cash proceeds, an average of $32.03 per share, to shareholders who participated. Earnings per share for the fourth quarter and year reflect these transactions, which lowered the weighted average shares outstanding for the fourth quarter of 1989 by 17 percent, compared with the prior-year quarter.

Total operating revenue from continuing operations was $2 billion for the fourth quarter and $7.7 billion for all of 1989. This compares with $2 billion and $7.6 billion, respectively, for the fourth quarter and year 1988. Operating expenses were $1.8 billion compared with $1.8 billion during fourth quarter 1988 and $6.9 billion for the year vs. $7.4 billion for 1988, which included the pretax special charge.

Rail revenue for the quarter declined $56 million, or 4 percent, compared with the fourth quarter of 1988, as a result of lower traffic levels. One of the most dramatic declines occurred in automotive traffic, which fell 22 percent due to the well-publicized lower sales figures. Other categories experiencing declines were metals, intermodal and paper and forest products.

PHILADELPHIA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter (R-Pa.) today announced that Conrail (NYSE: CRR) has agreed not to exercise a $1 million lien it currently holds against Steamtown for 20 miles of track Steamtown purchased from the rail corporation.

This debt had been holding up the U.S. National Park Service's plan to develop a commuter rail line between Scranton, Pa.'s Steamtown and the Delaware Water Gap.

Specter made his announcement following a meeting here at Conrail's corporate headquarters during which the rail company was persuaded by Specter and former Gov. William Scranton to forgive the debt.

Attending the meeting for Conrail were its board Chairman James Hagen, Senior Vice President for Development Charles Marshall and corporate secretary Allan Schimmel. With Specter and Scranton were Austin Burke, president of the Scranton Chamber of Commerce; Dr. John Latschar, superintendent of Steamtown National Park, and representatives from U.S. Sen. John Heinz's (R-Pa.) Philadelphia office.

The meeting, which lasted for more than an hour, began with Hagen pointing out that the steel rails along the 20 miles of track in question were very valuable in today's market and worth more than the $1 million which Steamtown owed for it.

After considerable discussion including Hagen's suggestion that the National Park Service lease the track for a period to see if the commuter line could be viable economically, he agreed to forego the debt in exchange for a provision that Conrail can reclaim the trackage if the project does not go forward.

Because the federal government cannot purchase property with reversionary clauses, Conrail agreed to sell the 20-mile stretch to the Lackawanna County Rail Authority for $1 with the proviso that Conrail can reclaim the trackage if, for whatever reasons, the National Park Service cannot make a go of the commuter line.

The National Park Service had indicated an unwillingness to go forward with the line with a vital piece of it -- the Moscow to Pocono Summit -- still up in the air. The service will pay $1.7 million to Conrail for the Pocono Summit to Delaware Water Gap part of the line, but was holding up on this until it was certain that the whole line was in hand.

Scranton had explained to the rail officials that the $1 million which Conrail was insisting on collecting could not be raised because Steamtown had turned over all its assets to the park service. Specter noted that the Congress had just allocated $12 million for Steamtown National Park and that it would be very difficult to go back now and seek $1 million now. In any event, he said, it would take considerable time and he wanted to see the project move ahead now.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - GTE Corp. (NYSE: GTE) announced today that it is making a voluntary $100.6 million reduction in interstate switched access charges to long-distance carriers.

Tariffs were filed with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to implement this reduction in switched access charges effective Jan. 1, 1990.

Access charges are assessed against long-distance carriers for their use of local telephone networks on long-distance calls.

"We're pleased that our telephone operations restructuring and downsizing are proceeding on target to improve our competitiveness in the 1990s," said Karen Smith, GTE Telephone Operations assistant vice president-regulatory programs.

The reduction in access charges will lower costs for long-distance carriers, which may result in lower long-distance rates for customers. Each long-distance provider is expected to determine whether it will be passing on any savings to its customers from the reduction of access charges.

"GTE will continue to improve its efficiency," Smith said, "and we are hopeful that we will be able to offer similar reductions in the future."

GTE Telephone Operations provides service to 14 million customers through 14.6 million access lines in portions of 31 states and two foreign countries. Revenues in 1988 totaled $11.6 billion. GTE Telephone Operations has 104,000 domestic and international employees.

GTE's subsidiaries operate in 46 states and 41 countries, with combined revenues and sales of $16.5 billion and net income of $1.2 billion in 1988. CLEVELAND (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - The Tranzonic Companies (AMEX: TNZ), the Cleveland-based manufacturer/distributor of paper, cloth and vinyl products, today announced record earnings for the the third quarter and nine months ended November 30.

Current fiscal year third quarter net income was $1,345,000, or 37 cents per share, up 15 percent from the $1,166,600, or 33 cents per share, of the year-ago period. It was the 14th consecutive quarter in which the company has had year-to-year earnings gains. Sales amounted to $25,407,600 21 percent above the $20,936,300 of last year's third quarter.

Nine-month net income amounted to $4,193,900, or $1.15 per share, up 14 percent from the $3,667,600, or $1.02 per share, of last year's first three quarters. Current year nine-month sales were $72,462,700, an increase of 21 percent over the $59,986,200 of last year.

Robert S. Reitman, chairman and chief executive officer, said that the third quarter earnings gain resulted from the increase in sales particularly of new products and effective control of selling and administrative expenses. He noted that Baxter Tube Company, purchased June 1, 1989, contributed to the sales and earnings increase.

The company said that nine-month results for both years were positively affected by reduction in the income tax provision in each year's first quarter. In the current year's first period, Tranzonic implemented the Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 96 (Accounting for Income Taxes) which resulted in a cumulative adjustment of $701,500, or 19 cents per share. Last year, the company realized a $606,000, or 17 cents per share, credit to income taxes from a change in an accounting estimate.

Tranzonic consists of four divisions. Its Personal Care Division, in addition to manufacturing adult incontinent briefs, produces and distributes feminine napkins, children's disposable elastic-leg diapers, obstetrical pads and related products. The Industrial Textiles Division packages and distributes industrial wiping products and related items while the Housewares Division designs, produces and markets laundry accessories, personal travel organizers, cedar storage and closet organization products. HOUSTON (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Seagull Energy Corp. (NYSE: SGO) announced today that it has completed its acquisition of the assets of Houston Oil Trust (AMEX: HO).

Holders of a majority of HO's outstanding units approved Seagull's offer to purchase the assets at a special meeting called by the trustee, First City, Texas--Houston, N.A., on Dec. 19, 1989. With the formal closing of the acquisition, eligible HO unitholders of record as of Jan. 2, 1990, have until Feb. 16, 1990, to elect one of two payment options for their units.

They can receive $2.05 per unit in cash, or $1.45 per unit in cash plus $1.00 per unit principal amount of a new Seagull eight percent contingent tax litigation note. Holders of less than 100 units can elect only the cash.

The cash portion of either option will be reduced by the trustee's establishment of reserves for certain trust liabilities and expenses. Seagull and the trustee estimate that the reserve for trustee expenses will total approximately five cents per unit, resulting in net cash distributions under the two alternatives of $2.00 and $1.40, respectively.

The exact cost of the acquisition to Seagull will not be known until all unitholders have elected their payment option. The aggregate consideration will range from $66.4 million if all unitholders elect the cash-only option to approximately $47 million in cash plus $32.4 million of contingent notes if the combination option is elected to the maximum extent possible.

"The acquisition is extremely positive for Seagull," noted Chairman Barry J. Galt. "HO holds interest in properties for which Seagull has been the working interest owner since we acquired Houston Oil & Minerals Corporation from Tenneco in November 1988.

"Now that we have purchased the HO interests, we will be in a much better position to manage those properties efficiently," he explained. "We also can realize substantial cost savings from eliminating the expenses associated with maintaining the trust."

ATLANTA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Georgia-Pacific Corp. (NYSE: GP) said today that the owners of more than 27,791,385 (50.4 percent) of Great Northern Nekoosa Corp.'s (NYSE: GNN) outstanding shares, far more than the 33 1/3 percent necessary, had called a special meeting of Great Northern shareholders.

Georgia-Pacific said the primary purpose of the special meeting will be to consider the removal of impediments to its $63-per-share all-cash offer, including removal of the entire current board of directors and election of a slate of Georgia-Pacific nominees as new directors of Great Northern.

Georgia-Pacific said it had delivered the "calls" to Great Northern earlier today. Georgia-Pacific said that within 15 days Great Northern is required to set a date for the special meeting that is not more than 60 days from today.

In light of Great Northern's continued refusal to negotiate, Georgia-Pacific said it believed that the interests of Great Northern's shareholders would be best served by electing a new slate of directors who will be more responsive to Georgia-Pacific's offer. If elected, the new board will, subject to their fiduciary duties, redeem Great Northern's rights plan "poison pill" and approve Georgia-Pacific's cash tender offer and merger proposal for the company.

Georgia-Pacific said it had filed soliciting material for the special meeting with the Securities and Exchange Commission and expected to begin soliciting proxies in favor of Georgia-Pacific's proposals to be presented at the meeting as soon as such material is available.

"The response of Great Northern's shareholders to our call solicitation is remarkable," said T. Marshall Hahn Jr., Georgia-Pacific's chairman and chief executive officer. "In just seven business days since the record date, more than 50 percent of Great Northern's shareholders have taken action to call the special meeting. Separately, as of our last extension, more than 73 percent of Great Northern's shares already had been tendered to us. Shareholders have clearly shown that they want the opportunity to consider the removal of Great Northern's current board so as to be able to consider for themselves the merits of our offer."

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Genetics Institute, Inc. (NASDAQ: GENI) today announced that it expects to report a net loss of approximately $29 million on revenues of approximately $43 million for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1989. This is compared with a net loss of $11,240,000 on revenues of $29,684,000 for fiscal 1988.

The preliminary results for fiscal 1989 include a one-time earnings charge of $9 million as the result of a contractual dispute with Boehringer Mannheim relating to the production of erythropoietin (EPO). As previously announced, the dispute relates to the production process used by Genetics Institute to manufacture EPO in fiscal 1989 under a supply agreement with Boehringer Mannheim and does not relate to the quality of the EPO produced. Genetics Institute's decision to take the charge against earnings in fiscal 1989 reflects its uncertainty that it will be able to collect the full amount of revenue recognized as the result of EPO produced for Boehringer in 1989.

In addition, the net loss for fiscal 1989 is larger than anticipated because a license agreement with Burroughs Wellcome Co. for novel plasminogen activator (NPA), which had been expected to be signed in fiscal 1989, was finalized in early fiscal 1990. Therefore, initial payments under such license agreement will be reflected in the results for the first quarter of 1990 rather than fiscal 1989.

Genetics Institute is a leading biotechnology firm engaged in the discovery and development of human pharmaceuticals through recombinant DNA technology. The company has a diversified portfolio of licensed and proprietary pharmaceutical products.

BOSTON (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Armstrong Laboratories, Inc. (OTC) of West Roxbury, Mass. has reported its results of operations for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1989.

Armstrong had sales of $12,971,000 and net income of $1,143,000 for the year compared with sales of $11,071,000 and net income of $940,000 for the previous fiscal year.

This represents approximately a 17 percent increase in net sales and a 122 percent increase in net income.

Armstrong has 12,052,245 shares outstanding of which 10 million shares (83 percent) are held by ATI Pharmaceuticals, Inc.

"Despite increased production, Armstrong's backlog of orders has remained high as a result of unprecedented demand for its expertise and technologies," Shepherd said. "Armstrong also continues to work with major pharmaceutical companies interested in strategic alliances to explore opportunities for new inhalation products."

Armstrong is a major producer of inhalation pharmaceuticals as well as the largest third party manufacturer of sterile saline aerosols.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - Genetics Institute, Inc. (NASDAQ: GENI) announced today that it has licensed rights to market its novel plasminogen activator (NPA) product in all countries of the world, with the exception of certain Far East countries, to Burroughs Wellcome Co., a part of Wellcome plc. NPA is a new thrombolytic (blood-clot dissolving) agent being developed for the treatment of heart-attack patients, and has been shown in animal studies to have improved characteristics as compared with other thrombolytic agents currently on the market.

"We are hopeful that NPA will provide greater ease of use and a lower dosage requirement than tissue plasminogen activator (tPA), which may result in fewer side effects. NPA is also expected to show an absence of antigenic reactions sometimes seen with streptokinase agents," said Patrick Gage, Ph.D., Senior Vice President of Scientific Affairs at Genetics Institute. "Indeed, NPA may represent a logical replacement product for other thrombolytic therapy products now being marketed," Gage noted.

Under the terms of the agreement, Genetics Institute will receive payments from Wellcome in the form of licensing fees and royalties. The parties anticipate that NPA will eventually be manufactured for Wellcome by WelGen Manufacturing Partnership, a Rhode Island-based, large-scale manufacturing joint venture between Genetics Institute and Wellcome.

"This is an excellent collaboration for Genetics Institute," said Gabriel Schmergel, President and Chief Executive Officer of Genetics Institute. "Wellcome has the developmental resources and large, hospital-based sales and distribution organization required to develop and market NPA. It has also gained valuable experience in the field of thrombolytic therapy through its extensive plasminogen activator clinical development program," Schmergel stated.

Genetics Institute developed NPA as part of its cardiovascular research program. The Company expects that U.S. clinical testing of NPA will begin under the direction of Wellcome in heart-attack patients during 1990. Genetics Institute licensed marketing rights for NPA in Japan, Korea and Taiwan to Suntory Ltd. in 1988. Clinical testing of NPA in Japan is also expected to start in 1990.

NPA is a plasminogen activator genetically engineered to enhance its properties as a thrombolytic agent useful in the treatment of heart-attack patients. Most heart attacks occur when a blood clot forms inside one of the arteries supplying oxygen to the heart muscle. NPA activates plasminogen which is an enzyme that can break down these blood clots, allowing blood to flow again through the artery. This reduces damage to the heart muscle, preserves heart muscle function and can reduce mortality. The use of such clot dissolving therapy has gained attention in recent years with the introduction of tPA.

NPA has been engineered to have a longer half-life, or time of activity in the blood, than tPA. Extensive preclinical testing has shown NPA to be effective at significantly lower doses than tPA. NPA's longer half-life and lower dose are expected to allow easier and faster administration than tPA, which can be critical to the speedy and efficient treatment of heart attacks. TPA is currently administered over several hours by intravenous infusion, while NPA is expected to be administered as a single rapid bolus injection.

Genetics Institute is a leading biotechnology firm engaged in the discovery and development of human pharmaceuticals through recombinant DNA and related technologies.

Wellcome is an international group devoted to the research, development and marketing of products for the promotion of human health. Its origins go back more than a hundred years.

NEEDHAM, MA (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - LoJack Corp. (NASDAQ: LOJN) announced today that it expects to report increases in revenues from the sale of LoJack units and related products to consumers of 67 percent from $810,000 to $1.35 million for the third quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989. Consumer sales rose 48 percent from $2.7 million to $4 million for the nine months.

For the three months ended Nov. 30, 1989 total revenues are estimated to be $1,400,000 compared to $1,507,786 a year ago. The net loss for the third quarter is estimated to be $340,000 or ($.03) a share compared to net income of $56,594 or $.01 a share for the third quarter a year ago.

For the nine months ended Nov. 30, 1989, total revenues are estimated to be $4,075,000 compared to $3,687,717 a year ago. The net loss for the nine-month period in 1989 is estimated to be $1,000,000 or ($.09) a share compared to net income of $221,164, or $.02 a share a year ago.

During the three months and nine months, revenues from non- refundable fees associated with the granting of distributorships and revenues recognized in connection with the sale of components of the LoJack System and initial supplies of inventories to distributors are estimated to have decreased by $650,000 and $900,000 respectively.

In reporting the results, C. Michael Daley, president, said that the increased sale of LoJack units and related products of 68 percent in the third quarter represented a significant increase in the penetration of new car sales by LoJack units, and is especially gratifying in the face of decreased new car sales for the period.

"The decreases in revenues from fees and component sales to distributors are the results of the previously announced change in LoJack's strategy from using distributorships to LoJack's retaining majority ownership for each state's distributorship. This is the reason we acquired controlling interest of our New Jersey distributorship in November 1989. This strategy change will result in initial negative impact on revenues and earnings; however, the long-term benefit to LoJack should be significant once the LoJack System in each state becomes operational," he said.

Daley also said that in addition to the costs of the acquisition of the New Jersey distributor, costs associated with implementation of the LoJack System in Michigan, Illinois and Los Angeles, all of which are expected to become operational in 1990, and the defense against the lawsuit filed by Clifford Electronics, also contributed to the losses.

NEW CANAAN, CT (JAN. 2) PR NEWSWIRE - ATI Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (OTC) (formerly ATI, Inc.) has reported its results of operations for the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1989.

ATI had sales of $12,971,000, income before taxes, minority interest and extraordinary items of $1,394,000 and net income of $956,000 for the year compared with sales of $11,071,000, income before taxes, minority interest and extraordinary items of $1,251,000, and net income of $1,052,000 for the previous fiscal year.

This represents approximately a 17 percent increase in net sales and an 11 percent increase in income before taxes, minority interest and extraordinary items. The company noted that the current year's results included approximately $175,000 in expenses related to its proposed merger with its 83 percent subsidiary, Armstrong Laboratories, Inc. The merger will be the subject of an annual meeting to be held on Jan. 4 in New York City.

ATI presently has 9,834,546 shares outstanding. Armstrong has 12,052,245 shares outstanding of which 10 million shares are held by ATI.

H.R. Shepherd, chairman of the board, said that the company's year-end results reflect increased production at Armstrong of inhalation drug delivery systems and sterile saline sprays for use with contact lenses, categories in which Armstrong has pioneered and continues to specialize.

"Despite increased production, Armstrong's backlog of orders has remained high as a result of unprecedented demand for its expertise and technologies," Shepherd said. "Armstrong also continues to work with major pharmaceutical companies interested in strategic alliances to explore opportunities for new inhalation products."

Armstrong is a major producer of inhalation pharmaceuticals as well as the largest third-party manufacturer of sterile saline aerosols. ATI Pharmaceuticals, Inc. owns approximately 83 percent of the stock of Armstrong, its principal asset.

ATI and Armstrong stockholders meetings to be held on Jan. 4 will act upon a proposed merger of Armstrong with an ATI subsidiary pursuant to which the public stockholders of Armstrong would receive 821,000 shares (1 ATI share for each 2-1/2 Armstrong shares) in exchange for their Armstrong shares.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 2) UPI - After days of intense marathon bargaining, Pittston Coal Group and the United Mine Workers union sealed their tentative agreement to end a bitter and costly nine-month strike with a simple handshake.

Mass arrests punctuated the walkout by 1,700 workers in three states since the strike started April 5, and federal and state judges levied about $68 million in fines against the UMW for its use of non-violent, civil disobedience tactics to disrupt Pittston coal deliveries.

Specifics of the agreement announced Monday were not disclosed, pending notification of the striking miners. UMW President Richard Trumka predicted union members would embrace the agreement and be back to work within 10 days.

''Today's settlement is a very special holiday gift for all parties involved,'' Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole Dole announced at a news conference on New Year's Day. Dole had visited the coalfields in October and then appointed former Labor Secretary W.J. Usery to mediate the conflict.

Usery, who called the strike the most ''complex'' he had ever been involved in, had publicly hoped for a settlement before the holidays. The agreement was approved at about 10:30 p.m. EST New Year's Eve by handshake between Trumka and Paul Douglas, chairman of Pittston Coal Group's parent, The Pittston Co.

''I never guessed in my wildest dreams that his predictions of a settlement by the holidays was really practical, given the depth and the intensity of the issues,'' Douglas said at a news conference. ''We think we've met the essential objectives of all the parties involved.''

''I can't think of a better way to start the 1990s,'' Trumka said. ''Today for us, should be, I guess, a Thanksgiving Day.''

Dave Collins, president of UMW Local 1971 in West Virginia, said he understood the UMW bargained successfully in all three major sticking points - job security, health benefits and the retirement plan.

Miners worked 14 months without a contract before striking, and an emotional point dealt with Pittston cutting off health benefits to retirees, widows of miners and disabled miners as a way to pressure the union.

The strike began when Pittston stopped paying into a financially ailing national fund that provides health benefits for miners who retired between 1950 and 1974, saying it had paid all it owed the trust fund.

Pittston said it would establish a different but better private program. The company proposed in lieu of the old plan, which paid 100 percent of medical costs, a new plan that would pay only 80 percent up to a certain amount before providing full coverage.

Pittston also sought more flexible work hours, including at least one shift on Sunday, a traditional day off for miners. Virginia's largest coal producer said it needed the concessions to compete in the international coal market. Pittston is the country's largest exporter of metallurgical coal to Japan.

The strike quickly ballooned into a struggle of national significance with both sides saying their future depended on the contract in contention. At one point last summer, 46,000 miners were off the job in 10 states in sympathy strikes, and many wore the camouflage fatigues Pittston miners adopted as a strike uniform.

Shortly after federal and state judges issued orders limiting pickets at strike sites in April, the UMW started massive, peaceful sit-down protests in front of Pittston coal trucks.

The union followed that tactic with long, slow-moving convoys in front of coal trucks, and then in September invaded and briefly occupied Pittston's massive Moss No. 3 coal preparation plant near Carbo, Va., for four days.

During the strike, Virginia state troopers, in the coalfields at a cost of $1 million a month, arrested some 3,000 UMW members who tried to block Pittson trucks or disrupt its mining operations.

Pittston, meanwhile, kept its Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky mines running as best it could with supervisors and replacement workers. Coal severance tax records suggest production to be a third to a half of pre-strike levels, and financial analysts suggest the strike has cost Pittston $60 million in lost earnings.

The $68 million in contempt fines, among the largest ever levied in a strike, are under appeal, and Usery said Monday that federal officials may seek to have the fines dropped or reduced as part of the settlement.

Dole announced that while the pension and retirement benefits issue was settled in the Pittston dispute, she would form a federal commission to make recommendations on how to head off future disputes over such benefits.

Douglas thanked Dole for taking the ''political and other risks'' of getting involved and called the appointment of Usery ''a magical stroke.''

Trumka and Douglas said that without the Bush administration's intervention, the strike would not have been settled.

NEW EAGLE, Pa. (JAN. 2) UPI - Crews worked Tuesday to clean up as much as 10,000 gallons of Exxon-owned unleaded gasoline that spewed from a runaway petroleum barge, creating a 3-mile-long slick on the ice-choked

Monongahela River.

Barge MR-16 was carrying about 100,000 gallons of fuel when it bolted away from Lock No. 4 on the river near New Eagle about 9:20 a.m. Monday and began leaking, apparently after striking a bridge, officials said.

Workers were off-loading the remaining gasoline from the leaking barge.

''The towing company is off-loading the barge,'' Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources spokesman Rich Thomas said. ''We're anticipating that the barge will be off-loaded by about mid-morning.''

A second barge carrying gasoline remained stuck at Lock No. 4 in Charleroi but it was not leaking, Thomas said. Crews hoped to remove the barge from the lock Tuesday, he said.

All downstream water suppliers along the Ohio River and the Monongahela were notified as a precaution, said Betsy Mallison, DER spokeswoman. Water companies downriver from the spill did not report any gasoline contamination, she said.

''The water suppliers have all been alerted,'' Mallison said. ''They have been advised to fill up to their capacity so this would not be interrupted.''

Exxon USA spokesman Philip Wetz in Houston confirmed the gasoline was an Exxon product, but said Exxon did not operate the barge. Wetz said Exxon, which was widely criticized for its response to last year's Valdez, Alaska oil spill, contracted with Mon River Towing to haul the fuel.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency coordinated the spill cleanup effort. The Coast Guard notified the West Virginia Division of Natural Resources and Ohio authorities.

Another petroleum barge in the same area also broke away, but it was empty officials said. All three barges were owned by Mon River Towing, officials said.

The leaking barge was delivering gasoline to an Exxon terminal in Westover W.Va., he said.

Authorities did not know exactly how the three Mon River Towing barges had broken free. The barges were among some 53 barges to break loose from their moorings Monday at three sites along the Monongahela.

At least 25 coal barges sunk or became jammed in ice at the Maxwell Lock and Dam in North Charleroi, the Coast Guard said. More than 200 people were evacuated from the area because of the threat of flooding from ice jams, but they were allowed to return home, officials said.

LTV Corp. reported that between 10 and 15 open hopper barges broke lose near the 22nd St. Bridge in Pittsburgh, the Coast Guard said. Police temporarily closed bridges in Pittsburgh to avoid accidents involving empty coal barges.

No injuries were reported, and there was no structural damage to any bridges.

The Monongahela was swollen and the current faster than normal because river ice melted recently as temperatures warmed, officials said. Ice jams caused minor flooding on some stretches of the river, which was falling, the National Weather Service said.

Two fuel compartments on barge MR-16 were damaged, Coast Guard Cmdr. Robert Segovis said.

A typical compartment on a fuel barge holds 42,000 gallons of petroleum product, he said. State authorities estimated the spill at 8,000 to 10,000 gallons.

The Coast Guard also closed the Monongahela to commercial traffic between Lock No. 3 near West Elizabeth, Allegheny County, and Lock No. 4, officials said.

The MR-16 spill occurred nearly two years to the day after a massive Jan. 2, 1988, oil spill at an Ashland Oil refinery located upriver of Pittsburgh on the Monongahela.

RABAT, Morocco (JAN. 2) UPI - A huge oil spill from a damaged Iranian tanker could hit the Atlantic coast of Morocco ''in two or three days,'' France's environment minister said Tuesday, but Iran shrugged off the incident as ''quite normal.''

Speaking after a preliminary meeting with Moroccan officials in Casablanca during a fact-finding mission, Environment Minister Brice Lalonde also told France Info Radio that oil still was belching out of the stricken Kharg 5 vessel. Its tanks were ruptured by an explosion Dec. 19.

''If the wind pushes the slick, it could touch the coast in two or three days,'' Lalonde said. ''This is not to be excluded, because it is getting nearer'' the coast, he said.

Official Moroccan sources said the oil slick of some 70,000 tons was less than 20 miles from the coastline, an important area for fishing of sardines and oysters as well as for tourism.

The spill is the biggest ever to hit the region and it comes nine months after the grounding of the American tanker Exxon Valdez, which belched some 38,000 tons of petroleum into the sea off Prince William Sound in Alaska. The Exxon spill in gallons totaled nearly 11 million. A gallon figure for the Kharg 5 spill has not been determined.

In Tehran, the official Islamic Republic News Agency said Iran had taken ''all the necessary measures according to international regulations'' to limit the extent of the spill.

IRNA quoted the head of the international relations office of the Iranian Environment Protection Organization, Hassan Mohammadi, as saying, ''Such incidents were quite normal and might happen to any tanker with any management and belonging to any country.''

Mohammadi claimed his latest reports said the slick was under control and ''there was no reason for concern in (the) Moroccan coastline.''

''The official reiterated the incident was normal and regretted that news imperialism (Western news coverage of the spill) is viciously attempting to make too much noise about it,'' the Iranian agency said.

The agency said the Iranian-registered Kharg 5 was Greek-managed and crewed entirely by foreigners.

Lalonde arrived in Morocco Monday with a team of French marine pollution experts to try and determine if France should lend barges to prevent an environmental disaster on the threatened 170-mile strip of coastline around the port of Safi, south of Casablanca.

Millions of people around the world have come to know the coastal city through the 1942 classic movie ''Casablanca.'' Starring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, the film tells of a love triangle set against the background of war-torn northern Africa.

Morocco appealed to France, Spain, Britain, Portugal and famed marine explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau for help Sunday. But efforts to fight the slick have been delayed by conflicting views of experts about the extent of the ecological threat.

Jean-Francois Levy, the secretary general for the French Interministerial Committee of the Sea, said Monday the leakage of oil had stopped and that some 200,000 tons of crude still aboard the vessel were in secure compartments. But Lalonde's remarks Tuesday apparently contradicted that statement.

''The stricken tanker, which still is leaking, has been towed out to sea '' Lalonde said. ''A second tanker is heading for it to try and transport the petroleum remaining in its tanks.''

One section of the slick ''is fairly close to the Moroccan coast, which it threatens at four points, including Casablanca,'' said Lalonde.

An explosion erupted on the Khark 5 followed by a fire on the night of Dec. 18-19 while it was 50 miles off the Moroccan coast north of the Canary Islands.

The cause of the blaze has yet to be revealed. Owners were quoted as saying a deck ladder broke loose during a gale and pierced a hole in the wall of the vessel's tanks, creating a volatile mixture of oil and air that somehow caught afire and exploded repeatedly.

The vessel was used by Iran to ply the deadly route from Iran's main Kharg Island oil terminal to the Straits of Hormuz in the Persian Gulf and twice was hit by Iraqi warplanes during the Iran-Iraq war, shipping sources said.

Shipping officials have expressed concern recently that some Iranian tankers that were damaged during the tanker war fail to meet international safety regulations.

Morocco already has some barriers set up 20 miles off one of the most threatened points off the coastline at Oualidiya, south of Casablanca, official sources say.

A Spanish Coast Guard vessel, the Pointa-Silenas, has been spraying detergent around the Khark 5 to try and minimize the damage.

A tug from the salvage company Smit International reached the tanker and towed it out to sea Sunday to a point about 120 miles from the coast. Technicians boarded the vessel and extinguished the on-board fire.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA (JAN. 2) UPI - A director of Bond Brewing Australia was scheduled to travel to the United States to meet with American creditors, lawyers for the troubled group told the Victorian State Supreme Court in Melbourne Tuesday.

During the hearing of Bond's application to rescind the court's decision last Friday to appoint an official receiver to his brewing group of companies, his lawyers asked that evidence by Bond Director Peter Mitchell be concluded Tuesday so he could fly to New York "to meet with U.S.

Financial analysts said U.S. creditors were worried by the non-payment of $30 million in interest on debts incurred in the Bond takeover of G. Heileman Brewing Co., two years ago.

The interest payments were due January 1, 1990, but were not paid, according to Bond executives, because of the appointment of an official receiver last Friday. The receivership appointment was made on the application of the National Australia Bank and other banks owed $599 million in unsecured loans.

In his failed application to the Western Australian Supreme Court to have the receivership order rescinded Saturday, Bond's lawyer, Christopher Zelestis, said the banks had acted because they wanted to stop the interest payment to the American investors of Bond Brewing Holdings and Swan Brewing debentures, because they were concerned that BBH had a shortfall in cash flow and could not pay its unsecured loans.

That court ruled it would not intervene in a decision made in another state but noted that Bond had been done an "injustice".

In Melbourne court Tuesday, Alan Myers, Queen's Counsel for Bond, said the banks had no right to seek their own official receiver because they were unsecured lenders and had no greater entitlement to assets than any other creditors.

Myers said the court should not have granted the receivership application Friday on grounds of debt default. He said the National Bank had given Bond only 13 minutes after notification of default before making its application, which under law was not enough time to make the repayment and Bond, therefore, was not in default.

Bond sought to have the original order rescinded, have the company named as receivers - Peat Marwick Hungerfords - disqualified because they had a vested interest, or have the whole matter adjourned to the Western Australian Supreme Court, where the Western Australian Government Insurance Commission has applied for the appointment of a provisonal liquidator to the Bond parent company, Bond Corporation.

Tom Hughes, Queen's Counsel for Bell Resources, told the court his company had entered into an agreement to buy Bond's breweries last Thursday, before the court order, and that this transaction should take precedence.

Bond Corp. Friday told the Sydney Stock Exchange it had completed a deal to sell the brewing operations to Bell Resources, an associate company, for $1.6 billion.

The Melbourne court hearing was adjourned until Wednesday without a decision. Analysts said that unless Bond can reverse the receivership order his whole business empire could topple as other creditors, local and overseas, take action to secure their financial positions.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 2) UPI - Lawyers for the government and Charles Keating, chairman of the failed Lincoln Savings, squared off in federal court Tuesday in a hearing to determine whether regulators seized the thrift properly.

Keating, in a federal lawsuit filed last May, challenged the government's takeover of the insolvent Irvine, Calif., thrift, the rescue of which is expected to cost taxpayers as much as $2.5 billion.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Sporkin is holding hearings on government motions to dismiss Keating's lawsuit which challegened the findings of federal regulators that Lincoln was operating in an unsafe and unsound manner.

The government contends that it needs to present only four transactions involving Lincoln and its parent American Continental Corp. of Phoenix, to prove its case.

Lincoln was seized by regulators last April, one day after American Continental filed for bankruptcy protection. The bankruptcy filing left investors and shareholders, many of them elderly, holding about $200 million of nearly worthless stocks and bonds.

In two hearings early last month, Sporkin heard government attorneys unravel a complex string of what it termed "sham" real estate transactions in the Arizona desert financed by Lincoln and American Continental.

Paul Gutermann, an attorney represtenting the Office of Thrift Supervision, focused Tuesday on Fernando Acosta, president of WestContinental, a Tucson real estate company involved in one of the transactions.

The government contends that American Continental received $4.4 million through a tax-sharing agreement with a Lincoln subsidiary, which sold WestContinental a 1,000-acre parcel of land.

Regulators said the transaction represented an unsafe and unsound practice because WestContinental, with assets of only $31,000, was allowed to receive a $10.5 million loan from the Lincoln subsidiary.

Acosta testified that he did not receive any money in the transaction, but added that he did not read any of the documents he signed to acquire the land. "It's like that (Bo) Diddley commercial," Sporkin said. "You didn't know Diddley."

John Lundin, a Keating attorney, said the loan to WestContinental was legitimate, despite the company's low asset value, because it was a limited partnership, or shell, for a group of wealthy investors who could guarantee the loan. Lundin said the company's net worth would play no role in how it would plan to repay the loan.

The seizure of Lincoln was the focus of a lengthy congressional investigation during the fall. The hearings examined Keating's strong political connections and the efforts of five U.S. senators to intervene with regulators on Keating's behalf.

DETROIT (JAN. 2) UPI - Chrysler Corp. demonstrated Tuesday a futuristic vehicle that it claims may solve some pressing transportation issues of the 1990s and beyond - a dual-engined van that splits in two.

Although the nation's third largest carmaker said it may never be produced the Voyager III is what one company designer called "an open-handed look into the future" to explore issues like traffic congestion, fuel economy and environmental concerns.

The Voyager III, under development for about a year, was part of a preview held at Chrysler's design center in Highland Park for Detroit's second annual North American International Auto Show. The nine-day show begins Saturday.

"Before we go too far into the next century ... we're going to have to look at solutions that are not conventional solutions," said Neil Walling, director of Advanced International Design for Chrysler, adding that the Voyager III "is one of the things the minivan might develop into."

After a set of center wheels are electrically lowered, the Voyager III's front module - a three-passenger minicar driven by a small propane-powered engine - can be separated from the five-passenger rear compartment and used as a small commuter vehicle.

When the added passenger capacity is needed, the "urban module" is "re-docked" with the rear compartment using an electric winch. The rear section also contains a slightly larger gasoline-powered engine electronically linked to run in tandem with the front engine when the entire vehicle is used.

The Voyager III could also offer solutions in the commercial vehicle market by being designed with a pickup bed or cargo compartment for the rear section, Chrysler designers said.

Chrysler designers said that while the concept of a modular van holds great promise, there is much work to be done in areas of how the two sections attach, as well as the overall crashworthiness of the vehicle.

"In our minds, this is not a vehicle to be built in the next five years, or even ten," said Thomas C. Gale, Chrysler's head of design.

Also shown by Chrysler - to be displayed at various auto shows around the nation early this year - were vehicles that are more representative of what the carmaker will be producing in the early 1990s.

One of them is an aerodynamically styled mid-sized sedan dubbed the Eagle Optima, the first concept car from Chrysler's Jeep/Eagle division formed in 1987 from the acquisition of American Motors Corp.

Although the Optima is a rear-drive V8-powered sedan, a spokesman said similarly styled sedans will be offered by the carmaker by the 1993-model year.

However, those cars, based on Chrysler's new 'LH' vehicle platform, will be front-drive and powered by smaller engines, a spokesman said. Chrysler is also developing an 'LX' platform to be introduced later on, that may be adaptable to either front- or rear-drive.

NEW YORK (JAN. 2) UPI - A ruptured Exxon pipeline spilled 5,000 to 10,000 gallons of home heating oil Tuesday into Arthur Kill separating New Jersey and Staten Island, forcing cleanup of more than a mile of the busy commercial waterway, the Coast Guard said.

Shipping was not impeded despite a safety zone set up in the Goethals Bridge area so that a local contractor could contain the worst concentration of the oil slick, said Lt. Matthew Duesing, a Coast Guard spokesman.

He said the contractor was unable to predict how long the cleanup, which would depend on the thickness of the slick and the weather, would take. A warming trend in the weather would help the oil evaporate, he added.

''A preliminary determination of the sources of the spill indicates that a 12-inch Exxon pipeline at the company's Linden, N.J., storage field ruptured from causes unknown, losing 5,000 to 10,000 gallons of No. 2 fuel '' Duesing said.

''The rupture came sometime after a transfer of fuel from one part of the Morse's Creek storage tank area to another and closure of the valve at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday,'' he said. ''Exxon employees found the pipeline ruptured at 10:30 a.m.''

The spill spread across Arthur Kill and was discovered at 3:07 a.m. by Coast Guard inspectors on Staten Island, who ordered all water traffic in the area curtailed until a cleanup could be organized, according to Cedric Hughes, a pollution reponse officer with the Coast Guard.

Hughes said that by mid-morning the concentrated part of the slick had spread more than a mile south to Prall's Island in Arthur Kill due to tides and some of the slick covered most of the waterway from Shooter's Island in the north to Tottenville, Staten Island, in the south.

It appeared to be light diesel oil used in home furnaces, he said, adding that whether or not the oil had caused any environmental damage was still to be determined

Weather in the area was just below freezing when the slick was discovered but rose into the low 40s later in the day.

DETROIT (JAN. 2) UPI - U.S. sales of domestically made cars and light trucks during mid-December declined 18.6 percent from robust year-ago levels, as numerous assembly plants among the nation's top automakers remained idle to trim stockpiles of unsold vehicles.

Sales of domestically built cars alone slid 21.3 percent from a year ago when measured by sales per day. Light truck sales declined 14 percent, automakers said Tuesday.

The annual sales rate for domestically built cars - the most common measure of industry performance - was a weak 6.3 million cars during the latest period, compared with 8.6 million last year, when buyers took advantage of lucrative sales incentives that temporarily expired at the end of 1988.

"This is not too far from where it's been running for the last quarter," said industry analyst Harvey Heinbach, of Merrill Lynch in New York. "What we're seeing is really more of the same - sales are holding at a very depressed rate but they are not deteriorating any further."

Heinbach expects enhanced buyer programs introduced last month to stimulate sales this month, but says the overall market during 1990 will remain relatively weak because of a lackluster economic outlook.

"Consumers are also fairly well saturated with strong car sales over the last few years," he said. "There is a high number of new cars that have not been paid for yet."

During mid-December, the eight companies - General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., American Honda Motor Co., Nissan Motor Manufacturing U.S.A., Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A., Mazda Motor Manufacturing (USA) Corp. and Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America, Inc. - reported combined sales of 155,422 cars and 100,335 trucks in the United States. This compares with 175,646 cars and 103,725 trucks sold during the middle ten days of December 1988.

The daily selling rate of 28,417 vehicles compares with 34,921 vehicles per day for the same period a year ago. There were nine selling days this year, compared with eight last year.

Automakers will report late December and total 1989 U.S. sales figures on Thursday, with the overall industry including imports expected to total between 14.8 million and 14.9 million cars and trucks, down about one million units from 1988.

With all but the final ten days of 1989 in, U.S. firms alone have sold 6.88 million cars, down 4.8 percent from about 7.25 million units sold in the comparable 1988 period when measured by sales per day.

Sales of light trucks were 4.01 million units, down 1.6 percent from the 4.09 million trucks sold during the same period a year ago. For the latest period, sales of GM's domestically made cars declined 21.6 percent, while its light truck sales slipped 15.3 percent. GM will temporarily idle about 90,000 workers at nearly two dozen North American plants this month.

Second-ranked Ford posted a 33.2 percent drop in car sales, and a 12.2 percent decline in truck sales for the Dec. 11-20 period. Chrysler's car sales skidded 33.7 percent, while its light truck sales including Jeep were off 11.3 percent. Both have numerous temporary plant closings in effect to lower inventories.

Among the smaller companies reporting sales of U.S.-built cars, Honda posted a 49.2 percent gain from year-ago levels. Toyota reported a 233.3 percent rise in sales from a year ago, when its only domestically built cars were Corolla models at its joint venture plant with GM in California.

Nissan, which raised prices on some car lines Tuesday, said sales of its domestically made cars fell 45.6 percent. Sales of its U.S.-built trucks declined 37.7 percent from year ago levels.

Mazda sold 985 of its new MX6 coupes produced at its Flat Rock, Mich., assembly plant, vs. 617 a year ago. Mitsubishi reported sales of 702 Eclipse cars built at its joint venture plant with Chrysler in Illinois.

SAN FRANCISCO (JAN. 3) UPI - Di Giorgio Corp. said Tuesday it has agreed to be acquired by a company headed by New Jersey investor Arthur M. Goldberg for $30 a share, or about $155 million, ending a six-month struggle for control of the food distribution and building material company.

Di Giorgio, based in San Francisco, said it had been unable to find another bidder who could top the offer from DIG Acquisition Corp., which is owned by Goldberg's Rose Partners partnership.

Goldberg originally offered $32 a share for Di Giorgio in June, but lowered the offer after he was rebuffed by Di Giorgio's management. Di Giorgio then hired Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. to search for a friendly buyer.

''The deterioration in the market for high yield bonds during this period has adversely affected the ability of certain prospective buyers to offer prices as high as had been hoped for,'' Di Giorgio Chairman Peter Scott said.

The two companies said in a release that DIG Acquisition would extend its tender offer for all of the Di Giorgio's shares until midnight EST Jan. 22. The offer is contingent on financing and the tender of enough shares for a majority.

According to the release, 3.2 million shares had been tendered to DIG by Dec. 29. Combined with the 717,900 shares already owned by Goldberg, they represent 75 percent of the company's outstanding common stock on a primary basis and 71 percent on a fully diluted basis.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 3) UPI - California Federal Bank, the nation's fourth-largest thrift, said Tuesday it has sold its 27-story headquarters building to developer J.H. Snyder Co. for an undisclosed price.

Analysts had estimated that the 23-year-old California Federal Plaza tower located in the ''Miracle Mile'' mid-Wilshire area with 443,000 square feet, would sell for $55 million to $60 million.

California Federal put the building on the block several months ago. The thrift said it had needed only about half of the building space and subsequently moved its 950 headquarters personnel out of the building and into the adjacent Wilshire Courtyard office complex.

Snyder, which has already developed other properties in the area about five miles west of downtown Los Angeles, said it plans an extensive refurbishment of the building.

California Federal, a unit of CalFed Inc., has assets of more than $25 billion. It sold several other assets, such as its credit card portfolio, last year, but a spokesman said the sales were unrelated to tighter federal capital standards for thrifts.

In a separate announcement, California Federal said it had sold its 20 percent interest in CF Management Corp., formerly Cal Fed Investment Management Corp. and the general partner of CF Income Partners L.P., to Wellsford Capital Partners L.P. of New York.

CHANDLER, AZ (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Inter-Tel Inc. (OTC:INTLA) Wednesday announced record shipments during the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Inter-Tel expects to report revenues in excess of $18 million for the quarter compared to $14.7 million in the last quarter of 1988. The next highest previous quarter shipments occured in the second quarter of 1988 when net sales were $16.4 million.

Inter-Tel expects the record sales will result in net income for the quarter sufficient to eliminate the previously reported net loss for the nine months of $391,000, or 5 cents a share, resulting in an overall profit for 1989.

Inter-Tel had previously reported lower OEM volume during the preceding third quarter which was caused by the failure of a subcontractor to meet product delivery schedules. The resumption of scheduled deliveries was a partial factor in the increased fourth quarter shipments. More importantly, demand for Inter-Tel's new GX-400 and Premier ESPDX systems boosted the quarter's sales to the record. Net sales for 1989 will exceed $61 million compared to the $62.6 million in 1988 when net income was $1,752,000, or 20 cents a share.

Strong shipments during the first two quarters of 1990 are assured by the record backlog of orders on hand. However, operating results could be affected by the recently imposed anti-dumping penalty duties imposed on a portion of products supplied by Inter-Tel's Korean subcontractors. This is dependent on product pricing and final interpretation of the applicability of the penalties to individual products.

Inter-Tel is one of the leading designers, producers and marketers of business telecommunication software and systems in the United States, including digital electronic key, hybrid and PABX systems.

DALLAS (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Oryx Energy Co. announced Wednesday that it has entered into two agreements to divest interests in 316 domestic oil and gas fields for approximately $32 million.

The properties involved produce about 2700 barrels of oil and 11 million cubic feet of natural gas per day and represent about 1 percent of the company's domestic proved reserves. The sales affect properties in 15 states with generally small working interests. Both sales are expected to close in early 1990.

''Our continuing strategy is to divest assets that do not fit with our long-term goals and to concentrate our operations into certain key areas '' said James E. McCormick, president and chief operating officer of Oryx Energy.

''These sales, along with the sale to American Exploration announced in September and recent trades, are part of a strategy to consolidate our activity into the most productive areas. With these transactions, we're able to improve our operating efficiency by focusing on properties with higher daily production, more development opportunities and lower costs,'' added McCormick.

Earlier in December, Oryx Energy had estimated fourth quarter earnings, but excluded these sales since they had not been expected to occur in 1989. The company expects to record a net loss of about $19 million from the sales. Oryx Energy has reduced its previous estimate and now expects fourth quarter earnings to be in the $9-13 million range.

Dallas-based Oryx Energy conducts its domestic operations through Sun Energy Partners, L.P. Oryx Energy, the managing general partner and 98-percent owner of the partnership, is the largest independent oil and gas company in the world with assets of over $5 billion and proved reserves of more than one billion equivalent barrels. Oryx Energy trades on the New York Stock Exchange with the symbol ''ORX'' and the partnership with the symbol ''SLP.''

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, CA (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Genentech Inc. Wednesday announced that it has acquired Boehringer Ingelheim's 50 percent ownership stake in Genentech Canada, a joint venture partnership formed by the two companies in November 1984.

Under the new agreement, which became effective Dec. 29, Genentech Canada was dissolved and the assets and liabilities of the partnership were purchased by Genentech Canada Inc.

''The full acquisition of this partnership represents Genentech's first major move toward geographic diversification and expansion. Genentech Canada is a sales and marketing organization which serves the important Canadian marketplace, and as such, is a valuable international asset,'' said James M. Gower, senior vice president for Genentech Inc.

The partnership was formed to market and distribute pharmaceuticals produced by Genentech Inc. Genentech Canada Inc. currentlydistributes throughout Canada, Protropin, human growth hormone, for the treatment of children with growth hormone inadequacy and Activase, tissue plasminogen activator, a clot-busting agent used in treating heart attacks.

The partnership had estimated 1989 sales of $9 million (C) or $7.7 million (US). With 22 employees, Genentech Canada Inc. will continue under the leadership of Ian Temple, general manager. Temple will now report to Gower in the United States.

Boehringer Ingelheim's role in the venture was to supply, through its Canadian pharmaceutical subsidiary, the clinical, regulatory and distribution expertise needed to successfully launch the products into the Canadian marketplace. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

''Boehringer Ingelheim has been important to us over the years and they continue to be our marketing partner for Activase in Europe and the United States,'' Gower added.

Increasing internationalization and expanding marketing opportunities in other countries have been long-range plans of Genentech's. Last April, Genentech opened a start-up office in Tokyo, the first step toward achieving a long-term goal of creating a fully integrated research, manufacturing and marketing operation in Japan.

Genentech Canada Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Genentech Inc. which is a biotechnology company focusing on the development, manufacture and marketing of pharmaceutical products produced by recombinant DNA technology.

million contract from Data Communications Corp. of Korea (Dacom) to build a public data communications network in South Korea.

Under the terms of the contract, US Sprint also will provide Dacom with expertise and training in marketing and network management.

REDONDO BEACH, CA (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - TRW and Motorola have built the world's first multimillion device SuperChip, the two companies said Wednesday.

The team has fabricated, tested and proved functional the CPUAX SuperChip, an advanced microelectronic chip containing approximately 4 million 0.5 micron devices able to perform 200 million floating point operations per second.

''Two hundred million operations per second mean the CPUAX is the computational equivalent of some supercomputers that fill an entire room, require elaborate refrigeration systems and weigh several tons,'' reports Dr. Thomas A. Zimmerman, director of TRW VHSIC programs.

When used in conjunction with the TRW-Motorola Universal Processor (UP) -- a tiny ''satellite'' chip of 36,000 devices which tests, monitors and configures the on-chip assets of the CPUAX -- the CPUAX is able to repair itself.

''The self-repair abilities of the CPUAX make it possible to work around the inevitable flaws that occur during fabrication,'' states Dr. Zimmerman. ''Also, they enable the CPUAX to repair itself should any failures occur on the chip during operation.''

In fully packaged form the CPUAX is 2.1 x 2.1 inches and weighs 1.5 ounces.

Short for Central Processing Unit - Aritmetic Extended, the CPUAX was fabricated by Motorola at its Advanced Products Research and Development Laboratory in Austin, Texas, using a proprietary 0.5 micron CMOS process.

Dr. Charles S. Meyer, Motorola's VHSIC program manager, pointed out that ''the half-micron process was extremely challenging since it required lithography at the limits of current optical technology on a very large die and employed advanced process modules, such as triple-level metal and salicide.''

Motorola was also the primary contact for the reticle subcontractor, DuPont Photomasks Inc. of Round Rock, Texas.

The CPUAX is the finished product of the TRW-Motorola contractor team's effort on the Department of Defense's advanced Very High Speed Integrated Circuits (VHSIC) Phase 2 program. It represents the culmination of TRW and Motorola's 10-year-long role in all three phases of the VHSIC program. In the final phase, the TRW-Motorola team built a chip 150 times as complex as those of the program's first phase.

ST. LOUIS (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - John P. Capellupo has been named deputy president of Long Beach, Calif.-based Douglas Aircraft Co., a new position, effective Jan. 8.

The announcement was made Wednesday by John F. McDonnell, chairman and chief executive officer of McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Formerly president of McDonnell Douglas Missile Systems Co. in St. Louis, Capellupo has been with the company for more than 30 years. In his new position, Capellupo will work for Robert H. Hood, president of Douglas, in a ''double box'' type of management organizational structure. All Douglas executives now reporting to Hood will also report to Capellupo.

IRVING, TX (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Sam Wyly, chairman of the board of Michaels Stores Inc. (ASE:MKE), announced that the company has terminated the merger agreement pursuant to which Michaels Stores Inc. was to have been acquired by MSI Holdings Inc.

ALBANY, NY (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - The board of directors of National Savings Bank of Albany (NASDAQ:NSBA) has adopted a shareholder rights plan and declared a dividend of one preferred share purchase right (''right'') for each outstanding share of common stock of the bank.

The rights are designed to assure that all of the shareholders of National Savings Bank of Albany receive fair and equal treatment in the event of any takeover of the bank and realize the full value of their investment.

The rights will not prevent a takeover, but should encourage anyone seeking to acquire the bank to negotiate with the board of directors of the bank.

Each right, when excercised, will entitle the holder thereof to buy a one one-hundredth interest in a share of a new series of preferred stock of the bank at an exercise price of $75.00.

Initially, the rights will not be exercisable and will transfer with and only with the shares of common stock.

In a separate action, the board of directors unanimously rejected a proposal from TrustCo Bank Corp. NY, a banking holding company located in Schenectady, N.Y. which currently holds approximately 4.9 percent of the outstanding common stock of the bank, for a possible business combination with the bank in a stock-for-stock transaction in which National's shareholders would receive 1.25 shares of TrustCo common stock for each share of National common stock.

The board, among other things, found certain of the terms and conditions of the proposal to be one-sided and lacking in the customary safeguards that negotiated transactions typically contain with respect to selling shareholders.

Of particular concern is the absence of terms reflecting adequate value and that would also enhance the probability of the transaction being consummated.

SAN DIEGO (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Beeba's Creations Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:BEBA) Wednesday announced operating results for its first quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989.

Net sales for the first quarter of fiscal 1990 increased to $27.6 million, or 19 percent higher than the $23.2 million recorded in the first quarter of last year. The increase resulted primarily from sales of new product lines and an increase in sales made to the company's largest customer, Wal-Mart.

The company generated earnings of 4 cents per share on net income of $174,739 in the current quarter, as compared with earnings of 9 cents per share on a net income of $404,470 in the first quarter of fiscal 1989. The decrease in earnings per share was primarily the result of increased operating expenses for the new product lines, which have a combined backlog of $5.8 million at Nov. 30, 1989.

According to Steven P. Wyandt, chief executive officer and president, ''Our first quarter is traditionally our weakest, since we have historically lacked a broad product line for the holiday season. We have recently decided to add outerwear to our product lines to help strengthen our first quarter of fiscal 1991, and have even received our first customer orders for this new line.''

Christopher A. Crane, executive vice president, said: ''We are pleased with our first-quarter results, particularly the improvement in gross margins from 24 percent last year to 24.3 percent for the first quarter of this year. We hope to see continued improvement in gross margins in future quarters.''

Wyandt said: ''Our backlog has increased 58 percent compared with last year, from $40.2 million at Nov. 30, 1988, to approximately $64 million at Nov. 30, 1989. Based on the strength of this backlog, we continue to believe that fiscal 1990 will be another record year in sales and earnings.''

NATICK, MA (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Prime Computer Inc. Wednesday announced successful integration of high-speed, Primary Rate ISDN (Integrated Services Digital Networks) service between its computer installations in Atlanta, working closely with Bell South Corp. and American Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

Prime is the first major computer supplier working with Bell South to successfully integrate its wide area networking services with ISDN at Primary Rate Interface (PRI) speeds of up to 1.544Mbits/sec. (1,544,000 bits per second), says Cheryl Salatino, Prime's director of network communications product marketing.

Prime's successful primary rate ISDN digital transfers are being accomplished over the company's Primenet X.25-based wide area networking service between Prime 2650 and 2450 superminicomputers. In addition, transfers were between the Prime systems and their terminals via an AT&T 5ESS ISDN central office switch and AT&T 7505 series terminal adapters using AT&T's DMI Mode 2 terminal rate adaption protocol.

Programs within one Prime computer use Primenet networking software to communicate over the Primary Rate interface via a circuit switch connection to a Prime computer on the other end of the network. Prime has been working closely with Bell South Corp. and AT&T on these developments since 1987.

The ISDN PRI service has 23 64K-bps bearer channels and one 64K-bps signalling channel, as opposed to the more commonly applied ISDN Basic Rate Interface (BRI) service, which consists of two 64K-bps bearer channels and one 16K-bps signalling channel.

ISDN technology combines a wide range of sophisticated voice, data and video services over local telephone networks. ISDN technology will make possible a wealth of new communications services for business, and ultimately, home use, when adopted nationally.

NEW YORK (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - ASARCO Incorporated (NYSE:AR) Wednesday announced it has completed the sale of its coal mining business, based near Peoria, Ill., to MidState Coal Company, a company owned by former management employees.

The coal unit was sold for approximately $3 million in notes and lease payments and the assumption of certain liabilities.

As previously announced, during the 1989 third quarter Asarco decided to sell or shut down by year end its Rapatee coal mine continuing the company's process of simplifying and focusing the company in areas with a better future. As a result, the company recorded a $10.2 million after-tax charge ($15.5 million pre-tax) against its 1989 third quarter earnings.

Asarco entered the coal business in 1970 with the acquisition of four Illinois coal mines. Due to declining markets for high-sulfur content coal, Asarco over the years had shut down all mines but the Rapatee.

Most recently, the Elm mine was closed in 1984 and the Mecco mine in 1980. The Rapatee mine has been unprofitable since 1985 and lost $2.2 million pre-tax in 1988 and another $2.3 million for the first nine months of 1989.

ASARCO Incorporated, headquartered in New York City, is a $2 billion NYSE listed company and one of the world's leading integrated producers of nonferrous metals, principally copper, silver, lead, zinc and gold. Asarco also produces specialty chemicals, minerals and other industrial products and provides environmental services. The company has major facilities in Arizona, Connecticut, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Tennessee and Texas.

Asarco and its associated companies, with operations in Australia, Canada, Mexico and Peru, together in 1988 accounted for about 11 percent of Free World mine production of copper, 17 percent of silver, 14 percent of lead and 10 percent of zinc.

HARTFORD, CT (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - ITT Hartford Insurance Group, which in 1977 pioneered insurance premium discounts for automobiles equipped with either automatic seat belts or air bags, has increased those discounts and added a new one.

The discounts cover air bags, automatic seat belts and now anti-lock brakes. They can save up to 60 percent of the portion of the insurance premium that covers personal injury to the occupants of the insured car.

The Hartford is the 10th largest U.S. insurer of private passenger automobiles, marketing these policies through independent insurance agents and under the sponsorship of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

The premium discounts are 30 percent for automatic seat belts; 40 percent for driver-side air bags; 50 percent for full front air bags; and 60 percent for a combination of both automatic belts and air bags.

These discounts are applied to the personal injury protection (PIP) portion of auto insurance policies in states with no-fault auto insurance laws, or to the medical payments portion in other states.

The Hartford is offering a new 5 percent savings on the collision portion of the policy for cars equipped with anti-lock brakes.

The actual dollar savings for policyholders with automatic seat belts and air bags will vary by state, tending to be greater in no-fault states where the personal injury protection portion includes more coverage. Full-front air bags might, for example, save a driver $102 in the no-fault state of Colorado, but only $9 in Illinois, a tort state where first-party medical coverage is much more limited.

Dollar savings related to the anti-lock brake discount will vary by make, model and age of the cars, as well as by where the policyholder lives.

The Hartford began implementing the new and increased discounts late last year, and they are now available in 37 states to policyholders insured on policies sold through independent agents or through the program offered members of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Those states are: Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

ITT Corp. is a diversified enterprise engaged principally in a variety of product and service businesses that includes insurance, finance, automotive, electronic components and hotels.

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Showboat Hotel Casino, Harrah's Marina Hotel Casino, Merv Griffin's Resort Casino Hotel, Caesars Hotel Casino and TropWorld Casino and Entertainment Resort have joined together to offer slot players a chance at hitting the world's largest jackpot ever.

The five casinos were the first to announce they will participate in International Game Technology's Atlantic City Megabucks program, a multi-casino slot machine network that carries a guaranteed minimum $1 million jackpot.

While other Atlantic City casinos are eligible to join up until the first day the system goes into operation, they would have a later start date than the original five.

''We are extremely excited about the mix of these casinos, and their overwhelming desire to work together to introduce this uniquely innovative slot system,'' said Stephen Morro, general manager of Atlantic City Megabucks.

According to Morro, Megabucks will be operating in the casinos by early Spring 1990.

Unlike regular dollar progressive slot machines, Megabuck's jackpot starts at $1 million, with each pull of the handle contributing to the payoff. There is no ceiling to the size of the jackpot. A Megabucks machine currently holds the world record for slot jackpot win with a payout of $6,814,823.48 won in February 1988 in Reno, Nevada.

A Megabucks slot machine also set the record for the largest Las Vegas jackpot with a $4,653,697.80 hit this past Thanksgiving at the Mirage.

Caesars, Harrah's Showboat and Tropicana all participate in Nevada Megabucks. Bally's Las Vegas recently signed onto the program, although the company has yet to join the system in Atlantic City.

All Megabucks machines are linked to a single progressive jackpot amount which grows whenever a machine is played. Megabucks machines are reset at $1 million after each giant jackpot hit. Megabucks was developed by International Game Technology, a Reno-based manufacturer of microprocessor controlled gaming equipment. Megabucks has been in operation in Nevada since 1986 at 105 casinos.

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - CompuChem Corporation (NASDAQ:CCEM) Wednesday announced that it anticipates that fourth quarter revenues will be below analysts' expectations. As a result of this shortfall in revenue, the Company expects that its earnings per share could be 10% below analysts' projections which range from $.58 to $.61 for the year ended December 31, 1989.

The Company still expects earnings per share to be up substantially over the prior year's $.48.

Kees Verkerk, President and Chief Executive Officer, commented, ''The reason for the revenue shortfall was primarily a slowing in the receipt of environmental samples in the last six weeks of the quarter. We had experienced strong receipts in September and October and thus felt that the entire fourth quarter would have this momentum.''

Mr. Verkerk further stated, ''For the total 1989 year, our commercial drug testing revenue will be up approximately 26 percent and our environmental revenue will be up about 5 percent. We are confident that the December 19th initiation of the Department of Transportation program will restore a higher growth rate for the commercial drug testing business in 1990. The pending acquisition of LifeData will further strengthen our position in the forensic drug testing market by adding a national sample collection system for drug testing to our product line. Lifedata also introduces us to an expanding life insurance examination market. We expect to close the LifeData transaction before the end of January 1990. Audited financial results for 1989 are expected to be released in mid-February.''

CompuChem Corporation, through its two subsidiaries, CompuChem

WEST CHESTER, PA (JAN. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - QVC Network Inc. (NASDAQ: QVCN) Wednesday reported that its sales for the two-month Christmas shopping season increased 24 percent.

QVC's sales for Nov. 1, 1989 to Dec. 31, 1989 rose to $196.6 million, up from $158.1 million in the same 1988 period.

For purposes of this comparison, sales for both periods include the televised-shopping operations of CVN Companies Inc., which was acquired by QVC on Oct. 31, 1989. Not included are sales from CVN's C.O.M.B. mail-order business, which QVC has announced its intention to divest.

Joseph M. Segel, chairman and chief executive officer of QVC, said, ''While many retailers reported lackluster Christmas sales, QVC and CVN have continued to enjoy strong sales growth.'' He added, ''in the 1990s, we believe that televised shopping will clearly be the 'leading edge' in U.S. retailing as consumers find it a convenient alternative to mail-order and in-store shopping.''

QVC, as a result of its acquisition of CVN, now has a combined customer base of over four million people. Its shopping programs are broadcast live by satellite, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and are carried by cable television systems to more than 32 million homes throughout the country. Programs are also received on two satelite channels by another two million U.S. households that have their own satellite dishes.

JASPER, AL (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - First Federal of Alabama, F.S.B. (NASDAQ/NMS:FFAL) announced Wednesday that the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama has enjoined the tender offer by Donaldson B. Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. for 389,000 shares of the bank's common stock.

The Honorable U.W. Clemon, United States District Judge, announced from the bench his decision permanently enjoining Donaldson B. Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. from taking any other action with respect to their pending tender offer or from making any further tender offers to acquire in excess of 10 percent of the stock of First Federal.

The permanent injunction is to last until the earlier to occur of Dec. 18, 1991 (the expiration of the five-year prohibition contained in First Federal's charter) or when the charter provision is eliminated by appropriate stockholder action initiated by the board of directors of First Federal.

Judge Clemon announced that he would file a written order in court on Jan. 3 including appropriate findings of fact.

Attorneys for Donaldson B. Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. stated that they may file an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.

First Federal is very gratified by Judge Clemon's decision. The bank believes that this decision, upholding the bank's charter which was adopted pursuant to the Office of Thrift Supervision regulations, is a proper one and settles the law in a needed area of the law.

First Federal also announced that is has received a copy of a letter from the Office of Thrift Supervision addressed to legal counsel for Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. advising the offerors that, in the view of the Office of Thrift Supervision staff, Section 8A of the bank's charter prohibits any offer to acquire 10 percent or more of the shares of the bank, including any offer conditioned on the amendment of the charter to remove Section 8A.

The Office of Thrift Supervision staff has also stated its position that the offerors should promptly provide First Federal's stockholders with updated disclosure reflecting, among other things, the substance of the letter, the possible effect of these matters on the ability of the tender offer to be completed, the possible actions that may be taken by the Office of Thrift Supervision in the event the tender offer is not terminated and the possible effect of these matters on private litigation between the parties.

SEC - AMENDMENT NUMBER: 5

GROUP LED BY DAVID C WALENTAS OWNS 348,100 SHARES (7.80%) OF BUILDERS TRANSPORT INC (TICKER: TRUK) OF CAMDEN, SC.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

On Dec. 29, 1989, Walentas sent a letter to Builders Transport chairman Charles M. Gay.

In the letter, Walentas withdrew a previous shareholder resolution concerning the company's ESOP and replaced it with one which would rescind the issuance of stock to the ESOP and would fund it annually with shares allocated to plan participants.

Walentas will withdraw the proposal if South Carolina District Court grants relief sought in litigation filed by Walentas against Builders Transport.

In proposing the resolution, Walentas stated that the previous issuance of stock to the ESOP diluted the equity of stockholders and may have prevented an acquisition of the company or efforts to replace the current board.

The new proposal allows employees to acquire a stake in Builders Transport, while the company receives tax benefits without dilution of stockholder equity.

In a second Dec. 29 letter to Gay, Walentas noted that Builders Transport had refused to provide him with documents relating to the ESOP until they become public.

Walentas may make changes to the proposal after viewing the documents.

NEW YORK (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Isramco, Inc. (NASDAQ: ISRL) reported that drilling on the Yam 2, located off the coast of Ashdod, Israel in the Mediterranean Sea, had reached a depth of approximately 10,600 feet and that the hole was being widened from 12-1/4 inches to 17-1/2 inches in preparation for setting 13-3/8 inch casing to that depth. After completion of the casing operation the well will enter the first target zone of interest for possible hydrocarbons at an approximate depth of 11,100 feet.

At approximately the same depth, the Yam 1, drilled one-half mile away during 1989, encountered high pressurization and gases and fluids which caused a blow out and the loss of the well.

In making the announcement, Dr. Joseph Elmaleh, chairman, also reported that the Isramco Master Limited Partnership in Israel had filed a prospectus to raise an additional $1.5 million, including approximately $250,000 for excessive costs on the Yam 2 due to ordinary drilling delays of some 45 days primarily caused by excessive hard rock formations. Also included in the filing are $250,000 funds for tests of the Yam 2, if and when they are conducted. The Master Limited Partnership funds 10 percent of the cost of the Yam 2. In addition $700,000 is to be used for the Bessor well, planned for drilling on the Nirim structure in the Northern Negev.

WILMINGTON, DE (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Stuart Pharmaceuticals, a business unit of ICI Americas Inc., today began marketing the leading antidepressant drug ELAVIL(R) (amitriptyline HCL), marking the company's entry into the $3.6 billion central nervous system disorders marketplace. Stuart is part of ICI Pharmaceuticals Group, one of the nation's leading research intensive developers and marketers of prescription products.

ICI received ELAVIL from Johnson & Johnson-Merck Consumer Pharmaceuticals (J&J-MCP) and a substantial cash payment in exchange for its OTC pharmaceutical products in a deal worth more than $450 million to ICI which was completed yesterday. This move is part of ICI's overall strategy to concentrate its resources in the research, development and marketing of innovative prescription pharmaceuticals, particularly in the cardiovascular, pulmonary, central nervous system, infectious disease, oncology, arthritis and metabolic therapeutic areas.

ICI has a number of significant CNS products in the research pipeline, including an antipsychotic drug, a selective 5- hydroxtryptamine II antagonist for treating a wide range of disorders, such as anxiety, depression and psychosis, and an anti-anxiety agent that the company hopes will not cause the addictive side effects associated with currently available therapies.

A well-established antidepressant worth some $25-30 million in sales per year, ELAVIL provides ICI with a critical entry point into the CNS market.

Along with this important change of product line, Stuart will introduce a modified distribution plan affecting ELAVIL as well as all other Stuart products. Beginning on or about Jan. 2, all products will be distributed to the retail trade exclusively through wholesale druggists. The only exception to this will be the HIBICLENS(R) line of products, which, in addition to wholesale distribution, will be distributed to the medical profession through Medical/Surgical supply dealers.

BELLEVUE, WA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Advanced Gravis Computer Technology Ltd. (NASDAQ: GRVSF; Toronto, Vancouver: AED) today reported that total revenues for the nine months ending Oct. 31 were $2,822,000 for a slight increase over the same period in 1988. Net earnings for the nine months showed a loss of $340,000, or 7 cents per share, versus a profit of $213,000, or 5 cents per share, for the same period in the prior year. Interim earnings have been depressed due to the company's considerable investments in R&D, key management additions, expansion of distribution channels, increased capital spending on new manufacturing tooling and software development, in addition to two strategic acquisitions the company entered into, as announced in prior releases.

The outlook for the last quarter is good, the company said. Strong seasonal demand should eliminate most, if not all of Gravis' first nine months losses, with revenues approximating $5,000,000.

Gravis has been continuing its expansion of its distribution channels. The company has signed numerous major new accounts, the most notable being Ingram Micro-D, the largest computer products distributor in North America. Additionally, Gravis now has 17 European distributors in 10 countries. The revenue impact from these new customers will not be fully reflected until next year when the company is integrated into their distribution channels.

The company also announced that it has entered into a license agreement with Nintendo America to manufacture and sell a Gravis version of the Nintendo Entertainment System (NES) joystick. This will be Gravis' most technologically advanced switch joystick, to date, incorporating Turbo and slow-motion. The Gravis joystick will become part of the family of the World of Nintendo-approved and licensed products.

By the end of the first quarter of fiscal 1991 the company will have approximately 10,000 North American storefronts, extensive distribution into Europe, in addition to the mass merchandisers Gravis anticipates shipping to with the Nintendo joystick.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - M.L. Lowenkron, president and chief executive officer of A&W Brands, Inc. (NASDAQ: SODA), today announced that the company repurchased $12,750,000 of its 12-3/4 percent subordinated notes in the 1989 fourth quarter. The company paid an average price of 106-1/2 for a total payment of $13,583,602. The repurchase was financed by utilizing $9,000,000 of the company's existing credit facility at a 9-1/4 percent current rate of interest with the remainder financed through existing cash balances.

"As a result of this repurchase," said Lowenkron, "the company will have an extraordinary before-tax charge to its 1989 fourth quarter income of $833,602, or approximately $.06 per share on an after-tax basis. However, in 1990 the company will recover this fourth quarter charge due to the reduced subordinated interest expense, the lower interest rate on borrowed money and our ability to repay the loan."

"There are many variables to consider in reviewing the future favorable earnings impact of this repurchase," Lowenkron said. "The most obvious is that we permanently eliminated $1.6 million in interest charges. Lowenkron added, "We have no immediate plans to continue with a repurchase program for our 12-3/4 percent notes. However, should opportunities arise consistent with our strategy of lowering our debt, then we will take the course of action that is in the best interest of the company, its shareholders and those who have invested in our securities."

WEST CHESTER, PA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Roy F. Weston Inc. (NASDAQ: WSTNA) announced today that it has been awarded the contract to assist the City of New York in developing a comprehensive solid waste management plan.

"This undoubtedly will be the largest and most complex solid waste planning job of the new decade," said Project Director Harold Yaffe.

The 20-year plan, and accompanying environmental impact statement, will provide the basis for New York City's future programs to reduce, recycle, compost, incinerate and landfill an estimated 30,000 tons per day of municipal solid waste, sewage sludge, medical waste, harbor drift and construction and demolition debris.

New York City Sanitation Commissioner Brendan Sexton said, "The City of New York faces an enormous challenge in developing solutions to our pressing solid-waste-management problems. By requiring a long-term plan to handle all of our solid waste, a plan that includes as much waste reduction and recycling as is environmentally and economically feasible, the state legislature has given us an opportunity to meet this challenge.

"We believe that the team led by Roy F. Weston Inc., which will assist us in developing this plan and preparing the Environmental Impact Statement, offers us the strongest technical support available."

The project will be managed from Weston's offices in Boston and New York. The contract period of performance is February 1990 through January 1991.

Weston is a recognized leader in the environmental engineering, public works infrastructure design and consulting industry. Its clients include many Fortune 500 companies and most major cities in the country.

DALLAS (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Oryx Energy Company (NYSE: ORX) announced today that it has entered into two agreements to divest interests in 316 domestic oil and gas fields for approximately $32 million.

The properties involved produce about 2,700 barrels of oil and 11 million cubic feet of natural gas per day and represent about one percent of the company's domestic proved reserves. The sales affect properties in 15 states with generally small working interests. Both sales are expected to close in early 1990.

"Our continuing strategy is to divest assets that do not fit with our long-term goals and to concentrate our operations into certain key areas," said James E. McCormick, president and chief operating officer of Oryx Energy.

"These sales, along with the sale to American Exploration announced in September and recent trades, are part of a strategy to consolidate our activity into the most productive areas. With these transactions, we're able to improve our operating efficiency by focusing on properties with higher daily production, more development opportunities and lower costs," added McCormick.

Earlier in December, Oryx Energy had estimated fourth quarter earnings, but excluded these sales since they had not been expected to occur in 1989. The company expects to record a net loss of about $19 million from the sales. Oryx Energy has reduced its previous estimate and now expects fourth quarter earnings to be in the $9-$13 million range.

Dallas-based Oryx Energy conducts its domestic operations through Sun Energy Partners, L.P. LAS VEGAS, NEV. (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Showboat, Inc. (NYSE: SBO) announced today the authorization of an open market purchase of its common stock and disclosed that earnings for 1989 would fall short of earlier expectations.

Showboat, Inc., in conjunction with its wholly owned subsidiary, Ocean Showboat, Inc., said the board of directors of their wholly owned subsidiary, Atlantic City Showboat, Inc. (ACS), has authorized the purchase of up to 4 percent of SBO's currently outstanding 11.4 million shares of common stock. The repurchased shares will be earmarked by ACS for Showboat Inc. restricted stock and stock options granted to key ACS employees in connection with a long-term incentive plan adopted by the board of directors of ACS. The repurchased shares will be used only for the benefit of ACS employees since, under certain financing agreements, all funds generated by its Atlantic City facility must be used solely by ACS until certain operating income tests are achieved. The long-term incentive plan will be submitted to SBO shareholders at the 1990 annual meeting.

The stock purchase follows a Dec. 1, 1989 announcement by SBO of a reduction in the company's quarterly dividend from 7.0 cents a share of a reduction in the company's quarterly dividend from 7.0 cents a share to 2.5 cents a share. Following the announcement, a substantial decrease occurred in the market price of SBO's common stock.

"Management is confident in the company and its future prospects," according to a company spokesperson. "We feel that at its current market price, SBO common stock represents a prudent opportunity to purchase SBO shares at a substantial discount from what management considers to be the true underlying value."

Showboat said that a greater than anticipated loss in the seasonably weak fiscal 1989 fourth quarter will affect profits in its year ended Dec. 31.

Year end profits, however, will show a major improvement over the loss of $2.7 million or 37 cents a share last year on revenues of $295.0 million.

"Increased reserves for bad debt, coupled with lower than expected table revenue at our Atlantic City casino-hotel, and higher than anticipated costs at our Las Vegas facility where renovation, promotion and operating expenses have been deferred in recent years, are expected to contribute to a fourth quarter loss of approximately 30 cents a share based on 11.4 million shares outstanding. In the fourth quarter of 1988, SBO incurred a loss of 15 cents a share on revenues of $73.8 million," a company spokesperson said.

The SBO statement continued: "We expect to see a rebound in Atlantic City's performance in the near term and, in the longer term, an improvement in operating results at our Las Vegas facility."

ATLANTA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - First Liberty Financial Corp. (NASDAQ: FLFC) announced that it has reached an agreement with SouthTrust Corp., Birmingham, Ala., whereby SouthTrust will acquire First Liberty's North Georgia Banking Division comprised of 17 banking offices with deposits in excess of $200 million.

"The decision to sell our North Georgia Banking Division is part of our commitment to maximize shareholder value. In addition, we continue to evaluate other alternatives including the possible sale of the company," said R. Gordon Rowell, chairman and chief executive officer of First Liberty. Earlier this year, First Liberty announced that it had engaged the investment banking firm of Goldman, Sachs & Co. to assist the company in the evaluation of various strategic alternatives. Previously the company restructured its balance sheet resulting in significantly less interest rate risk and less exposure to market volatility.

Rowell stated: "We have made significant progress in enhancing the North Georgia franchise which we acquired several years ago; however, in preliminary conversations with SouthTrust Corp., we saw an opportunity to structure a transaction that would be mutually attractive. This sale will allow us to recover our investment in the North Georgia banking division and to redeploy our capital to meet and substantially exceed the more stringent capital requirements recently enacted under the Financial Institution Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989, while offering significant strategic advantages to SouthTrust Corp."

The sale, which is subject to regulatory approval and expected to close within six months, includes Liberty's 14 banking offices in the metropolitan Atlanta area (located in Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Douglas, Fayette, Fulton and Gwinnett counties) and its three banking offices west of Atlanta (located in Carroll and Haralson counties). "First Liberty retains its core banking operations through its divisions in Middle Georgia, Coastal Georgia and South Georgia as well as Liberty Mortgage Corporation," stated Rowell.

Liberty emphasized that this announcement will not impact customer service.

First Liberty Financial Corp. is the holding company for Liberty Savings Bank, F.S.B. and Liberty Savings Bank of South Georgia, F.S.B. operating 34 banking offices throughout the state of Georgia. First Liberty Common Stock is quoted through the National Market System of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASDAQ) under the symbol FLFC. WILMINGTON, DE (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Du Pont (NYSE: DD) today announced it is offering expanded health care benefit coverage in its Medical Care Assistance Program (MEDCAP) that will include screening for early detection of breast, cervical, uterine, colon and rectal cancer.

H. Gordon Smyth, senior vice president-employee relations, said Du Pont employees, pensioners, survivors and dependents will receive medical insurance coverage for mammography, sigmoidoscopy and pap smears as preventive screening tools. Smyth said the company previously had used these tools as diagnostic tests for individuals with symptoms or family histories of cancer.

The American Cancer Society estimates 47,000 new cases of cervical and uterine cancer will be diagnosed in 1989, resulting in an estimated 10,000 deaths. With early detection and localization, a 90 to 100 percent survival rate is possible.

One in 10 women in the United States develops breast cancer. It accounts for an estimated 43,000 deaths annually -- making it second to lung cancer as the leading cause of death from cancer among women. A survival rate of 90 to 100 percent can be achieved through early detection and screening.

Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of death from cancer among U.S. adults. An estimated 151,000 cases are diagnosed annually, with some 61,000 deaths. Risk increases with age, but early detection improves survival by an estimated 84 percent.

Developed in accordance with recommendations of the American Cancer Society and the American Medical Association, Du Pont will use the following guidelines to qualify employees for expanded benefit coverage:

Mammography -- baseline mammogram between ages 35 and 39, with subsequent exams biannually thereafter from ages 40 to 50. Annual mammography exams should begin at 51.

Pap Smears -- beginning at the onset of sexual activity or at age 20, and every three years thereafter until 65.

Sigmoidoscopy -- beginning at age 50 with another the following year, and at three- to five-year intervals thereafter, depending on results.

With the MEDCAP expanded benefit coverage, Du Pont will pay for 100 percent of the costs of these tests. Other fees will continue to be covered at 80 percent, after the deductible has been met.

OKLAHOMA CITY (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Banks of Mid-America, Inc. (NASDAQ: BOMA) (the company) reported the resignation of Frank X. Henke III, as chairman and chief executive officer of the company and as a director of the company and its subsidiary banks effective Jan. 2, 1990. John E. Kirkpatrick will become chairman of the company. Charles E. Nelson, the chairman and chief executive officer of the company's principal subsidiary bank, The Liberty National Bank and Trust Company of Oklahoma City, will assume additional duties as president and chief executive officer of the company, and will become a member of the company's board of directors.

Henke said, "When I agreed to become CEO of the company in June of 1988, it was with enthusiasm for the task to raise the capital necessary to restore the company to a solid financial footing. That goal was achieved and we have made great strides since then in a very difficult economy. My agreement to focus my efforts on behalf of the company was not without concern for my personal investments. We were hopeful that my banking interests could be consolidated with the company, but we have not been successful in those efforts. I certainly wish the company and all associated with it the best and know that it will be successful under the strong leadership of John Kirkpatrick and Chuck Nelson."

In commenting on Henke's resignation and Nelson's appointment, Kirkpatrick said: "While we had originally anticipated that the company might acquire Mr. Henke's Tulsa banking interests when he was employed, it now appears that this acquisition will not occur. Under these circumstances, Mr.

Henke determined that it was in this best interest to resign. Mr. Henke provided significant assistance to the company in completing its recapitalization plan in 1988. Mr. Nelson has demonstrated strong leadership as chairman and chief executive officer of Liberty Bank and is well qualified to assume the additional responsibilities as president and chief executive officer of the holding company."

Proxy materials and the company's previously announced $70 per common share tender offer for up to 7 million shares will be mailed to shareholders during the week of Jan. 22.

On May 26, 1989 Temple Holdings Ltd., a bid vehicle owned by the Stena Group of Sweden and Tiphook PLC of the U.K. made an unsolicited offer to acquire the company for $50 per common share. That offer has subsequently been increased twice, first to $63 and then to $70 per common share, in the face of the refusal by the company's board to accept it due to inadequacy. Temple has engaged in a series of court actions in Bermuda in an attempt to limit shareholders' voting rights and to overturn the company's shareholder rights plan. All of these legal maneuvers have been unsuccessful and on Dec. 21, 1989 the Bermuda Court of Appeal cleared the way for the company to present its alternative superior offer to a vote of shareholders. On the same day, Temple delivered to the company a requisition notice calling for a special meeting of shareholders to remove the Sea Containers' board of directors and replace them with nominees instructed to accept the inferior Temple offer. The Sea Containers' board has not yet met to set a date for such meeting but management believes that date is likely to be in early March and the meeting will probably also be held in Hamilton, Bermuda.

The Sea Containers' board has determined that its planned offer to pay $70 each for up to 7 million common shares and a $25 face value $3.75 annual dividend preferred stock to shareholders wishing to remain investors in the company, is superior to the Temple offer of only $70 per common share because the board believes the preferred stock plus stub equity will have value in excess of $70. The board believes the company today is worth more than $70 per common share, so to the degree that short term investors wish to sell their common shares at $70 each, value will be transferred to the other shareholders. By way of example, if the company today were assumed to have an underlying value of $100 per common share and 7 million shares are repurchased at $70 each following the planned asset dispositions, the underlying value of each of the remaining independently owned common shares, inclusive the $25 value of the new preferred stock, would automatically rise to approximately $145.

The company believes that shareholders will reject the Temple attempt to complete their unfairly priced takeover because there can be no assurance that Temple, if successful in their attempt to gain control of Sea Containers' board, could or would complete the takeover on the terms currently proposed; because their offer is highly conditional; because Temple has not provided evidence of their sustained ability to finance such a takeover; but most importantly because the Temple offer is inferior to the company's alternative.

Sea Containers has entered a period of strong growth and expects many investors to recognize the advantages of remaining or becoming shareholders in the company in the post recapitalization period. The company has previously indicated that earnings from operations in 1991 are likely to be about $13 per common share, rising in subsequent years, given a continuation of market conditions.

EL PASO, TX (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - John W. Somerhalder II, 34, has been elected a vice president of El Paso Natural Gas Company, President William A. Wise said today. Somerhalder, currently director of El Paso's Midland Division, will succeed Alexander H. Carameros, veteran El Paso official who plans to retire June 1. Somerhalder's promotion was effective Jan. 1, Wise said.

"While we regret the pending retirement of Alex Carameros, who has served the company faithfully and well for more than 37 years, we are pleased to have such a talented and deserving young man as John Somerhalder as his future successor," Wise said.

Somerhalder joined El Paso Natural as a process engineer in June 1977 following his graduation with a chemical engineering degree from the University of Arizona. Following numerous promotions, he was named director of the San Juan River Area, in Farmington, N.M., in 1985. He was named director of the Midland, Texas Division in June 1988. Carameros has been in the forefront of numerous technological advancements made by El Paso, including the introduction of gas turbines, which are replacing the reciprocating engines formerly used to recompress gas on the company's main pipelines. El Paso was the first interstate firm to adopt gas turbines in the early 1950's. He has been a member for many years of the pipeline research groups which have made tremendous strides in maintaining and improving pipeline safety. These research and development organizations include the Gas Research Institute, American Gas Association's Pipeline Research Council and the Southern Gas Association's Pipeline and Compressor Research Council.

Carameros graduated from the University of Texas at El Paso (formerly Texas Western College) with a bachelor of science degree in physics and earned a degree in electrical engineering at New Mexico State University. He was a test engineer with General Electric Company prior to joining El Paso Natural in 1952.

WILMINGTON, DE (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - An agreement between the Du Pont Company and Merck & Co., Inc. (NYSE: MRK) became effective today when Du Pont received exclusive North American marketing rights to "Sinemet" (carbidopa-levodopa), a major Parkinson's disease therapy.

"Sinemet" is recognized by the medical community as the leading treatment for controlling Parkinson's disease symptoms. Du Pont, with 40 years of experience in the development of medications aimed at helping patients with Parkinson's disease, will now have responsibility for all medical education and promotional efforts for "Sinemet."

Du Pont is increasing the number of technical sales representatives and clinical staff to support its expansion in this therapeutic area.

"Du Pont will work closely with physicians, patients and support groups to advance our knowledge about this disease," said Kurt Landgraf, director, Du Pont Pharmaceuticals and Imaging Agents divisions. "We are hopeful that further developments in levodopa therapy will lead to improved quality of life for Parkinson's patients."

"Sinemet" is a combination of two compounds. The first, levodopa enters the brain and is converted to dopamine, the chemical deficient in Parkinson's disease patients. The second, carbidopa increases the availability of levodopa to the brain. The combined formulation allows for reduced levodopa dosage thereby decreasing side effects such as nausea common when levodopa is used alone.

Parkinson's disease is a chronic neurologic disorder affecting more than 500,000 people in the United States. While there is no cure for this disease, "Sinemet" provides relief from its symptoms. Symptoms include tremor, rigidity and bradykinesia or the slowness of movement usually associated with the disease.

Du Pont also received marketing rights, pending product clearance from the Food and Drug Administration, for "Sinemet CR," a controlled release formulation of carbidopa/levodopa.

Du Pont manufactures products for healthcare and life sciences research. Worldwide sales for medical products were $1.3 billion in 1988.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - General Motors today took another step ahead in electric vehicle technology with the introduction of the Impact, an electric car with acceleration performance that rivals cars powered by internal combustion engines and range capabilities suitable for most urban drivers' daily needs.

"(The Impact) is part of our threefold mission," said GM Chairman Roger B. Smith, "to care for our customers, to care for the environment and to be the industry's technology leader."

Capitalizing on the engineering and design philosophies first exhibited by GM's world record-setting solar car, the Sunraycer, Impact also shares some of the Sunraycer's lineage. Like the Sunraycer, the Impact was developed using the expertise of a great number of GM organizations and suppliers. GM's Advanced Engineering Staff has overall responsibility for development of the Impact. AeroVironment Inc., Monrovia, Calif., is the project's primary contractor.

The Impact powers past other electric vehicles, thanks to new developments in electronics, motor design, structural materials, tires and batteries, coupled with careful attention to weight and aerodynamic and rolling design efficiencies. GM is applying for nearly a dozen patents on various innovations in the car.

Rather than being converted from gasoline to electric, Impact was specifically designed as an electric vehicle. "Very importantly, its design intent was to meet all current federal safety standards for mass-produced passenger cars," Smith said. The vehicle includes heating and air conditioning as well as other driver-passenger conveniences.

Impact also has one of the slipperiest drag coefficients ever recorded in the General Motors wind tunnel. These factors enable it to achieve a range of 120 miles at average highway speeds of 55 mph. At GM's Mesa Proving Ground, Impact exhibited a 124-mile range on the Federal Urban Driving Cycle.

The Impact accelerates from 0 to 60 mph in eight seconds flat and has a projected top speed of over 100 mph. Actual top speed is limited at 75 mph by an electronic rev limiter. In a dramatic display of the Impact's performance, GM showed some of the car's early test runs at the Mesa Proving Ground in which it beat a Nissan 300ZX and a Mazda Miata in 0 to 60 mph acceleration tests.

GM said that with current battery technology the Impact costs about twice as much to operate compared to a gasoline-powered car in the Los Angeles area. But with further advances in battery life, Impact operating costs could become more competitive with those of gasoline- powered cars, and if gas prices increase substantially, the balance may tip in favor of the electric car.

GM announced no production plans for the Impact.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Rochester Community Savings Bank (NASDAQ: RCSB) today announced that it expects 1989 earnings of $19.3 million to $20.1 million, or between $1.40 and $1.46 per share, within the range estimated by investment analysts. This range represents an increase in earnings of 26 percent to 32 percent over 1988 earnings of $15.3 million, or $1.11 per share, exceeding the company's stated goal of increasing earnings by 15 percent to 25 percent each year. The company earned $13.4 million, or $0.97 per share, for the first nine months of fiscal 1989.

Leonard S. Simon, RCSB chairman and CEO, commented, "These results send a strong message to the investment community that RCSB is not experiencing the problems that others in the industry are reporting. Strong operating earnings, a low level of non-performing assets, and a capital level among the best for thrifts of our size in the United States, position RCSB to attain its goal of a 15 percent to 25 percent increase in operating earnings in 1990."

The earnings improvement in 1989 was attributed to increased net interest income and substantial growth in non-interest income. RCSB will report its audited results for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1989, by the end of January.

The company does not anticipate any growth in non-performing assets, but has increased reserves to further strengthen the balance sheet. The company expects non-performing assets to remain constant or decline slightly from the level of 1.56 percent of total assets at the end of the third quarter. The Bank expects its capital ratio to be above 8 percent at year-end, which substantially exceeds all regulatory requirements for tangible, core, and risk-based capital.

Rochester Community Savings Bank is state-chartered, FDIC-insured through the Bank Insurance Fund (BIF) and headquartered in Rochester. The company operates 24 retail banking offices in the greater Rochester area, and owns subsidiaries engaged in mortgage banking, automobile financing, commercial real estate banking, insurance, and securities brokerage.

WEST CHESTER, PA. (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - QVC Network, Inc. (NASDAQ: QVCN) today reported that its sales for the two-month Christmas shopping season increased 24 percent. QVC's sales for Nov. 1, 1989 to Dec. 31, 1989 rose to $196.6 million, up from $158.1 million in the same 1988 period.

For purposes of this comparison, sales for both periods include the televised-shopping operations of CVN Companies, Inc., which was acquired by QVC on Oct. 31, 1989. Not included are sales form CVN's C.O.M.B. mail-order business, which QVC has announced its intention to divest.

OREM, UT (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Wicat Systems Inc. (NASDAQ: WCAT), today announced an agreement with Phoenix Elementary School District to provide Wicat learning systems in four elementary schools.

The recent contract is valued at approximately $650,000 and will provide the district with four integrated learning centers, each comprised of 32 learning stations.

According to J. Marvin Higbee, Wicat's vice president of education, this agreement is especially significant for Wicat because of Phoenix District's past use of computer-assisted instruction packages (CAI) from Prescription Learning, Ideal Learning, and ESC.

FARMINGTON, N.M. (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Mesa Airlines Inc. (NASDAQ: MESA) today reported that it experienced a 66 percent growth in passengers carried in December 1989 as compared to December 1988.

For the calendar year, the company's combined southwest and Skyway operations experienced a 44.2 percent increase in passengers carried. For December, revenue passenger miles were up 51.1 percent, available seat miles were up 69.6 percent, while the load factor fell 5.1 percent to 41.7 percent. For the year, revenue passenger miles were up 29.6 percent, available seat miles were up 30.8 percent, and load factor was down a slight .5 percent to 46 percent.

Mesa's southwest operations carried 27,162 passengers in December, a 21.4 percent increase, and for the calendar year carried 332,217 passengers, a 19.7 percent increase. December revenue passenger miles were 5,171,000, up 16.4 percent, and for the year were 62,292,000, up 10.9 percent. December available seat miles were 11,085,000, up 16.8 percent, and for the year were 125,819,000, up 4.1 percent. December load factor was down .2 percent to 46.6 percent, but the year end load factor was 49.5 percent, a 3 percent increase. The reduction in the December load factor was due to the introduction of new service in Ft. Huachuca - Phoenix and the Denver - Santa Fe markets. Both of these routes have continued to experience increasing load factor since inception.

Skyway, Mesa's wholly-owned subsidiary operated in the Midwest under the Midwest Express code, carried 9,977 passengers in December and 67,970 passengers for the calendar year. Revenue passenger miles were 1,542,000 for December and available seat miles were 5,010,000 for the like time period. Load factor for December was 30.8 percent. For the calendar year revenue passenger miles were 10,520,000; available seat miles were 32,366,000; and load factor was 32.5 percent.

"We are satisfied with our year end traffic results," stated Larry Risley, president and chairman. "All facets of our traffic statistics increased except for company wide load factor. This reduction can be traced directly to the Skyway operation which has a much lower load factor than that of Mesa in the southwest. Skyway, however, continues to operate at a profit, and its rapid growth this year has been exceptional."

PHILADELPHIA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Philadelphia Electric Co. (NYSE: PE) said today that December's numbing cold set startling gas and electric usage records for the Philadelphia area.

-- December's gas sendout was the largest for one month ever recorded by the company.

-- The month's electrical output was the largest for any winter month on record.

-- While electric output in winter months rarely even comes close to matching electric output in the summer, December 1989 recorded the fourth highest monthly PE electric output ever, falling behind only July 1987 and July and August 1988.

-- The December surge helped PE set new all-time one-year records of 35.2 billion kilowatt hours for electric output and 84.1 billion cubic feet for gas sendout.

Joseph F. Paquette Jr., PE chairman and chief executive officer, said that while other regions of the country suffered from brownouts and mandated blackouts to conserve electricity, PE, with its four nuclear units operating, successfully met the increased electrical needs of its customers.

He added that the nuclear units also minimized the company's dependence on oil as a generating fuel at a time when oil prices for homes and businesses were increasing dramatically. The spot price PE pays for fuel oil has increased from $16 a barrel to $33 a barrel since late November.

Also, Paquette said, PE's production and storage of its own liquified natural gas enabled the company to meet the record needs of its gas customers when other utilities were asking their residential customers to reduce their use of gas.

But, Paquette said, record gas sendout and electric output unfortunately will mean substantially higher gas and electric bills in January for customers, unless they made significant efforts to conserve energy during December.

He urged PE low-income customers who have difficulty paying the higher bills to contact the company about energy assistance programs.

AUSTIN, TX (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Department of Interior has awarded a $127 million contract to Data General (NYSE: DGN) for 6000 Data General AViiON family workstations and servers. The $127 million contract is the largest contract awarded to date for the AViiON family, as noted by Data General. The entire AViiOn family is based on Motorola's 88000 RISC (reduced instruction set computing) microprocessor. This provides the user with a single, compatible architecture for an open, configurable and scalable system.

"This announcement provides a solid win for the Motorola 88000 in the RISC market," noted Chuck Corley, product manager for the 88000 family. "Endorsed by over 50 manufacturers world wide, supporting various applications including high-performance computers, workstations and networking products, the 88000 is becoming recognized as the most integrated RISC solution available today."

The 88100 MPU integrates both floating point math and integer execution units on a single chip. In addition to the 88100 RISC MPU, Motorola offers the 88200 CMMU (Cache and Memory Management Unit). A complete RISC solution is created with one 88100 MPU and two 88200 CMMU'S (one for instructions and one for data). Competitive RISC solutions can require 15 to 50 chips to provide the same RISC solution.

Data General has announced that the systems purchased by the U.S. Department of the Interior will be utilized by the U.S. Geological Survey for office automation and electronic publishing purposes, in geographical information systems and for hydrologic applications. While expecting that it will take four years to fully complete the installation of all workstations and servers, Data General will begin installing the AViiON systems after the first of 1990.

Motorola's Microprocessor Products Group (Austin, Texas) includes the High-End Microprocessor Division, the Microcontroller Division and the Digital Signal Processor Operation. The Group has established a number of industry-standard architectures, including the 68000 and 88000 families of microprocessor, the 68HC05, 68HC11 and 68332 icrocontrollers and the 56000 family of digital signal processors. WHITE PLAINS, NY (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - NYNEX Corp. (NYSE: NYN) and AT&T Network Systems announced today they will trial a fiber-optic broadband service early this year, furthering NYNEX's efforts to introduce high-speed data transmission in the public network as early as 1991.

The trial, based on the Switched Multimegabit Data Service (SMDS) standard developed by Bellcore, will begin in January at the NYNEX Science & Technology laboratories. Under the agreement, AT&T Network Systems will design, build and install the equipment. The trial will also allow the companies to jointly develop a network management and administrative system for SMDS.

SMDS technology will connect LANs at data speeds of up to 45 million bits per second (Mb/s), far greater than the 64 kilobits per second (Kb/s) rate now available over public switched facilities. This capability will allow business customers to move vast amounts of information traffic more cost-effectively than over private high- capacity facilities, such as point-to-point T1 fiber-optic links.

"NYNEX and AT&T Network Systems will work jointly with Bellcore to ensure that SMDS requirements permit a service that meets the needs of NYNEX's customers and can be built cost-effectively," said Walter Johnston, director of Advanced Technology Development at the NYNEX Science & Technology Center. "In addition, we will work cooperatively to gain third-party vendor support, vital to the success of the commercial SMDS offering."

"AT&T Network Systems supports NYNEX's desire to conduct a trial and is working aggressively toward this end. This trial reinforces NYNEX's commitment to meet the high-speed data communications needs of its customers," said Nick Finamore, AT&T Network Systems regional vice president.

NYNEX expects to offer tariffed services for high-speed data exchange within two years, Johnston noted.

GRAND RAPIDS, MI (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Charles Bennett, president and chief operating officer of Guardsman Products, Inc. (Guardsman) (NYSE: GPI) and Norman S. Armitage, president of John L. Armitage & Co. (Armitage) announced the completion of a joint venture agreement and the formation of the corporation Armorguard Products, Inc. for the production and marketing of powder coatings.

The production facility, currently fully operational, will be operated independently of the two partners and is in Andover, N.J. The new corporation will coordinate all sales and technical developments of the new products with both Guardsman and Armitage.

Powder coating technology is considered environmentally progressive in that it uses no solvents in the application of paint to metal parts. "While we are not sure that powder coatings will ever significantly replace liquid coatings, it does represent the fastest-growing technology in numerous industrial coatings market segments," said Bennett.

"Many of our customers are interested in experimenting with powder uses and we view our immediate involvement as one more way to assist our customers in being environmentally responsible," explained Bennett. "We believe our association with Armitage is an ideal arrangement with Guardsman bringing immediate marketing efforts to their strong technical experience in powder coatings. John L. Armitage & Co., a privately held company founded in 1876, has a good reputation as being a quality coatings manufacturer and, because it competes in different market segments than Guardsman, our joint venture is a good fit."

WASHINGTON (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) today announced an unprecedented action to strengthen six underfunded Sharon Steel Corporation pension plans and prevent their possible termination.

The federal insurance agency reached an agreement on funding of the pension plans with Castle Harlan Inc., a New York merchant bank which is proposing to purchase the steel operations of bankrupt Sharon Steel; Quantum Fund, a major creditor, also of New York City and the court-appointed trustee for Sharon Steel.

The agreement provides that all delinquent payments will be made in full to the pension plans and that full payments to the plans will be made for at least the next four years. As a result, approximately $110 million will be contributed to the pension plans.

"This is a case where everyone wins," said PBGC Executive Director James B. Lockhart. "The company will get a chance to reorganize and get out of bankruptcy, the workers and retirees will have safe and healthier pension plans and PBGC avoids a substantial loss to the federal pension insurance program."

He added, "This is a good example of PBGC's determination to encourage better funding of pension plans and make it much tougher for employers to terminate their plans."

Deputy Executive Director and Chief Negotiator Diane E. Burkley headed the negotiations for PBGC. Under the agreement, Sharon will make cash payments of approximately $67 million to make the pension plans' funding current. In addition, the next four years' projected contributions are secured by a combination of liens and escrow accounts from Sharon and Sharon's non-steel subsidiaries, which no longer will be members of the corporate controlled group.

Sharon Steel, of Farrell, Pa., has been in Chapter 11 bankruptcy since April 1987, and its pension plans have been underfunded by about $275 million.

In October, Castle Harlan and Quantum Fund announced their proposal to buy and reorganize Sharon Steel and its affiliated companies. The agreement is part of the reorganization plan that will be submitted for bankruptcy court approval. Part of the restructuring would involve breaking up the corporate structure (controlled group) linking Sharon Steel and its non-steel subsidiaries, which are not in bankruptcy. Without the agreement PBGC's recoveries could have been limited if the plans were to terminate because, by law, all controlled group members are jointly and severally liable to PBGC for plan underfunding.

The PBGC is a federal agency created under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 to guarantee payment of basic retirement benefits earned by American workers participating in private-sector defined benefit pension plans.

OIL CITY, PA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Quaker State Corporation (NYSE:KSF) is offering a lubrication limited warranty to all new car owners who have their Quaker State motor oil changed regularly by a professional installer. The warranty covers all lubricated engine parts for 250,000 miles or ten years, whichever occurs first.

The free warranty will be extended to the public through every type of retail motor oil installer, including auto dealers, service stations and quick lube facilities. To enroll in the warranty program, car owners or lessees can see a copy of the Limited Warranty and sign up at any participating motor oil service center which features Quaker State. A sign-up period of six months or 6,000 miles is allowed all new cars, and the warranty is not transferable.

Under terms of the warranty, Quaker State agrees to replace or repair lubricated engine parts that fail or experience abnormal wear due to the failure of Quaker State motor oil to provide proper lubrication.

In general, to qualify for reimbursement, a new car owner need only have the oil and filter changed in accordance with the vehicle manufacturers recommendations, but at least every four months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, and keep all warranty required service records for submission at the time of any claim.

So long as the owner complies with the warranty terms (and there is no evidence of collision, negligence or improper maintenance), Quaker State will pay industry accepted parts and labor charges to fix or replace any lubricated engine part.

Although claims covered by the vehicle manufacturer's warranty and any extended service contract are not covered, the Quaker State warranty will pay any deductible amount for a lubricated part failure not covered by a car owner's purchased extended service contract.

"We are providing every car owner who uses Quaker State additional protection for a quarter of a million miles or ten years, whichever comes first," says Quaker State President and Chief Executive Officer Jack W. Corn. "This demonstrates our complete faith in the superior quality of Quaker State motor oil."

Every new car owner or lessee who signs up for the Quaker State lubrication limited warranty will receive a copy of the warranty, instructions for processing claims, and a handy glove compartment packet for storing receipts and records.

Claims will be processed by Heritage Insurance Group, a wholly owned subsidiary of Quaker State Corporation. Heritage markets vehicle breakdown and credit life and accident insurance through auto dealers and has extensive claims settling experience.

LINDEN, NJ (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - General Magnaplate Corporation (NASDAQ: GMCC), the Linden-based pioneer in synergistic metallurgical coatings, today announced that it has finalized the acquisition of Ra-Tech Inc., of Racine, Wisc.

The acquisition of the hard anodizing metal specialist is part of Magnaplate's continuing strategic plan to grow by acquiring complementary metallurgical coating businesses.

In announcing the finalization of the acquisition, which was first disclosed at the company's annual meeting November 14, General Magnaplate's CEO, Dr. Charles P. Covino, said that Ra-Tech will more fully open up the Midwest to the company's specialized high-technology metallurgical coatings.

"With an expanded and localized presence in Wisconsin, we will be able to reduce turnaround time on coating projects, thereby better serving key General Magnaplate markets in the region," according to Covino.

These key markets include pulp and paper, food processing and production equipment manufacturing. Ra-Tech is being renamed General Magnaplate Wisconsin. The new subsidiary will remain in Racine, but will move into a large new facility to be constructed for Magnaplate.

"Ra-Tech is an established hard anodizer," Covino explains, "so we will be able to transfer in our Plasmadize(TM), Tufram(R), Lectrofluor(R) and HCR(TM) coating technologies right now. The completion of our new Wisconsin facilities in third quarter 1990 will permit us to apply our other synergistic coatings.

General Magnaplate Wisconsin is expected to bring in approximately $.75 million in revenues in the first year, as the new facilities are completed. By the second year, when the new plant is fully operational, revenues are expected to reach $2.5 million.

General Magnaplate's high-technology metallurgical coatings provide corrosion resistance, wear resistance and a dry-lubricated surface to a wide variety of metal parts.

All eleven General Magnaplate synergistic metal coatings offer new materials options to industry. They permit the use of lower cost metals and alloys to meet high-performance specifications that previously were met by using costly, scarce strategic metals.

The Ra-Tech acquisition represents a continuation of Magnaplate's expansion program. The company expects to announce, shortly, a finalization of the acquisition of Dynasurf International, Inc., Ajax, Ontario, Canada. Also under consideration are a number of acquisition candidates overseas, according to Covino.

CINCINNATI (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Mission Insurance Group, Inc. (MIG) today announced that it has signed an agreement with the Insurance Commissioner of California, the Director of Insurance of Missouri and the Unsecured Creditors' Committee of MIG which, if approved, will provide the basis for a plan of reorganization of MIG. MIG has been in Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings in California since 1986.

Under this Agreement, which resolves all differences between the parties, and a related Agreement, the Commissioner and Director could receive a combined total of approximately 29 percent of the common stock of the reorganized MIG and together will become the largest shareholders. The MIG creditors will receive virtually all of the remaining equity in the reorganized company. The transaction will be structured to preserve MIG's 62.5 percent indirect ownership interest in KCP Holding Company (an insurance holding company engaged, through subsidiaries, in writing workers' compensation and property and casualty insurance) and the company's large tax carry forwards. In addition, the new shareholders will be provided a right to invest approximately $17 million in the common stock of the reorganized company. C. Kirk Rhein, Jr. speaking on behalf of the Unsecured Creditors' Committee stated that the plan represents the culmination of a long and often difficult process. "The Commissioner did not leave a lot of value on the table for the creditors and equity holders of MIG."

The agreement requires the approval of the bankruptcy court and the state courts administering the delinquency proceedings of the insurance company subsidiaries of MIG. The creditors and shareholders of MIG will be asked to consent to this agreement as part of MIG's plan of reorganization. It is anticipated that these approvals will be sought in the first quarter of 1990 and the plan would be confirmed shortly thereafter.

LAS VEGAS (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - AT&T (NYSE: T) today introduced a residential telephone system that allows consumers to use their telephones as pagers and intercoms, without rewiring the telephone lines in a house.

The AT&T Intercom Speakerphone is one of the consumer telephone products AT&T is introducing at the Consumer Electronic Show, which opens here on Saturday. Other products include a combination telephone and answering machine, a clock-radio telephone and a feature telephone.

Consumers plug the AT&T Intercom Speakerphone into the telephone outlet just like they would a typical residential telephone. One master phone is required, and up to five extension units can be used. Other telephones can work with the system, although they won't have access to the intercom or the other features of the system.

With the system, users can page any or all system extensions at the touch of a key. Each phone has a speaker, 15-number one-touch dialing and a display that shows the number being called and the time and date.

The extensions are compatible with the AT&T System 2000, which provides two lines and intercom without rewiring.

The AT&T Answering System 1531 combines a full-featured telephone with a top-of-the-line answering machine. The answering system automatically gives the time and day each message was left and can sound an audible tone to alert the user that new messages have arrived.

Users can call from any Touch-Tone telephone to access all of its features while away from home. It has 20-number memory dialing and a display that shows the number being called.

The AT&T Clock Radio Telephone 330 is designed for people who want to combine a clock radio and a telephone in one unit, typically for bedroom use. The user can choose whether the unit will sound the alarm with music from the AM/FM radio or with a tone. The snooze control silences the alarm for eight to nine minutes at a time.

When the telephone handset is lifted off the base, the radio volume is automatically muted for the duration of the call. The handset is lighted and three keys can be programmed by the user for one-touch dialing of emergency or non-emergency numbers.

AT&T's newest addition to its feature telephone line, the Feature Telephone 700, is a basic model that can be easily placed on a table or wall. The volume control for the receiver is convenient for people who prefer a louder volume or who use the phone in noisy locations, such as a den or kitchen.

WORCESTER, MA (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Cambridge BioScience Corporation (NASDAQ: CBCX) today announced that it has filed a civil lawsuit in the U.S. District Court of the district of Connecticut against MicroGeneSys, Inc., of West Haven, Conn., for infringement of U.S. Patent No. 4,725,669, covering the purified envelope protein of HIV-1, the Aids virus. The complaint alleges that MicroGeneSys is selling purified patented products and conducting commercial vaccine research using the purified protein without a sublicense from Cambridge BioScience.

Harvard University, the owner of the patent, licensed it exclusively to Cambridge BioScience, which financially supported Harvard's effort to discover the HIV-1 envelope protein. Cambridge advised companies active in the Aids field of the issuance of the patent, and offered non-exclusive sublicenses on the purified protein for diagnostics, therapeutics, vaccines, and research products. A number of companies have taken sublicenses, including Abbott Laboratories, Diagnostics Pasteur, Baxter Healthcare Corporation, Becton Dickinson and SmithKline Beecham. Discussions continue with other interested companies for sublicences.

The patent covers a purified form of the envelope and envelope- precursor proteins that comprise the outer shell of the AIDS virus. These proteins, known as gp120 and gp160, respectively, play a critical role in the human body's immune defense response to the AIDS virus. Gp120 and gp160 are currently used in AIDS testing and may be useful in a vaccine and in the development of drugs to treat AIDS patients.

Cambridge BioScience initiated the suit after MicroGeneSys refused to negotiate with it for a sublicense to the patent. The suit seeks a judgment from the court requiring MicroGeneSys to pay sublicense fees and royalties on its gp160 based vaccine, which is being tested both as a vaccine and as a therapy. The suit seeks to prohibit all other infringing uses of the protein.

Harvard is using its share of royalty income from the sublicensing to support AIDS research and fellowships for AIDS researchers from developing countries.

Cambridge BioScience Corporation is a biotechnology company utilizing the latest advances in genetic engineering and monoclonal antibody technology to develop products for the detection and prevention of human and animal infectious diseases.

NEW EAGLE, Pa. (JAN. 3) UPI - Communities along the Monongahela River ran tests to make sure their drinking water was safe as cleanup crews tried to remove about 10,000 gallons of Exxon-owned gasoline spilled from a petroleum barge.

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency tested the Ohio River to see if any of the gasoline had floated into that waterway from Monongahela. Samples of water taken from East Liverpool, Ohio, were tested twice Tuesday.

Morning samples showed traces of components found in gasoline, but the benzene and toluene did not exceed drinking standards, said Ohio EPA spokesman Allan Franks. Results of the afternoon samples were not available.

''We have talked to cities along the Ohio River, advising those that take water from the river for drinking, to either turn off their valves or take other action,'' he said. ''But we don't anticipate any problems.

Barge MR-16 was carrying about 100,000 gallons of Exxon-owned unleaded gasoline when it bolted from Lock No. 4 near New Eagle Monday and began leaking, apparently after striking a bridge, officials said.

Workers unloaded the remaining gasoline off the barge Tuesday and it was no longer considered a problem, officials said. The U.S. Coast Guard estimated the barge spewed as much as 10,000 gallons of gasoline into the river.

The leak caused a 3-mile-long long slick on the ice-choked Monongahela, which joins the Allegheny River at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio River.

All downstream water suppliers along the Ohio River and the Monongahela were notified as a precaution, said Betsy Mallison, spokeswoman for the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources. Water companies downriver did not report any gasoline contamination, she said.

''The water suppliers have all been alerted,'' Mallison said. ''They have been advised to fill up to their capacity so this would not be interrupted.''

Two fuel compartments on barge MR-16 were damaged, Coast Guard Cmdr. Robert Segovis said. A typical compartment on a fuel barge holds 42,000 gallons of petroleum product, he said.

Exxon USA spokesman Philip Wetz in Houston confirmed the gasoline was an Exxon product but said Exxon did not operate the barge. Wetz said Exxon, which was widely criticized for its response to last year's Alaskan oil spill, contracted with Mon River Towing to haul the fuel.

A second barge carrying gasoline remained stuck at Lock No. 4 in Charleroi but it was not leaking, officials said. Tugboats were trying to get close enough to pump out its cargo of 400,000 gallons of fuel and crews hoped to remove the barge from the lock, officials said.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency coordinated the spill cleanup effort. The Coast Guard notified the West Virginia Division of Natural Resources and Ohio authorities.

Another petroleum barge in the same area also broke away but it was empty, officials said. All three barges are owned by Mon River Towing, officials said.

The leaking barge was delivering gasoline to an Exxon terminal in Westover W.Va., Wetz said.

Authorities did not know how the three Mon River Towing barges broke free. They were among 53 barges to break loose from their moorings Monday at three sites along the Monongahela.

At least 25 coal barges sank or became jammed in ice at the Maxwell Lock and Dam in North Charleroi, the Coast Guard said. More than 200 people were evacuated because of the threat of flooding from ice jams, but they were allowed to return home a few hours later, officials said.

LTV Corp. reported that 10 to 15 open hopper barges broke lose near a bridge in Pittsburgh, the Coast Guard said. Police temporarily closed bridges in Pittsburgh to avoid accidents involving empty coal barges.

No injuries were reported, and there was no structural damage to any bridges.

The Monongahela was swollen and the current faster than normal because river ice melted recently as temperatures warmed, officials said. Ice jams caused minor flooding on some stretches of the river, which was receding, the National Weather Service said.

The Coast Guard closed the Monongahela to commercial traffic between Lock No. 3 near West Elizabeth and Lock No. 4, officials said.

The spill occurred nearly two years to the day of a massive Jan. 2, 1988, oil spill at an Ashland Oil refinery located upriver of Pittsburgh on the Monongahela.

DAYTON, Ohio (JAN. 3) UPI - General Motors Corp. officials said Wednesday sluggish auto sales have triggered the indefinite layoff of 445 workers in the Miami Valley.

The layoffs will affect 325 workers at the Delco Products Division in Kettering, which manufactures struts for cars and pickups, and 120 workers at the Delco Moraine Division in Dayton, which makes brake systems, said Thomas Tatham, spokesman for GM's Dayton operations.

In addition, about 3,480 GM workers in the Miami Valley are on temporary layoff in January. Although most of the layoffs last one to two weeks, 400 workers at the Delco Moraine plant will be off work for 30 to 90 days, said Dave Darnell, director of personnel and public relations at Delco.

The slowdown at Dayton area components plants has resulted from the sag in auto sales that began in October, Tatham said.

Elsewhere, about 400 of the 1,400 workers at GM's BOC-Pittsburgh plant in suburban West Mifflin have been laid off for two weeks because of low demand for new cars, a plant spokesman said Wednesday.

The stamping plant makes sheet metal roofs, hoods, fenders, tailgates and floorpans for all GM vehicles.

There could be future layoffs if dealer stockpiles of new vehicles aren't reduced, said plant manager Fred Batch. A union spokesman said he expects a full recall of the workers if the dealers can reduce their inventories.

On the plus side, about 200 GM workers previously laid off have been hired to start Monday at the truck and bus plant in Moraine, Ohio, where they will be assembling the four-door Blazer.

The indefinite layoffs come at a time when supplemental benefit plans are somewhat depleted, said Bill Hinders, benefit plans representative for United Auto Workers Local 696, which represents Delco Moraine workers.

''The supplmental unemployment benefits funds are not in real good shape right now,'' he said. ''People with less than 20 years seniority are taking a benefit reduction of 20 percent.''

The union and GM tried to soften the impact of the layoffs by asking older workers with better benefits - about 95 percent of net pay - to volunteer. Despite that, the automaker was forced to lay off about 135 younger workers at Delco Moraine, Hinders said.

Officials for the International Union of Electronics Workers, which represents Delco Products workers, could not be reached for comment Wednesday morning.

In addition to the permanent layoffs, Tathum said temporary furloughs at local GM plants include:

-400 workers at the Delco Moraine plant in Dayton who will be placed on 30- to 90-day layoffs next week.

-500 workers currently on a one-week layoff at the Delco Products plant in Kettering.

-1,350 workers at the Delco Products plant in Dayton currently on a two-week furlough.

-1,000 workers on a one-week layoff at the Delco Products Dayton plant.

-230 workers at Delco's Machine Control Systems plant in Dayton off this week.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 3) UPI - Lawyers for Charles Keating, chairman of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan, Wednesday questioned the government's claim that the thrift's parent company improperly acquired $2 million worth of Memorex stock.

The stock transaction is one of four deals supporting the government's claim that Lincoln was being operated in an unsafe and unsound manner. The finding led regulators to seize the Irvine, Calif., thrift in April.

Keating, in a federal lawsuit filed in May, challenged the government's takeover of the insolvent thrift, the rescue of which is expected to cost taxpayers as much as $2.5 billion.

The complex stock transaction was the focus of the fourth day of hearings before U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Sporkin on government motions to dismiss Keating's lawsuit.

The stock deal began in December 1986 when a Lincoln subsidiary acquired 79,275 Memorex shares at $1 each as an incentive to purchase more than $40 million worth of junk bonds from the company.

The subsidiary, Amcor Funding, in turn sold the stock to Ernest Garcia, an Arizona real estate developer, at $35 a share, retaining an option to repurchase the shares for $4.25 million. The government contends Keating told Garcia the stock was worth about $126 a share.

Two days after the stock market crash of Oct. 19, 1987, Garcia offered to resell the Memorex stock and American Continental Corp. of Phoenix agreed to pay $25.25 a share, or $2 million. The government said Garcia did not know he sold the stock to the parent company of Lincoln. Amcor also abandoned its option to repurchase the stock.

More than one year later, American Continental sold the Memorex stock for $13.3 million, or $167 a share.

Michael Kennedy, a Keating attorney, said the thrift subsidiary could not have repurchased the stock without violating direct investment rules. He also said American Continental had no way of knowing that Garcia would be pressed by the stock market crash of 1987 to sell the stock.

''There is no evidence in the record that the ACC folks had an expectation the crash would occur Oct. 19 and cause Mr. Garcia's desperate cash situation,'' Kennedy said.

Garcia, who the government had said would be a key witness, has refused to testify. Keating's attorneys said they would subpoena Garcia if the government drops its demand that he appear.

The government contends that the Memorex transaction resulted in a dissipation of Lincoln assets worth about $12 million.

Kevin O'Connell, the deputy director of the Treasury Department's Office of Thrift Supervision, said in the agency's official administrative record that Garcia was acting basically as a conduit in the transaction between Lincoln and its parent.

In previous testimony, O'Connell acknowledged that Lincoln had told government officials in 1986 about a tax-sharing agreement with its parent that regulators now say was used to siphon $94 million from the thrift.

O'Connell said thrift regulators in Washington did not question the agreement, although he testified in December that it was ''illegal on its face.''

The seizure of Lincoln was the focus of a lengthy congressional investigation during the fall. The hearings examined Keating's strong political connections and the efforts of five U.S. senators to intervene with regulators on Keating's behalf.

DETROIT (JAN. 4) UPI - Ford Motor Co. may never earn a dime on its ambitious $2-billion program to provide it with a line of domestically built subcompact cars for the 1990s.

Instead, the nation's No. 2 carmaker is counting on its redesigned Ford Escort and Mercury Tracer, due this spring as 1991 models, to give it a broad sales base of fuel-efficient vehicles.

The total program, estimated by project managers to cost about $2 billion, allows Ford to continue selling its larger and highly profitable cars without incurring millions of dollars in fuel mileage penalties under the government's Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) standards, now set at 27.5 mpg.

Ford currently has only enough carryforward credits from 1987 and 1988 to meet levels for 1990. That means that even without anticipated increases in fuel economy standards, Ford would not be able to meet levels beyond the current model year without fines.

''The main goal of this program is to meet CAFE,'' said Kenneth J. Gralewski, manager of the new car program started several years ago with Japanese carmaker Mazda under the CT20 code name to develop a replacement for the Escort, first introduced as a 1981 model.

Building a subcompact car in the United States and selling it at a price competitive with products from Asian automakers has long been an unprofitable exercise for major U.S. automakers, Gralewski said during a preview of the new Escort/Tracer cars at Ford's Design Center in Dearborn, Mich.

In fact, Ford earned very little on its current Escort, even though it was one of the nation's best selling cars for many years and given relatively inexpensive styling updates during the last decade.

Ford's strategy to preserve domestic subcompact car production - something industry leader General Motors Corp. long since abandoned and third-ranked Chrysler Corp. is about to do - is to spread the program over a wide range of geographic markets to achieve greater economies of scale and base its new models on a platform developed by Mazda.

Although in some cases they wear different nameplates, Ford's new cars are produced and sold in its Asian markets including Japan, Taiwan and Malaysia, as well as Pacific Rim countries like Australia and New Zealand.

The size and scope of the CT20 program, estimated to represent production of about 1 million cars annually, brings Ford a step closer to realizing its goal of building a ''world car'' - something the original Escort never achieved despite being labeled as one.

But a major chunk of Ford's business is absent in this program - its massive European operations. That absence may be because of pride.

''They decided to go their own way,'' Gralewski said, adding that Ford of Europe was insistent on developing its own new Escort, also slated to go on sale in 1990. ''They did not want to just sell somebody else's product.''

The Escort and Tracer share most underpinnings with Mazda's 323 and Protege cars introduced in September, although they have unique bodies and a high level of domestically built parts.

The Escort will enter production in late February after a massive $1.5-billion manufacturing program for the new car that began in November is completed. Annual capacity at the plant, which built the previous Escort, will be expanded from just over 300,000 units to 334,000 units.

Ford's Hermosillo, Mexico, plant, which last August ceased production of the previous Mercury Tracer subcompact based on an earlier Mazda 323 model will start production of both the new Escort and Tracer in April.

Hermosillo, which Ford considers part of its North American operations, offers the advantage of substantially lower wage rates than those paid at at its U.S. facilities - thus lowering the cost of the entire project, Gralewski said.

Hermosillo will have the capacity to build about 180,000 cars a year, bringing Ford's total production capacity of the new Escort and Tracer to 514,000 cars annually.

The lengthy changeover times at Wayne, Mich., and Hermosillo jeopardizes Ford's position as having the best-selling car in the United States because of a loss in Escort production, estimated at about 27,000 units.

down from 381,330 units sold in the previous year.

The second-best selling car in the United States during the 1989-model year was the Honda Accord, with 362,437 units sold. Honda could achieve the top sales ranking again for 1990 because there was relatively little interruption in production at its assembly line in Marysville, Ohio.

NEW YORK (JAN. 3) UPI - A federal judge Wednesday denied punitive damages in the $300 million lawsuit filed by families of victims of the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103, limiting any awards to compensatory damages.

The ruling also forced lawyers for the families to prove willful misconduct on the part of the airline or settlements will be limited to $75,000 in compensatory damages based on the 1929 Warsaw Convention.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. Platt handed down the ruling restricting the families to compensatory damages in their $300 million suit against the airline and its security firm Alert Management Systems Inc.

In his ruling, Platt found that the Warsaw Convention, a treaty set up to limit the liability of airlines in cases of injury or death of their passengers, bars punitive damages and limits the amount a plaintiff can collect.

Although Platt conceded this limit ''adds insult to injury in today's world'' he found that ''it is simply not within this court's power to construe the treaty in a manner inconsistent with the contracting parties expectations.''

The bombing and crash of Pan Am Flight 103 on Dec. 21, 1988, that killed all 259 people on board and 11 people on the ground, set off a flurry of suits across the country that have been consolidated into one suit brought in the Eastern District of New York in Brooklyn.

Steven Pounian, lawyer for the families, called the $75,000 limit ''grossly inadequate.''

''It's an archaic system of liability that's been around since 1929,'' he said. The $75,000 limit was established in the 1960s.

''I am urging (our lawyer) to appeal it. I think (the decision) is a purist, hardline interpretation of the convention,'' said Joan Dater, of Victims of Pan Am 103 from New Jersey. ''Another implication of this is that if the accident occurred over U.S. territory, we would be eligible for punitive damages.''

''I think the judge was eminently correct in his decision,'' said James M. Shaughnessy, a lawyer for Pan Am, adding he was not worried about an appeal.

Pounian's law firm Kreindler and Kreindler represents 95 of the more than 150 cases brought against Pan Am.

Pounian said each of his clients filed for $5 million to $25 million in compensatory damages and for the same amount in punitive damages. Judge Platt's decision cuts the amount plaintifs can collect by half.

In December, Pratt temporarily sealed government documents that could prove the United States knew the flight would be the target of a terrorist attack.

NEW YORK (JAN. 3) UPI - A federal judge Wednesday approved a $6 million settlement of a lawsuit filed by a shareholder of CBS who accused the network's directors of negligence and mismanagement.

Of the $6 million, which will be paid by an insurance company for the network, $4.5 million will be placed in CBS coffers.

The shareholder who filed the lawsuit, Roger B. Minkoff of St. Croix, Virgin Islands, will receive $15,000, while his attorney will receive $1.5 million.

Minkoff, who owns 12 shares of CBS stock, filed suit in 1986, accusing the CBS officers and board of directors of mismanaging the network from 1983 to 1986.

The suit claimed CBS bought Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. in 1985 for an ''excessive price'' of $362.5 million and lost money when the magazine division was resold to Diamandis Communications Inc. for $650 million.

The suit also claimed CBS undertook a recapitalization plan in 1985 that increased its outstanding debt and led to a lower credit rating.

It also accused CBS of mismanagement in defending against a 1985 takeover attempt by Ted Turner of Turner Broadcasting System and in granting a put option to network founder William S. Paley.

The CBS directors denied any mismanagement and agreed to the settlement without admitting any wrondgdoing.

In agreeing to the settlement, CBS benefits from the $4.5 million because the suit was filed as a shareholders' derivative action on behalf of the corporation against its directors, said Douglas Jacobs, associate general counsel for the network.

Had CBS continued to fight the case and prevailed, the network would not have won any money, he added.

The settlement, reached Nov. 28, was approved by U.S. District Court Judge John M. Cannella.

Among those named in the suit were Paley, former CBS Chairman Thomas Wyman former anchorman Walter Cronkite and chief executive officer Laurence Tisch.

The lawsuit, which sought an unspecified amount of damages, also accused CBS of allowing Loews Corp. to purchase CBS common stock at less than fair value, at a time when Tisch was head of Loews and also a member of the CBS board of directors, Jacobs said.

DETROIT (JAN. 3) UPI - A top Chrysler Corp. executive said Wednesday the company is studying the possibility of building a new subcompact car domestically under a program that may involve an Asian automaker other than Mitsubishi, its longtime Japanese partner.

Robert Lutz, president of Chrysler Motors, told reporters during a preview of the North American International Auto Show in Detroit that he is convinced the No. 3 carmaker can produce a small car profitably - something other top U.S. automakers have been unable to do in recent years.

Lutz's remarks come after John Damoose, Chrysler's vice president of brand marketing, said last month the automaker is planning to build an all-new, inexpensive subcompact domestically sometime after 1993.

But Damoose gave no indication that a company other than Mitsubishi, which Chrysler has had an affiliation with since the 1970s, may be involved.

In late 1989, Chrysler said it would end production of the subcompact Omni and Horizon at its Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit early next month. In the interim, it will offer a lower-priced version of its next smallest car the Dodge Shadow and Plymouth Sundance.

Chrysler, now back in the large car segment with models like the Chrysler New Yorker and Imperial, also needs to build a small car domestically so it can meet anticipated increases in government-mandated corporate average fuel economy (CAFE) standards, now at 27.5 mpg.

In recent years, Chrysler has been the least vulnerable of the nation's Big Three automakers because it largely abandoned the large car market after its brush with bankruptcy in the early 1980s.

Lutz expressed concern that any CAFE increases would hamper Chrysler, saying a level of 35 mpg would be ''unreasonable'' and impossible for any automaker to meet with existing technology.

DALLAS (JAN. 4) UPI - Evergreen Media Corp., partly owned by a Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. investor group, said Wednesday it will acquire radio stations KRLD-AM in Dallas and KODA-FM in Houston and the Texas State Networks in Dallas for $86.5 million.

Scott Ginsburg, a major stockholder of Evergreen Media, and Carl Brazell, president of New York-based Command Communications Inc. which owns the properties, jointly announced they have concluded a letter of agreement on the transaction.

They said they expect the deal to be concluded before the end of the first quarter, subject to clearance by the Federal Communications Commission and the signing of a definitive agreement.

Ginsburg said a consortium of three banks led by Toronto Dominion Bank and an insurance company agreed to provide financing, which will include $10 million to $15 million in equity and the remainder in senior and subordinated debt.

Ginsburg said the two properties in Dallas, the eighth-largest radio market in the nation, were valued at $58.5 million and the Houston station at $28 million.

KRLD is an all-news station. Texas State Networks is a regional network that includes the Texas State News Network, Dallas Cowboys Network, Texas Agribusiness Network, Spanish Information Service and MBC Satellite Communications. KODA is a soft-rock and jazz station.

The Shearson Lehman investor group owns 10 percent of Evergreen, which was formed by Ginsburg in 1983. Another 10 percent of the company is owned by Indiana Power & Light Co. The remainder is owned by private investors represented by Ginsburg, who said he controls 30 percent of the company.

Ginsburg said Evergreen Media plans to retain the current format at the three properties with some future improvements to the capital facilities. He said he anticipates no major personnel changes.

He said KRLD is expected to continue as the flagship station for the Dallas Cowboys and KODA is expected to retain its broadcast rights for Houston Oilers games.

''Evergreen is pleased to have this opportunity to acquire these properties,'' Ginsburg said. ''Each of the properties individually and together have a large impact on the population of Dallas and Houston.''

Ginsburg said he expects the revenue of all the properties to grow in the future and become more profitable. He said his company will also seek to improve their ratings.

Evergreen Media also owns KHYI-FM in Dallas, KKBT-FM in Los Angeles, WLUP-AM/FM in Chicago, WAPE-AM/FM in Jacksonville, Fla., and WVCG-AM in Coral Gables, Fla.

Brazell, former general manager of KRLD, said after the sale Command Communications will only be a ''paper company'' but will continue to look for opportunities to acquire and operate other radio stations in the United States and Europe.

Brazell formed Command Communications in 1988 to acquire KRLD, TSN and three other radio stations in Denver and Los Angeles. The Denver and Los Angeles properties were sold last November.

Brazell said he owns all of the voting stock of Command Communications. Other investors include Robert F.X. Sillerman and Thomas H. Lee of New York, he said.

BOSTON (JAN. 4) UPI - Aetna Life & Casualty Co., in a move that could increase auto insurance rates for all Massachusetts drivers, sued Wednesday to win a bigger boost than the 7.9 percent approved by the state last month.

Aetna, based in Hartford, Conn., sued the state insurance commissioner in the Supreme Judicial Court. The company did not say how much it wants but noted the state's auto insurers had sought a 12.8 percent increase.

The state's first deputy commissioner of insurance, Peter Rice, said, ''We're prepared to defend the (previous) decision,'' but said he could not estimate how much a court reversal would cost drivers.

Aetna insures 268,000 vehicles in the state, or about 9.5 percent of the market, said Jason Wright, a company spokesman.

However, any change in Aetna's rates would affect all companies writing auto policies in the state, Rice said.

MINNEAPOLIS (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Dayton Hudson Corp. Thursday reported that its net retail sales for the five weeks ended Dec. 30, 1989, increased 15.1 percent to $2.41 billion from $2.10 billion a year ago.

Comparable-store sales were up 7.3 percent from the same period a year ago.

Kenneth A. Macke, chairman and chief executive officer, said the corporation was very pleased with the solid sales increases in all our companies in December. ''These increases are even more encouraging because they come on top of a strong December last year,'' Macke said. ''Our business was also slightly less promotional than last year. We finished the month with our inventories clean.''

Macke said the corporation continues to expect to turn in strong profit performance for the fourth quarter and the year.

December sales by business segment were as follows:

-- Target's total sales rose 20 percent while comparable-store sales were up 8 percent for December.

-- Mervyn's total sales increased 11 percent and comparable-store sales increased 8 percent for December.

-- Dayton Hudson Department Store Co.'s total and comparable-store sales increased 4 percent in December.

COLUMBUS, OH (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Drug Emporium Inc. (NASDAQ:DEMP) Thursday reported record high sales for both the third fiscal quarter and nine months ended Nov. 30, 1989.

As previously indicated, third quarter net income slipped slightly below the year-ago level.

For the third quarter, net sales reached $120.6 million, up 20 percent from $100.2 million last year. Net income amounted to $1,400,000, or 11 cents per share, vs. $1,731,000, or 13 cents per share, earned in the corresponding three months a year ago.

For the nine months, net income amounted to $5,530,000, or 42 cents per share, compared with $4,890,000, or 42 cents per share, earned in the similar period last year. Sales increased 20 percent to $354 million over sales of $294 million a year ago.

Chief Executive Officer Gary Wilber pointed out that the company's previously announced, more aggressive strategy on pricing, store growth and advertising was the primary cause for the reduced third-quarter profits.

''However,'' he said, ''we are seeing the initial success of this strategy with higher comparable-store sales -- up 11.9 percent for the third quarter vs. 10.3 percent in the previous quarter and continuing into our fourth quarter with a 14.9 percent increase for December.''

Wilber noted that third-quarter gross margins as a percent of sales declined 0.2 points and would have been slightly lower but benefited from a smaller charge under the LIFO method of inventory accounting. Selling, administrative and occupancy expenses were also negatively impacted by the more aggressive strategy.

The company also announced that during the third quarter it completed the acquisition of the remaining ownership of the Milwaukee franchise operations and decided not to pursue the acquisition of the Minneapolis franchise.

SHEPHERD, MO. (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - United Tote Inc. (NASDAQ:TOTE), a leading worldwide supplier of computerized wagering systems, Thursday reported record revenues and net earnings for the fiscal fourth quarter and the year ended Oct. 31, 1989.

Impacted by increased totalisator revenues, increased sales from Nevada-based sports/race wagering subsidiary United CBS Inc., and increasing sales and earnings from company-owned Sunland Park Racetrack in New Mexico, United Tote's fourth quarter revenues grew 62 percent to $10.2 million.

This boosted fiscal 1989 revenues to $31.2 million, up 39 percent from $22.5 million reported in fiscal 1988.

Fourth quarter net income rose 63 percent to $1.4 million, or 44 cents per share, compared to net income of $838,030, or 34 cents per share, for the same period a year ago. Weighted average outstanding shares for the recent quarter were 3,079,667 which reflect a May, 1989 50 percent stock dividend.

For fiscal 1989, United Tote reported net income of $1.78 million, or 58 cents per share, compared with net income, before the cumulative effect of an accounting change, of $1.55 million, or 63 cents per share, for fiscal 1988.

''We are pleased with the company's record performance in fiscal 1989,'' said Lloyd Shelhamer, chairman of the board of United Tote.

''Having completed five consecutive years of record revenues and net income, we believe United Tote is poised to capitalize on industry growth anticipated in the next decade.''

To enhance future growth, United Tote acquired two companies involved in manufacturing and marketing computerized wagering systems. Autotote Systems Inc. of Newark, Delaware was purchased in December 1989 in an $85 million transaction.

In April, 1989, the company bought CBS Computer Systems, the dominant supplier of wagering systems to Nevada's legalized sports/race wagering industry.

The company currently services over 300 pari-mutuel and sports/race wagering facilities worldwide, compared to servicing approximately 127 facilities in North America and Spain at the beginning of fiscal 1989.

James H. Pierce, who was named United Tote president and chief executive officer following the Autotote transaction, said United Tote would derive long-term benefits from the acquisition.

''The industry is presenting significant growth opportunities, largely due to the legalization of pari-mutuel wagering in new states and expanded activity in many other states,'' said Pierce. Our larger marketing position will enable United Tote to compete more effectively for this new business.''

Pierce noted that consolidation of United Tote and Autotote will require considerable corporate resources and management effort in the short term.

''We feel, however, that the future growth potential for United Tote in the 1990s more than outweigh the effects of these consolidation activities '' said Pierce.

MILPITAS, CA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - ADAC Laboratories (NASDAQ;ADAC), in a follow-up announcement to the company's news release dated Jan. 3, 1990, Michael O. Preletz, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, expanded upon the revenue shortfall for the first fiscal quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Preletz stated: ''ADAC fully expected that the normal process of achieving a customer's technical decision in favor of the company's products over the competition's products would be quickly followed through by the normal financial approval process.

''Unfortunately, the customer's financial approval process is taking longer than the company had been previously experiencing, leading to the shortfall in revenues.''

Preletz added, ''based upon our early analysis, we anticipate that for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, revenues will be in the $18 million to $20 million range; earnings per share are estimated to be in the $0.03 to $0.05 range.''

Preletz concluded by stating: ''Looking forward, the company believes that its competitive position has not changed, and that its first quarter experience does not reflect a significant softening in its markets.

''Obviously, we must evaluate these events in much greater detail due to the significance of the change and if our markets have softened, the company remains committed to delivering a profitable earnings stream. At this time, however, we continue to believe that fiscal year 1990 should be a growth year in sales and earnings for the company.''

CHATSWORTH, CA. (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Datametrics Corp. (ASE:DC) Thursday announced revenues and earnings for the fourth quarter and the fiscal year ended Oct. 29, 1989.

For the 1989 fiscal year, revenues increased to $29,858,275 from $29,460,762 reported the prior year. The company experienced a loss of $2,051,206, or 61 cents per share, for the year in contrast to net earnings of $2,058,180, or 49 cents per share, in fiscal 1988.

Revenues for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989 were $8,580,616 vs. $7,753,054 for the same fiscal 1988 period. Fourth-quarter earnings were $80,367, or 1 cent per share, compared with $378,547, or 9 cents per share for the prior year's like period.

Sidney E. Wing, president and chief executive officer, attributed the company's losses for the year primarily to strategic expenditures on research and development, overstaffing early in the year in anticipation of greater volume and higher production costs.

He noted, however, that the implementation of manufacturing efficiencies and company-wide cost containment measures contributed to a modest fourth-quarter return to profitability, which is expected to continue in fiscal 1990.

Wing further noted that despite current stretch-outs and curtailments of some defense programs, Datametrics stands to benefit from its well-established position in the growing command, control, communications and intelligence segment of the aerospace and defense marketplace.

He said, ''As of 1989 fiscal year-end, we have a healthy backlog of some $24 million, a large and diversified program base with planned follow-ons and a number of newly introduced proprietary products that are receiving excellent market response. In short, we believe Datametrics is poised to enter a period of sustained profitability.''

Datametrics is a 26-year-old producer of computer peripherals for aerospace, defense and industrial markets. The company's products include mil-spec and ruggedized high-speed, non-impact printers, printer/plotters, teleprinters, high-density cartridge tape recorders, facsimile products and keyboards, all of which meet stringent requirements for operating under extreme variations in temperature, moisture, radiation, vibration and shock.

IRVINE, CA. (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - AST Research (NASDAQ:ASTA) Thursday announced preliminary sales of $130 million for the second quarter of fiscal year 1990, ended Dec. 29, 1989.

This compares with sales of $110.9 million for the second quarter of fiscal year 1989.

Net income after taxes will be in excess of $7 million for the second quarter of fiscal year 1990, compared with a net loss of $8.9 million for the comparable prior year period. Estimated primary earnings per share are expected to be approximately 60 cents for the second quarter of fiscal year 1990, compared with a net loss per share of 77 cents for the like period last year.

AST plans to release complete results for the second quarter of fiscal 1990 by the week of January 22.

On December 21, the company was the first to announce shipments of ISA (Industry Standard Architecture) i486 computers based on the revised production version of Intel's microprocessor. AST Premium i486 EISA (Extended Industry Standard Architecture) computer systems are expected to ship during the third quarter of fiscal 1990, both in desktop and tower configurations.

AST's earnings surge resulted from increasing end-user demand for personal computers based on Intel's higher-performing 386 micrprocessor. The shift in orders from the 286 processor to 386-based systems had a marked positive effect on AST's gross profit margins, which exceeded 30 percent for the second quarter of fiscal 1990. The company also continued to concentrate on programs aimed at manufacturing efficiencies and asset controls.

AST is one of the original nine founders of the computer consortium that developed the new EISA specification for personal computers. At Fall Comdex 1989, AST was among a handful of companies to unveil the world's first computer systems based on EISA bus design. EISA offers the power and capability of today's minicomputer systems at a fraction of the cost.

AST is a leading manufacturer of high-performance desktop computing solutions. The AST systems product line ranges from entry-level Bravo systems to the 386-based and i486 high-performance Premium line of personal computers, including the new EISA bus design.

GLENDALE, CA. (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Wells Fargo & Co. (NYSE:WFC) announced it has completed the purchase of Glendale-based Valley National Bank for approximately $55 million, or $30 per share.

''We are personally very pleased to see two banks with such proud traditions become one,'' said Wells Fargo Executive Vice President Liam McGee and Valley National President Joseph Valentine in a joint letter to Valley National customers. McGee is division manager in charge of Wells Fargo Bank's 176 Southern California retail branch offices.

''We can assure you that Valley National Bank's strong tradition of service to the communities of the San Fernando Valley will continue'' with Wells Fargo.

In keeping with that commitment, McGee said that Valentine will remain with Wells Fargo and will become chairman of a new advisory council, made up primarily of former Valley National directors and customers. The advisory council will meet four times a year, and ''will help Wells Fargo continue the momentum that Valley National had achieved, and will advise us on our progress,'' he said.

McGee said that six of the seven Valley National branches will remain open. On Monday, Feb. 5, the Glendale, South Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock, Montrose and Toluca Lake branches will open for business as Wells Fargo branches for the first time. The last day of business for the Valley National Van Nuys branch will be Friday, Feb. 2. On Monday, Feb. 5 all accounts from that office will have been moved to the nearby Wells Fargo Bank Van Nuys branch, located at 6600 Van Nuys Blvd.

''We will take care of all of the related changes for our customers,'' said McGee. ''Most importantly, every effort will be made to give Valley National customers the same personal service they have been accustomed to receiving.''

No immediate plans were announced regarding changes in personnel at Valley National Bank branches. However, McGee said many branch employees will stay on in comparable jobs at Wells Fargo. ''We need and welcome the Valley National employees,'' he said. ''They know their customers best.''

McGee added that Wells Fargo, as in its other recent acquisitions, would also make every effort to find other positions in its organization for Valley National employees that might be displaced. ''We will also offer career counseling, job referral services and severance packages for displaced employees based on years of service and rank at the time of separation,'' he said.

Wells Fargo and Valley National reached a definitive agreement on Sept. 8, 1989, that provided for Wells Fargo to buy the 32-year-old Glendale-based bank. Valley National Bank shareholders approved the purchase plan on Nov. 14, and Wells Fargo received regulatory approval in December.

Valley National had assets of $255.0 million as of Sept. 30, 1989, and $223.5 million in deposits. Wells Fargo & Co., which had assets of $48.5 billion as of Sept. 30, 1989, owns Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., the state's third-largest bank and the ninth-largest bank in the nation. Wells Fargo Bank operates 456 branches throughout California.

IRVINE, CA (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - DAVIN Computer Corp. (OTC:DVNC) Thursday announced that it had been notified by the U.S. Patent Office that two of DAVIN's patent applications on its new computer design were being granted and that two remaining patent applications are pending.

David H. Methvin, president of DAVIN Computer, stated: ''One of the patents could have important implications for the computer industry. We refer to this particular invention as parallel byte processing in a single processor.

''The technique is applicable to all 32-bit and 64-bit commercial computers. Using this feature, we have measured performance boosts in our 64-bit minicomputers of up to 15 times in some byte processing tasks that are common in many applications.''

Methvin indicated the second patent covered Automatic Data Channels feature built into all DAVIN processors.

''While most minicomputers can handle only 10 or 20 personal computer connections transmitting data files at the same time, DAVIN's current computers can handle over 200 simultaneous personal computer transmissions at 38.4 Kbps asynchronous data rates, and future models of our computers will push this number close to 1,000 personal computer and/or modem connections,'' Methvin said.

''Byte processing and data communications have come to dominate commercial minicomputer applications, but existing computer designs do not handle these tasks well,'' Methvin continued. ''By designing an entirely new computer architecture from the ground up, we were able to make major breakthroughs in performance and cost. Our first 64-bit computer is priced less than $10,000 in quantity and exceeds the performance of some competing products costing $200,000 or more,'' Methvin added.

The company has registered an offering of its securities with the Securities and Exchange Commission to raise funds to enable the company to begin production and marketing of its computer products. The issue is being offered only in states in which the issue has been qualified and is being offered only through the Prospectus.

DALLAS (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - Interphase Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:INPH) Thursday announced revenues of $20,502,645 for its fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1989.

Revenues were up compared with fiscal 1988 revenues of $19,149,957. Although the company is profitable from operations for 1989 fiscal year, Interphase reported a slight loss of $106,920, or 3 cents per share, compared with net income of $1,627,689, or 60 cents per share, for fiscal 1988.

The loss is primarily due to expenses of approximately $930,000 relating to the funding of its majority-owned start-up company, Omni Solutions, a one-time charge of approximately $352,000 in connection with the termination if its acquisition of Ciprico Inc. and a combination of higher marketing and sales expenses and slightly lower gross margins.

''Fiscal 1989 was our 15th sequential year of increased revenue,'' said President Michael E. Cope, ''but certain events forced our first loss since 1978. It is important to note that operations were profitable and that we showed net growth in revenues despite significantly lower revenues from two of last year's top three customers.''

SAN JOSE, CA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - The 1989 $55.8 billion worldwide semiconductor industry experienced a lackluster year with only a 10 percent growth, but the Asia/Pacific semiconductor companies' market share grew four times faster last year than the worldwide average.

These were two of the findings of Dataquest's annual preliminary 1989 worldwide semiconductor market share survey released Thursday.

Reasons for the overall sluggish growth were declines in computer, communications and automotive shipments and the resulting large semiconductor inventories and decreased demand which caused dramatic price declines in many product segments, most notably DRAMs. It was, however, an emphasis on DRAMs that helped the Asia/Pacific companies capture 4 percent of the total market.

Products that drove the 10 percent growth were MOS memory and microdevices as they did in 1988. MOS digital growth was strong, at 19 percent while the bipolar digital market has shrunken considerably this year, declining by 11 percent as CMOS and BiCMOS begin to replace this technology.

In its annual survey of the top worldwide semiconductor suppliers, Dataquest found that Japanese companies maintained a 51 percent share of the market, European companies stayed at 10 percent, Asia/Pacific companies grew to 4 percent and North American companies dropped to 35 percent, down from 37 percent in 1988.

The survey of 120 semiconductor suppliers also found that Japanese companies increased their dependence on exports in 1989 which grew their market share in North America. They now supply 24 percent of the North American semiconductor market, up from 21 percent in 1988. North American companies, however, merely maintained their 10 percent share in Japan.

NEC retained its rank as the number one semiconductor supplier worldwide with revenue of almost $5 billion. However, Toshiba was close on NEC's heels with $4.9 billion revenue. Dataquest found that, while NEC is clearly the Japanese leader in the microprocessor and related device area, Toshiba is now the world's largest supplier of MOS memory.

Both NEC and Toshiba are almost equal in sales of MOS logic; Toshiba is stronger in analog and discrete; NEC is much larger in bipolar digital logic.

Siemens (ranked 15, up from 20 in 1988), Samsung (13 up from 18 in 1988) and SGS-Thomson (12, 12 in 1988) had the highest growth rates, at 52 percent, 42 percent and 20 percent, respectively. The high growth rates of Siemens and Samsung are primarily attributable to MOS memory, particularly 1Mb DRAMs.

SGS-Thomson, while not a player in the DRAM market, experienced extremely high growth in its sales of static RAMs, microdevices and ASICs, due partially to its acquisition of Inmos.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Adobe Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:ADBE) announced its fourth-quarter and fiscal 1989 operating results.

Revenue for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 1, 1989, was $37,703,000 compared with $25,265,000 in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1988, an increase of 49 percent. Net income was $10,041,000, or 48 cents per share compared with $6,659,000, or 31 cents per share in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1988, an increase of 51 percent in net income and 55 percent in earnings per share.

For all of fiscal 1989, Adobe achieved revenue of $121,358,000, an increase of 45 percent over the $83,483,000 reported in fiscal 1988. Net income for the year was $33,706,000 and earnings per share were $1.55 compared with $21,080,000, and 98 cents per share earned in fiscal 1988. Net income grew by 60 percent and earnings per share 58 percent over the comparable figures for fiscal 1988.

Royalty revenue in the systems business grew to $81,877,000 in fiscal 1989 from $61,617,000 in 1988 as the company's royalty paying customers grew from 13 in fiscal 1988 to 19 at the end of fiscal 1989. Acceptance for PostScript printers and typesetters from these OEM customers continued to expand contributing to the growth in royalty revenue.

Apple Computer continued to be Adobe's largest customer, contributing 21 percent of total revenue for the quarter and approximately 25 percent for the year.

Adobe also shipped Adobe Type Manager software into the Macintosh market in October 1989. This product produces good-looking Adobe type on the Macintosh screen and allows printing of that type on non-PostScript, as well as PostScript printers, giving the company access to a market that it had not addressed in the past. Sales and acceptance of this product have been very strong, helping the company achieve $34,719,000 in product sales revenue compared with $19,286,000 in 1988, an increase of 80 percent.

Adobe's board of directors declared a fourth quarter cash dividend of 5 cents per share on the company's common stock for shareholders of record as of Jan. 12, 1990 for payment on Jan. 26, 1990.

SCHENECTADY, NY (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - The Fourth International Conference on Technologies for Producing Electricity in the 21st Century has selected GE as one of four winners of the 1989 International Achievement Award for the development and commercial introduction of the MS7001F (7F) gas turbine.

Also selected was Virginia Power for their leadership in pioneering the first commercial application of GE's MS7001F technology.

Held this past November in San Francisco, the conference is co-sponsored by the Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI) of the United States, Kernforschungsanlage Julich of West Germany, and the New Energy and Industrial Technology Development Organization of Japan.

According to conference co-chairman, Seymour Albert, an EPRI spokesman, GE received the achievement award for ''innovative power generation technology for the efficient generation of electricity.''

GE introduced the 150-megawatt-class 7F gas turbine in the Fall of 1986 after a five year, $70 million program that involved more than 650,000 man hours of development work.

One milestone in this product development was a joint design study with EPRI that focused on high reliability aspects of the machine. As a result of the study, several design advancements were incorporated into the MS7001F that helped establish the machine's target availability of 95 percent.

After extensive factory testing, the first 7F machine was recently installed at Virginia Power's Chesterfield Power Station where it is currently being integrated into a combined-cycle system for commercial service by mid-1990.

Combined-cycle power plants use the exhaust heat from a gas turbine to generate steam to drive a steam turbine, thus generating power from energy that otherwise would have been wasted.

Using advanced cooling techniques derived from GE's aircraft engine technology, the 7F converts fuel into electricity with greater than 50 percent thermal efficiency in combined cycle, compared with 46 percent for earlier generation gas turbines, and 42 percent for conventional steam turbine units.

ALEXANDRIA, VA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Kay Jewelers Inc. (NYSE:KJI) Thursday announced preliminary results for the fourth quarter and year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

While total revenues for the year are expected to exceed those of 1988, same stores sales for the year and fourth quarter will be below those of last year by approximately 7 percent and 13 percent, respectively. As a result, operating profits are expected to be substantially below those of 1988.

The company attributed this performance to continued softness in consumer durable sales and the effect of significantly tightening its credit policies at the beginning of the year.

In addition, deep discounting by many retailers led to particularly weak Christmas sales for the company. On the other hand, gross profit margins were maintained at normal levels.

Management further noted that while its ongoing program to improve credit quality has had the desired results, it also had a major direct impact on the year's same store sales decline of 7 percent.

Responding to an article that appeared in today's Wall Street Journal, the company noted that its credit tightening policy has been successful and will benefit the company's results in 1990 and beyond. Management added that no further extraordinary writedowns will be taken in 1989, and based on preliminary indications, no additional credit tightening will be necessary in 1990.

With the expectation that difficult and competitive industry conditions will continue through the first half of 1990, the company has instituted additional cost containment programs and has reduced the number of stores it will open in 1990.

At the same time, marketing and promotional efforts will be enhanced to protect and improve market share.

Additionally, Kay Jewelers announced that it is reveiwing alternatives to maximize the value of its Black Starr & Frost division, including its possible distribution to shareholders or an equity investment by outside parties.

Based on the foregoing, the company is confident that record profits can be achieved in 1990.

Kay Jewelers Inc. is the second largest fine jewelry retailer in the United States with 502 stores and leased departments in 33 states. The company's sales units include Kay Jewelers Stores, J.B. Robinson Jewelers, Marcus & Co. and Black Starr & Frost Ltd.

INDIANAPOLIS (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - INB Financial Corp. (NASDAQ: INBF) Chairman Thomas M. Miller and Jerry D. Gummere, chairman of Peoples Mid-Illinois Corp., Thursday jointly announced the signing of a definitive agreement which will result in the merger of Peoples Mid-Illinois, headquartered in Bloomington, Ill., with INB-Illinois Corp., a subsidiary of INB Financial.

The Peoples Bank, a subsidiary of Peoples Mid-Illinois, will become a subsidiary of INB-Illinois and will be the first banking affiliate of INB Financial Corp. to be located outside the state of Indiana.

Peoples Bank is the largest bank in McLean County, Ill. McLean County is the state's 15th largest with a total population of 125,000. Its growth rate between 1980 and 1988 ranked 12th fastest of all 102 Illinois counties, growing at a rate three times faster than the state of Illinois.

In September 1989, county unemployment stood at 3.4 percent vs. 5.5 percent for Illinois and 5.1 percent for the United States. This is largely due to a very low economic dependence on durable goods manufacturing combined with a large and growing services sector.

Major county businesses include: State Farm Insurance, Country Companies (insurance), Illinois State University, Illinois Wesleyan University, Diamond Star Auto Plant (a joint venture between Chrysler and Mitsubishi) The Eureka Company, and Bromenn Healthcare.

Peoples Bank operates four facilities in McLean County, two each in the cities of Bloomington and Normal, and holds a 12 percent share of the $1.8 billion in total county deposits.

Under the terms of the agreement, which is subject to approval by shareholders of Peoples Mid-Illinois and regulatory authorities, shareholders of Peoples Mid-Illinois will exchange their 1,267,177 common shares for common shares of INB Financial with the ultimate exchange ratio based on the average price of INB Financial shares for a 20-day trading period ending five days before the transaction is finalized.

The number of INB Financial shares to be exchanged for each share of Peoples Mid-Illinois will vary between 1.35 and 1.327 as INB Financial's average stock price varies between $29.50 and $30. Thus, each share of Peoples Mid-Illinois would have a value of $39.83 and the aggregate purchase price would be $50.456 million.

If INB Financial's average stock price is above $30, the exchange ratio will be 1.327. If INB Financial's average stock price is below $29.50, the exchange ratio will be 1.35. Should INB Financial's average stock price fall below $28 during the same trading period, the parties may renogotiate the agreement or it may be terminated.

INB Financial has been granted an option to purchase 250,000 unissued shares of the common stock of Peoples Mid-illinois under specified conditions.

Noting that Peoples Bank is the largest bank in its Central Illinois market, Miller said that the ''market's population, growth, location and economic vitality combine to make this acquisition very attractive and fitting for INB Financial's expansion strategies.''

According to Miller, ''the hallmarks of the Peoples Bank operation are strong management, high profitability, strong capitalization, outstanding loan quality, substantial liquidity and an attractive and stable base of core deposits. We are pleased to enter this Central Illinois market with this fine bank as our partner.''

''We are enthusiastic about this merger because it offers us the opportunity to grow,'' Gummere said. ''INB Financial is a well-organized regional banking company with a great reputation in the industry. Our customers and the community will benefit from the strengths which INB Financial brings to the market including capital, products, technology and the ability to move forward in the industry. We're very pleased to become the foundation for its expansion in our market.''

The Peoples Bank was founded in 1869, and the holding company was established in 1972. In 1985, the holding company acquired First National Bank in Normal, merging it into Peoples in 1987.

DALLAS (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Dallas-based United Medicorp Inc. (NASDAQ:UMCI) began trading its common stock Dec. 27, 1989, on NASDAQ under the symbol ''UMCI.''

Formed in March 1989 by entrepreneur G. Ray Miller, founder of U.S. Tel and International Telecharge, United Medicorp brings together service expertise of well-known businesses to offer the latest in electronic claims processing, collection and cash management techniques for hospitals and physicians' offices.

Participating with United Medicorp are Andersen Consulting, Sears Business Centers, GTE Health Systems and Provider Capital.

United Medicorp processes medical insurance claims for hospitals and physicians using proprietary, custom-designed software. For hospitals and physicians' offices with existing computer capabilities, UMC will install bridge technology to link input and processing systems together.

In addition, United Medicorp advances 45 percent or greater of the amount of anticipated insurance payments to the health care provider within seven business days of processing the claim, dramatically improving cash flow for the hospital and physician.

United Medicorp also advances funds on claims submitted but unpaid that have been previously filed to the insurance carriers.

The benefits of the United Medicorp system include lower administrative overhead, reduction of accounts receivable and improved cash management.

United Medicorp earns revenues by charging clients a fee based on the percentage of claims amount processed. Software is provided at no additional cost to the customer along with computer hardware and software installation, training and maintenance.

Miller, United Medicorp chairman and chief executive officer, said, ''The medical claims processing and collection field has been slow to respond technologically to improve its timeliness and cash management techniques. Our research indicates that 2,000 claims per minute are filed in the U.S., most on paper. The capabilities exist to dramatically improve the process and United Medicorp is unique in filling the niche because of its total capabilities concept: electronic claim filing, advance funding commitment, claims management and collection, and the offer of hardware and software.

''United Medicorp's listing on NASDAQ is evidence of the financial strength and growth of the company and its acceptance in the marketplace '' he said.

SANTA CLARA, CA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Corporate customers are already committing to the array of new business communications applications introduced Thursday by Northern Telecom (NYSE:NT) and Hewlett-Packard, the two companies announced.

According to the two companies, customers will be using Hewlett-Packard's Applied Computerized Telephony and Northern Telecom's Integrated Services Digital Network Applications Protocol (ISDN/AP) products.

Some of these include simultaneous delivery of telephone call and computer file to the desktop; transfer of both the customer call and associated computer screen to another business area; identification of the phone number the customer called, and automatic callback of customers who have hung up while in queue or on hold.

Mike Hess, director, technology development and support, NICE/APEX, Ogden, Utah, the world's largest automated telemarketing center, has agreed to implement the HP Applied Computerized Telephony and Northern Telecom's ISDN/AP products to add value to the outbound telemarketing operation currently using HP's 3000 systems and Northern Telecom's Meridian SL-1.

PacTel Meridian Systems, a distributor of PBX (private branch exchange) and data communications and related telecommunications products and services will be using HP Applied Computerized Telephony and Northern Telecom's ISDN/AP products in several ways.

Hewlett-Packard Co. is an international manufacturer of measurement and computation products and systems recognized for excellence in quality and support. The company's products and services are used in industry, business, engineering, science, medicine and education in approximately 100 countries. HP has 95,000 employees and had revenues of $11.9 billion in its 1989 fiscal year.

LONDON (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - The following was released earlier Thursday in London.

RTZ Corporation (O-T-C) Thursday announced plans for a $227 million expansion at Bingham Canyon, Utah, a major U.S. copper mine operated by Kennecott Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of RTZ. Construction will begin in June 1990 after all necessary permits have been obtained. Completion of the project is planned for the third quarter of 1992. The expansion will increase production by 35,000 tons of ore per day.

The principal components of the expansion will include: -0- -- Expansion of the existing coarse ore stockpile facility. -- Addition of a fourth grinding line at the Copperton Concentrator which includes one 36 ft. diameter SAG mill and two 20 ft. diameter ball mills. -- Addition of a new flotation circuit comprising twenty-one 3,000 cu. ft. flotation cells and additional thickeners. -- Expansion and upgrade of the existing molybdenite recovery plant. -- Installation of a fourth filter press at the smelter.

As a result of these changes, the Copperton Concentrator will increase its processing capacity from 77,000 to 112,000 tons of ore per day. This amount plus the 30,000 tons of ore per day that will continue to be processed at the Bonneville and Magna Concentrators will boost overall Kennecott Utah Copper production from 235,000 tons to 270,000 tons of copper per year.

In 1988 Kennecott completed a major modernization of its Utah Copper operation at a cost of $400 million. The modernization included an in-pit crusher, a conveyor system to transport ore from the crusher to a new Copperton Concentrator, plus slurry pipeline systems, and a filter plant at the Smelter. This new project is a further expansion of the modernization with emphasis on the Copperton Concentrator.

At the peak of construction activity, 600 persons will be employed on the project. Start up of the expanded facilities will create approximately 40 new permanent jobs at Kennecott Utah Copper. Capital expenditures throughout Kennecott operations will increase significantly during the early 1990's.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Intermetrics Inc. (NASDAQ:IMET) Thursday reported revenues of $10,923,000 for the third quarter of fiscal year 1990 which ended Nov. 30, 1989, compared to $12,020,000 for the third quarter of fiscal 1989.

Net income for the third quarter was $159,000, or 4 cents per share, compared to $718,000, or 20 cents per share a year ago.

For the first nine months of fiscal 1990, revenues were $34,175,000 compared to $37,090,000 for the same period last year. Net income was $1,316,000, or 37 cents per share compared to $2,082,000, or 60 cents per share a year ago. Net income reflects an effective tax rate, due primarily to the use of tax carryforward benefits, of approximately 27 percent for fiscal 1990 and 19 percent for fiscal 1989.

Commenting on the results, Joseph A. Saponaro, president and chief executive officer, said that ''Results for the quarter were adversely impacted by a number of factors in the marketplace including lower than expected sales of our standard InterTools and Whitesmiths commercial products as well as increased costs related to underutilized computer equipment and higher personnel-related costs.

Although results during the third quarter were not as expected, the company continued planned investments in product development, marketing and engineering in support of its standard product lines.''

Saponaro added that ''Business related to Department of Defense contracts remains subject to procurement delays and funding uncertainties which are expected to continue for the remainder of fiscal 1990. Revenues for the current year have been affected by these delays and uncertainties.

Saponaro noted that ''The company's balance sheet remains strong and its backlog now stands at $39 million, a $3 million increase over the backlog at the end of the second quarter and $10 million more than a year ago. The contracts making up this backlog,'' he said, ''have a total potential value of $82 million.''

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Utilitech, Inc. (the ''company''), NASDAQ Symbols: UTLL-Common Shares, UTLLW-Warrants, announced Thursday the closing of its acquisition of Yorkville Industries Inc., and its wholly owned subsidiaries Metalectrics Inc. and Tape Industries Inc., as well as its related Amityville, NY real estate.

The acquisition of Yorkville, a 70-year-old distributor of lighting-related products, is a major step in Utilitech's stated objective of developing a significant presence in the lighting industry.

Yorkville, with major warehousing facilities located on both coasts, has one of the premier distribution networks in the lighting industry with over 7,000 customers. Utilitech plans to utilize the Yorkville distribution system to promote not only the products currently being marketed by Yorkville, but also additional products which can be marketed to the same customer base.

Utilitech invested $2.5 million at closing. $2.0 million of this total will be utilized for Yorkville's working capital; the remaining $500,000 was deposited with Yorkville's commercial lender. In addition, the company has issued to the former owners long-term notes totalling $3.5 million (a portion of which are convertible into Utilitech common stock) payable and convertible over 42 months for Yorkville Industries and the real property.

The company financed the transaction through a facility with its merchant bank.

Utilitech has arranged for Yorkville's primary lender, Chase Manhattan, to remain and restructure its lending facilities and has guaranteed the major credit arrangements of Yorkville.

Yorkville Industries had consolidated revenues of approximately $18.9 million for its year ended 1988. Yorkville's 1989 revenues were significantly lower due to its limited cash resources and it has recently operated at a loss due primarily to overexpansion through a move to the Amityville headquarters, however, Utilitech believes its capital infusion will enable Yorkville to return to its prior profitability.

The company believes that Yorkville's historical market acceptance and national reputation within the lighting industry will enhance the operations of Utilitech's wholly owned subsidiary, Elsco Lighting Products

Inc., which is a major supplier of specialty outdoor lighting products to the tennis, petroleum and automotive industries. Utilitech is continuing to seek additional acquisition candidates within the lighting industry to complement Yorkville and Elsco Industries Inc., Utilitech's exterior lighting manufacturer.

Utilitech Inc. furnishes products and services to the telecommunications and lighting industries.

BLUE BELL, PA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Unisys Corp. announced Thursday that a settlement has been reached dismissing Zenith Data Systems' protest against the Air Force's award of the Desktop III contract to Unisys Corp.

The contract, for desktop equipment that runs both POSIX-compliant and the MS-DOS operating systems, is estimated to be worth $706 million.

''We maintained from the beginning that the protest was without merit,'' said James McGuirk, vice president and general manager of Aerospace Operations at the Unisys Government Systems Division. ''This settlement confirms that evaluation.''

Under the terms of the settlement:

o Unisys and the Air Force reaffirm various aspects of the contract.

o Zenith Data Systems (ZDS) and Government Technology Services, (GTSI) Inc., an intervenor in the protest, dismiss all allegations in all ZDS protest documents with prejudice.

o Unisys and the Air Force agree that they will take no action seeking sanctions against ZDS or its counsel for filing a frivolous protest.

o The Air Force will begin its functional test demonstration on or before Jan. 24.

o Unisys allows Zenith Data Systems to purchase or license up to two units of any Unisys product offered under the contract at 30 percent under commercial list price.

Prior to settlement, ZDS had withdrawn or indicated it would withdraw all allegations except the Count 1 co-processor issue. On Dec. 29, 1989, GTSI filed a statement with the General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals stating that ZDS's position on the co-processor issue lacked merit. On Jan. 2, Sysorex Information Systems Inc., withdrew from the protest.

''We look forward to working with the Air Force and the entire Department of Defense to bring the UNIX and MS-DOS operating systems in tandem to the desktop environment,'' said McGuirk. ''Unisys intends to leverage this win to gain significant market share in the desktop arena.''

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Skeptical views on the Australian economic outlook are misplaced, according to economists at Westpac Banking Corp., Australia's largest banking and financial services group.

The January edition of Westpac's monthly publication Market Insights acknowledges that 1989 ''was a year of frustrated expectations.'' Higher-than-expected economic growth in the economy saw pressures build up in the current account and net foreign debt rise to over AUD 100 bn. Not only did excessive demand weaken Australia's balance of payments, it also maintained a relatively high rate of inflation.

''At the same time, our reputation in the international financial marketplace suffered in the wake of the collapse of a few high-profile entrepreneurs,'' Market Insights says.

The Westpac team, however, is optimistic about Australia's economic prospects for 1990.

Dispelling the ''skeptical voices,'' Market Insights says that import growth is expected to fall significantly, and the nation can look forward to the benefits from the high capital investment of recent years. As expected slowdown in the economy will produce an improved outlook for Australia's external account, inflation, and interest rates.

In concurring with the findings in Market Insights, Westpac's Chief Economist Robert Graham said that ''The reality is that the majority of Australian companies are built on solid foundations, competitive, well managed, and profitable.

''Australia's balance sheet is sound,'' Graham said.

Operating in 29 countries worldwide, Westpac Banking Corp. ranks among the top 100 banks worldwide by assets and top 50 by profitability. In the United States, Westpac branches are located in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, and representative offices in Houston, Texas and Columbus, Ohio.

NASHVILLE, TN. (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Southern Hospitality Corp. (NASDAQ:SHOS) Thursday reported a modest profit for the first half of its current fiscal year, compared to a substantial loss for the like period last year.

''We are pleased that the company has continued its financial progress during the seasonally slow second quarter,'' Chairman and President Henry Hillenmeyer, said, ''despite universally tough industry conditions and heavy discounting by our competitors in their effort to halt our gains in market share.''

Southern Hospitality had net income of $52,368, or 1 cent per share, for the six months ended Nov. 30, 1989, compared with a net operating loss of $267,401, or 6 cents per share, last year. All 1988 results were enhanced by extraordinary items resulting from debt restructuring and the company actually reported a smaller net loss of $142,132, or 3 cents per share, for the first half of last year.

Sales for the first half of 1989 totaled $10,963,770, up from $10,902,960 last year, even though we operated four fewer restaurants in the first quarter and one fewer in the second quarter than last year, Hillenmeyer explained.

For the quarter, we lost the same 1 cent we did for the comparable period last year before the extraordinary items, but we showed increases in same-store sales and operating income, Hillenmeyer noted.

The company had a loss of $49,320 for the quarter compared with net earnings of $234,119 including the extraordinary items effective in 1988. Sales increased to $5,169,760 from $5,050,711 for the like period last year, with one fewer restaurant in operation.

''The most encouraging news from the second quarter was the increased rate of growth in same-store sales,'' Hillenmeyer said, ''from a gain of 3 percent in the first quarter to a gain of 5 percent in the second. This growth strengthened our operating income and enabled us to offset some cost pressure, especially in the area of beef prices.

''We were able to maintain the same 8.2 percent restaurant operating income margin as last year and to improve operating income to 3 percent of sales from 2 percent last year.

''In the meantime,'' Hillenmeyer continued, ''our cash flow is excellent; we have retired more than $135,000 of debt during the first half of this year, while improving our current ratio from 1.05 - 1 to 1.25 - 1. We are very pleased with these achievements.

''We are gaining market share at the expense of our competitors,'' Hillenmeyer stated, ''but they have been discounting strongly in efforts to recover. This makes it difficult for us to improve store-level margins while remaining competitive.

''However, our 'Super Value Menu,' which has good margins for us, is very popular with our customers and adds an excellent price-value dimension to our already perceived strengths in food quality and menu variety.''

Hillenmeyer noted that the much-publicized increase in the minimum wage, which will begin to occur in April of 1990, gives the company little concern, since market conditions in the Nashville area raised the prevailing hourly wage rate well above the new minimum wage level long ago.

Southern Hospitality Corp. operates 25 Wendy's restaurants in the Middle Tennessee area. The company's stock is traded over the counter on NASDAQ under the symbol SHOS.

BALTIMORE (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - Jerry Wenger, president of PSN Communications Inc. and publisher of Today's Investor, announced Thursday that an understanding has been reached spelling out the preliminary terms of a merger between PSN Communications Inc. (PSN) and Waste Service Technologies Inc. (OTC), of Vancouver, Wash.

Waste Service Technologies Inc. (WST) designs, contracts, markets and operates solid waste processing systems that reduce the volume of solid waste (garbage) being landfilled, by converting certain waste constituents into marketable products.

WST has $10 million in current assets as well as contracts totaling $3 million from Jefferson County, WVa. and Norcal, northern California waste management company. The surviving company, PSN Communications, will have $11 million in assets.

The recycling systems are marketed by Waste Service Technologies Inc. specializing in a product known as Clean Custom Fuel ''CCF''(tm).

''CCF'' is produced from specifically selected components derived from post consumed and semi-refined materials found in normal solid waste, that are processed into predetermined size and density.

Clean Custom Fuel ''CCF'' is a clean burning, artificial fossil fuel (coal) that can be utilized as an admixture or sole fuel source.

The ''CCF'' is formulated to meet specific requirements of the user by matching the firing requirements of the boilers and matching the current fuel being utilized as to size and density.

The results of utilizing the ''CCF'' is a reduction of emissions of sulphur dioxide (SOX), the source of acid rain, from the burning of fossil fuel, with compatible heat values at a lower cost.

Waste Service Technologies' systems address two major areas of environmental concern, diminishing landfill space and reduction of emissions of toxic particles into the atmosphere.

PSN Communications Inc. is the publisher of Today's Investor, one of the nation's major business magazines covering the over-the-counter stock market. The magazine, with a readership of more than 40,000, celebrated its 10th anniversary in August.

In recent months, PSN Communications has also been producing the nationally syndicated radio program ''The Money Show.'' Much like Today's Investor, the radio program deals with trends in the OTC marketplace. In the first quarter, PSN will restart a half hour talk show which will be televised by 40 television stations across the country.

On Jan. 15, 1990, PSN will hold a board of directors meeting seeking to approve the merger between the two companies. In addition, PSN Communications will propose a name change to PSN Industries Inc.

According to Wenger, with completion of this merger, PSN Industries Inc., feels that, with an infusion of capital from WST, it will be positioned to be a powerful force in the waste management and communications industries.

WOBURN, MA (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - MedChem Products Inc. (AMEX:MCH) Thursday reported net income of $1,001,000, or $0.22 per share, for the first quarter ended November 30, 1989, a 37 percent increase from last year's $733,000, or $0.18 per share. Sales for the quarter were $5,264,000 vs. the prior year's level of $5,304,000.

The AVITENE manufacturing operation in Puerto Rico experienced disruptions for nearly two weeks in September due to the effects of Hurricane Hugo. The shutdown caused the postponement of a $1.4 million AVITENE shipment to the U.S. Government in December. This delay, which negatively affected total revenues for the first quarter, will result in stronger-than-anticipated revenues and operating results for the second quarter.

Despite the slight decline in total sales, domestic sales of AVITENE were strong, increasing 13 percent over the first quarter of fiscal 1989. The growth resulted from a small price increase, but more importantly, growth in market share. Sales of hyaluronic acid-based products increased 16 percent on the strength of growing international sales and continued improvements in pricing.

Legal expenses increased $250,000, to $300,000, for the quarter, reflecting costs associated with the ongoing patent litigation with Pharmacia, Inc. Cost controls helped reduce operating expenses by $350,000, while interest expense fell 50 percent to $426,000 as a result of the Company's ongoing accelerated paydowns of its debt facilities.

''We continue to be pleased by the progress we have made in the marketplace with each of our product lines,'' stated Dr. David A. Swann, chairman and chief executive officer. ''While our patent litigation with Pharmacia has overshadowed our market successes, we are nonetheless excited about our business prospects. Regardless of the final outcome of the litigation, we remain committed to growing MedChem and providing increased value to our shareholders.''

MedChem Products develops, manufactures and markets biomedical products -- principally, AMVISC and AVITENE -- for use in ophthalmic and surgical markets. These products, derived from naturally occurring biomaterials by utilizing proprietary processing technologies, help surgeons to perform delicate operations more safely and effectively.

WASHINGTON DULLES INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - WorldCorp (NYSE:WOA) announced Thursday that its World Airways subsidiary has been awarded a 33-month contract from the U.S. Military Airlift Command (MAC) with a total potential value of $295.3 million.

The fixed portion of the contract award is for $159.2 million and results from World Airway's participation in the Civil Reserve Air Fleet (CRAF). Based upon prior experience, World Airways expects to perform substantial additional flying during the contract period under MAC's expansion program.

World Airways is entitled to all or part of an additional $136.1 million in expansion business and reimbursable expenses, dependent on its aircraft capacity and MAC demand. Performance of the contract is to begin immediately and continue through September of 1992.

The Jan. 2 edition of The Wall Street Journal indicated that this contract was valued at $439.1 million for World Airways. However, this figure represents the total value of the MAC award to a joint venture, of which World Airways is one of five participants. The $295.3 million World Airways portion represents approximately 67 percent of the joint venture's award.

WorldCorp also announced that its Key Airlines subsidiary has been awarded a $19.9 million three-year MAC contract, which includes all fixed entitlements and potential additional expansion business. The contract, which also begins immediately, is a result of its participation in the CRAF.

WorldCorp Chief Executive Officer T. Coleman Andrews, III, commented, ''World Airways has enjoyed an outstanding relationship with MAC for over 30 years. This award is the first time that World Airways will work with MAC under a multi-year contract. Also, the contract further strengthens the company's backlog. Additionally, the Key Airlines contract represents its fifth consecutive annual award from MAC. We are proud of our continuing commitment to MAC.''

WAYNE, NJ (JAN.4) BUSINESS WIRE - Worldwide Computer Services Inc. (NASDAQ:WCSI) announced Thursday that preliminary results indicate that revenues for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989 were approximately the same compared to the like quarter a year ago.

The termination and severance costs associated with the November 1989 management restructuring, treated under generally accepted accounting principles, will impact the Dec. 31, 1989 final quarter causing a significant loss for the fourth quarter.

For the full year ended Dec. 31, 1989, sales are expected to be only modestly above the prior year's $17.4 million. It is anticipated that the company will remain profitable for the full year but net income will drop sharply compared to the prior year.

Robert Grant, vice chairman, noted that ''Following the management restructuring, as an immediate priority, the new management has implemented cost controls concentrating on generating cash from operations. DOUGLASTON, NY (JAN. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - (NASDAQ:NYBC) Martin D. Dehler, chairman of New York Bancorp Inc., announced Thursday that the annual meeting of shareholders will be held, as scheduled, on Jan. 9, 1990.

Earlier this week, Patrick E. Malloy, III, Michael A. McManus, and certain other persons presently engaged in litigation with the company sought to enjoin the holding of the shareholders' meeting until 30 days after the matters being litigated were decided.

Malloy and McManus presently are soliciting proxies for election to the company's board in opposition to candidates nominated by the company's board of directors.

Earlier today, the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York determined that the shareholders' meeting may proceed as scheduled Jan. 9, 1990, provided that there be no certification or public disclosure of the results of the election pending a trial and decision in the litigation or further order of the court.

Since there are two board seats being contested at the shareholder's meeting, the court also determined that after the adjournment of the shareholder's meeting on Jan. 9, 1990, two of the three incumbent directors who have been nominated for re-election by New York Bancorp will not perform their duties as directors pending the trial and decision in the litigation or further order of the court. There currently are eight members on the New York Bancorp board.

As previsouly announced, last month the company's board of directors determined that Malloy and McManus, and certain other persons, who together beneficially own approximately 26 percent of the company's shares are acting as a ''group'' and therefore will be limited under the company's charter to a vote of 10 percent of the outstanding shares at the Jan. 9, 1990 annual meeting.

This determination by the company's board, as well as various other claims and counterclaims, are the subject of the pending litigation.

The court has scheduled a trial to begin on Jan. 16, 1990.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 4) COMTEX - disagreements Republic Savings Financial Corp. of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., on Dec. 20 dismissed Deloitte & Touche following two disagreements and the accounting firm's criticism of its internal control structure.

In planning and preparing its audit for the year ended March 31, Deloitte & Touche said some aspects of the company's internal control structure were reportable under guidelines set by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Specifically, the accounting firm noted a number of input errors that caused the amortization to be wrong on numerous loans, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing.

One dispute involved the company's treatment of losses on a $484,000 investment in a foreclosed parcel of land in Grand Prairie, Texas. The company maintained that the land should be appraised at $6.4 million, but the accounting firm said that economic conditions in the region had reduced its value to far less. The company and Deloitte eventually worked out an agreement under which the company reported a $67,000 loss on the investment.

A second dispute involved the company's liability to another financial institution on a repossessed boat. The accounting firm wanted Republic to report a $125,000 loss in connection with the loan for the quarter ended June 30. The company did not report the loss until the quarter ended Sept. 30, according to the SEC filing.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 4) COMTEX - An International Trade Commission administrative law judge on Dec. 15 ruled that Bristol-Myers Co.'s patent on Cefadroxil is invalid.

The battle over rights to Cefadroxil is far from over, however.

The administrative law judge's decision, if upheld, will allow Kalipharma Inc., a unit of Moleculon Inc., to import and sell Cefadroxil products without violating the Tariff Act, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing. The ruling will be automatically reviewed by the ITC within 90 days.

The legal battle over Cefadroxil began Oct. 31, when Kalipharma filed a motion in a New York federal district court to preemptively bar Bristol-Myers from bringing a patent infringement case against it over the sale of Cefadroxil. Bristol-Myers filed counter claims and instituted proceedings against Kalipharma with the ITC.

The ITC sided with Kalipharma and the matter was appealed to the U.S. District Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. But on Dec. 11, the appeals court reversed and remanded the ITC's initial decision. Cefadroxil accounted for about 20 percent of Kalipharma's operating revenues for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

BRIDGEPORT, W.VA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - James N. Ryan, chairman, Petroleum Development Corp. (PDC) (NASDAQ: PETD), today announced that the PDC 1989-B drilling program was closed on Dec. 29 with total funds of over $4,000,000, bringing PDC's 1989 program total to approximately $7,300,000.

Funds from the PDC 1989-B program will be used to drill development wells to the Benson formation in north central West Virginia. The Devonian age Benson formation, as well as several other shallower formations in the prospect area, generally qualify for the Section 29 tax credit, a credit established by Congress to help encourage development of domestic gas reserves. PDC, which has been developing devonian wells since the early 1970s, is one of the leading experts on these nonconventional formations.

Ryan, in announcing the record program noted, "The PDC 1989-A and PDC 1989-B partnerships are our company's first publicly registered partnerships. We are very pleased with the market acceptance as reflected in the sales of this new program.

"PDC drilled seven wells in the fourth quarter of 1989, and will drill more than 20 wells in the first quarter of 1990. This will get us off to a fast start for 1990. In comparison we drilled 26 wells in the entire year of 1989, and drilled only 18 wells in 1988."

The company also announced that it has filed the PDC 1990 drilling program with the SEC. This program will consist of a series of up to four partnerships with maximum subscriptions totaling $20 million. The company indicated that it anticipates that the program will become effective around the end of January.

RICHMOND, VA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Reynolds Metals Company (NYSE: RLM) today announced that it is modernizing and expanding its Bellwood 44 aluminum sheet rolling plant near here.

The $18 million project includes a new aluminum melting furnace, two new annealing furnaces, modifications to increase the width of the plant's hot and cold rolling mills, a new tension leveling and slitting line, and additional raw materials storage capacity. The plant will be expanded by 35,000 square feet to house the new equipment.

Bellwood plant 44 is the only facility in the industry to produce coiled sheet for the building and construction market from compacted aluminum pellets.

"This new equipment will boost current production capacity by about one-third, and will allow us to broaden our customer base by supplying a higher quality product to a larger segment of the market," said J. Wilt Wagner, Mill Products Division general manager.

A new 80,000-pound aluminum reclamation melting furnace will be installed to melt recycled scrap used as the raw material in the pellet- making process. The new furnace will increase the plant's melting capacity by approximately 50 percent.

To support the plant's expanded rolling capacity, two new annealing furnaces with a combined capacity of almost 500,000 pounds will be installed. They will provide the necessary thermal treatment required for building products applications.

A state-of-the-art tension leveling and slitting line also will be added to complement the plant's rolling equipment. Flatness is a critical requirement in the production of aluminum sheet for building products applications, and the plant's new leveler will help improve Reynolds position as the quality supplier to the industry.

Construction is already underway at the plant and is expected to be completed by the fourth quarter this year.

ROCKY HILL, CT (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Ames Department Stores Inc. (NYSE: ADD) today reported December sales of $829 million, a 2.9 percent decline from last year's adjusted total of $854 million. Last year's sales have been adjusted to reflect the December 1988 closing of 74 Zayre stores and the September 1989 sale of the company's variety- store operations.

Comparable-store sales for December increased 5.1 percent in Ames' discount department stores. Comparable-store sales declined approximately 13 percent in the 315 stores acquired from Zayre in October 1988.

Peter B. Hollis, Ames president and chief executive officer, said, "We are pleased with sales in our 375 original Ames stores. December sales in the acquired stores were below our expectations. Our sales results were achieved in an extremely competitive holiday selling season, particularly in the Northeast, where we believe the economy has slowed."

DOWNERS GROVE, IL (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - James C. Smith, president and chief executive officer of HealthCare COMPARE Corp. (NASDAQ: HCCC) announced results today for the first fiscal quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989.

Revenues for the quarter were $7,852,000, up from $7,798,000 reported for the comparable quarter last year. Income before income taxes was $792,000 which compares with $1,162,000 in the comparable quarter of fiscal 1989.

Earnings for the first quarter were $523,000 or nine cents per share, compared to $743,000 or 13 cents per share for the same quarter of fiscal 1989. There were 5,779,000 and 5,762,000 weighted average shares outstanding for each quarter, respectively.

Smith noted he was pleased with the results since they exceeded the company's original expectations. As previously announced, the company anticipated that the first two quarters of the current fiscal year would be adversely affected by increased operating costs associated with COMPARE's lease commitment for its corporate headquarters as well as increased costs associated with the company's wholly owned subsidiary's move to larger headquarters in Sacramento, Calif. In spite of these expenses, earnings were greater than originally expected.

Additionally, Smith reported that the company has recently been informed by Wisconsin Physician Service (WPS), that they will enter into an agreement with COMPARE to provide a managed care program for the Department of Defense in a 5-state region. The agreement covers an initial year and four renewable option years. It is estimated that the contract will generate revenue of several million dollars during 1990 and in the subsequent years. Smith noted that based upon the addition of this major new contract and the previously announced contracts, he was very encouraged with the prospects for 1990.

HealthCare COMPARE Corp. is one of the nation's leading independent managed care/cost management companies. The company provides data analysis, extensive utilization management and provider negotiation services (PPO development and management). CLIFTON, N.J. (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Keystone Camera Products Corporation (AMEX: KYC) said today it is filing a complaint and counterclaims against Mitsubishi International Corporation "to recover damages in excess of $20 million."

Keystone, in its filing is to assert four separate causes of action -- "alleging breaches of contract, breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing and misrepresentation by Mitsubishi."

Keystone is responding to an action filed by Mitsubishi in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York seeking recovery of approximately $1.8 million, plus unspecified future damages arising from alleged breaches of agreements between Mitsubishi and Keystone Camera Products Corporation.

At issue in the litigation, according to Keystone, is Mitsubishi's failure to perform in accordance with agreements between Mitsubishi and Keystone covering export of Keystone Cameras and the importing of component parts. The agreements were signed in September 1988.

"Keystone intends to vigorously defend against Mitsubishi's claims. Keystone believes that Mitsubishi is guilty of wrongful acts in its dealings with Keystone, and that Keystone is entitled to recover against Mitsubishi on its counterclaims," the company said. "Keystone will press those counterclaims," the company said. "Keystone will press those counterclaims vigorously. The company believes it has made adequate provision for any amount which may be due to Mitsubishi."

Keystone said it anticipates it will be "successful in defending its position against the attempt of a major Japanese company to eliminate it from the marketplace."

In the third quarter 1989, Keystone recognized income of $1,437,000, the result of litigation brought against the company by United Jersey Bank which was resolved favorably to the company.

Keystone has been at the forefront of American efforts to retain and enhance U.S. manufacturing capacity. It is the only producer in this country of standard cameras manufacturing over 2.5 million units at its Clifton, N.J. facility where it employs 700 people.

Keystone recently started production of its Tele-Wide 600-35mm model which at $40 retail is one-third the price of the next least expensive camera with a two-to-one lens magnification. Keystone's manual 35mm camera, the Easy Shot, is the lowest cost quality manual 35mm camera and favorably competes with imports from the Orient. The company plans to introduce over the next 12 months five new cameras, more new models than at any similar time in its history.

CINCINNATI (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Duramed Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (NASDAQ: DRMD) announced it has completed content uniformity analysis of its Conjugated Estrogens products and is conducting a recall on all batches manufactured between January, 1988 and February, 1989. The analysis showed that some batches of the product are more variable in tablet to tablet drug content than permitted under the establisehd USP range for content uniformity. This variance represents a technical deviation from one of the several USP specifications for this product. Although there is little likelihood of therapeutic failure, Duramed's concern for the consumer demands a cautious corporate quality control policy.

Mr. E. Thomas Arington, president and CEO of Duramed went on to state that "because the average drug content in these batches is within the permissible range, only a few individual tablets would have less than the lowest permissible drug content. Since there is little likelihood of therapeutic failure, we are recalling and replacing material at the wholesale distribution level. All current inventories at the retail level will be maintained in order to allow continuity of treatment.

Furthermore, the Company will replace the product returned and will continue to manufacture and market Conjugated Estrogens."

The cost of recalling and replacing the Conjugated Estrogens product is estimated to be $1.5 million. A reserve for this estimated cost will be included in the fourth quarter, 1989 operating results.

Mr. Arington further stated that, even prior to the effect of the recall, the Company expects to report a substantial fourth quarter loss due to the reduction in shipments of Conjugated Estrogens and increased product development expenditures.

Mr. Arington noted that the opportunities available to Duramed are unchanged, and the Company remains confident of its ability to achieve long term success through the introduction of new products.

Duramed Pharmaceuticals, Inc. manufactures and sells generic drug products comprised of various dosages of prescription drugs. The Company's stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol DRMD.

(TAG), through its wholly owned subsidiary, Orion Lift Service, Inc. d/b/a Orion Air, sold substantially all of its tangible assets to Ryan International Airlines on Dec. 29, in exchange for a $3.5 million promissory note of the buyer which is guaranteed by Emery Air Freight Corporation (Emery).

SOMERSET, NJ (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Ronson Corporation (NASDAQ: RONC/RONCP) announced that in late December, 1989, the company adopted a plan to discontinue the operations during 1990 of its rare-earth metals subsidiary, Ronson Metals Corporation, of Newark, N.J.

Ronson Metals, a manufacturer of flints for lighters and industrial use and a marketer of mischmetal for the steel industry has had sizable losses in prior years starting with the decline of the U.S. steel industry, the main user of mischmetal.

The company stated that Ronson Metals will comply with the New Jersey Environmental Cleanup Responsibility Act ("ECRA") and all other applicable laws, and believes, based upon visual inspection without chemical testing, that no extensive or substantial cleanup appears likely at Ronson Metals; however, the extent of any cleanup, if any, under "ECRA" cannot be determined until the testing that Ronson Metals has contracted to perform is completed. It is estimated the testing will take about three months to complete.

Prior to the closing of Ronson Metals later in 1990, flint production at Ronson Metals will continue, while new sources for flints are selected to meet the requirements and quality standards of Ronson Consumer Products Corporation and other purchasers of Ronson Flints.

Ronson Corporation stated that it believes the gain from the future sale of assets of Ronson Metals is expected to approximate or exceed any operating losses at Ronson Metals in 1990.

Ronson Corporation is a diversified manufacturer and supplier of consumer products, hydraulic and pneumatic components for the aircraft and aerospace industry, and aircraft sales and services.

Comparable warehouse net sales increased 20 percent over the prior year's first quarter, and have increased at a 19 percent rate during the first five weeks of the second quarter.

Net income increased 145 percent from $2.8 million, or 11 cents per share, during the first quarter of fiscal 1989 to $6.9 million, or 21 cents per share, during the first quarter of fiscal 1990. Last year's first-quarter results included a $982,000 gain related to the sale of a land parcel which, on an after-tax basis, increased last year's first-quarter net income by $599,000, or 2 cents per share. Both quarterly income figures reflect the company's use of the LIFO method of accounting for inventory costs, which was adopted in fiscal 1989.

In December 1989, the company completed a public offering of 3,255,500 shares of Costco common stock. Of this total, 3,198,000 shares were sold by the company and 57,500 shares were sold by a selling stockholder. All of the shares sold by the selling stockholder and 2,558,400 of the 3,198,000 shares sold by the company were sold to a syndicate of underwriters. The public offering price was $30.75 per share. The company sold the remaining 639,600 shares directly to Carrefour Nederland, B.V., a principal stockholder of the company, at the public offering price less underwriting discounts and commissions. Based on the aggregate 3,198,000 shares sold by the company, net proceeds to the company from this offering were approximately $95 million.

The company intends to use the net proceeds of this offering for general corporate purposes, including the funding of its planned expansion into the Northeastern United States and elsewhere.

Costco ended its 1989 fiscal year on Sept. 3, with 56 cash-and-carry membership warehouses in nine states and Western Canada. Since that time, six new warehouses have been opened -- in Miami; Eugene, Ore.; Van Nuys, Vallejo and Sand City, Calif.; and Surrey, British Columbia, Canada -- bringing to 62 the number of warehouses operating at calendar year-end. Expansion plans for the remainder of fiscal 1990 include the opening of six additional warehouse locations, all of which are also expected to be located in the company's existing markets.

Initial openings in the Northeast are planned in Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York, with the first opening not expected until the fall of 1990, during the first quarter of fiscal 1991. The company's common stock trades on the NASDAQ National Market System under the ticker symbol ''COST.''

For calendar year 1989, Delta's revenue passenger miles increased 14.9 percent to 59,347,600,000 from 51,652,100,000 flown in calendar 1988. Available seat miles reported for 1989 increased 5.5 percent to 93,569,800,000 from the 88,711,700,000 reported for 1988.

"The bank will fund, or arrange funding for, large loans that a smaller bank is unable to handle," commented Gonzalez.

"Along with the credit products," he continued, "the division will offer proprietary services such as our Computer Accessed Accounts Management System (CAAMS), audit services and information processing systems." The bank's sophisticated data processing system will serve as a major component in the division's cash management product list, according to Gonzalez. BLUE BELL, PA. (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Unisys Corp. (NYSE: UIS) announced today that a settlement has been reached dismissing Zenith Data Systems' protest against the Air Force's award of the Desktop III contract to Unisys Corp.

The contract, for desktop equipment that runs both POSIX-compliant and the MS-DOS operating systems, is estimated to be worth $706 million. "We maintained from the beginning that the protest was without merit," said James McGuirk, vice president and general manager of Aerospace Operations at the Unisys Government Systems Division. "This settlement confirms that evaluation."

Under the terms of the settlement:

-- Unisys and the Air Force reaffirm various aspects of the contract.

-- Zenith Data Systems (ZDS) and Government Technology Services (GTSI) Inc., an intervenor in the protest, dismiss all allegations in all ZDS protest documents with prejudice.

-- Unisys and the Air Force agree that they will take no action seeking sanctions against ZDS or its counsel for filing a frivolous protest.

-- The Air Force will begin its functional test demonstration on or before Jan. 24.

-- Unisys allows Zenith Data Systems to purchase or license up to two units of any Unisys product offered under the contract at 30 percent under commercial list price.

Prior to settlement, ZDS had withdrawn or indicated it would withdraw all allegations except the Count 1 co-processor issue. On Dec. 29, GTSI filed a statement with the General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals stating that ZDS's position on the co-processor issue lacked merit. On Jan. 2, Sysorex Information Systems Inc., withdrew from the protest.

"We look forward to working with the Air Force and the entire Department of Defense to bring the UNIX and MS-DOS operating systems in tandem to the desktop environment," said McGuirk. "Unisys intends to leverage this win to gain significant market share in the desktop arena."

DETROIT (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America enters the new decade with award-winning products, record-breaking sales and a steadily increasing dealer network of more than 400 outlets. The company announced 1989 year-end vehicle sales of 150,476 units, marking an increase of 32 percent over 1988 sales, capping a calendar year of consecutive sales records set by the company.

Continued strength with award-winning products such as the Galant (Motor Trend magazine's 1989 "Import Car of the Year"), Eclipse (among Car and Driver magazine's "Ten Best" for 1989 and 1990), and Mirage (West Germany's 1989 Golden Steering Wheel award winner), helped Mitsubishi surpass the company's expectations during a year when many of its competitors saw a significant sales decline.

Passenger car sales for the month of December reached 13,941 units, representing an increase of 154 percent over the same period last year and marking the strongest passenger car sales period in the company's history. Year-end passenger car sales reached a total of 121,287 units, representing an increase of 73 percent over 1988 figures.

"We're confident Mitsubishi's recent string of successes will continue through the decade, beginning with the soon-to-be-introduced 1991 3000GT," said Richard D. Recchia, executive vice president and chief operating officer for Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America. The 3000GT, a high performance grand touring sports car, will further expand Mitsubishi's full line of products and showcase the company's emergence as a technological leader in the U.S. auto market.

WINDSOR BERKSHIRE, GREAT BRITAIN (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - The Albert Fisher Group PLC ("Albert Fisher") announces that it has completed the acquisition of J J M Theeuwen Beheer BV and its subsidiary companies ("Holco"), one of the largest processors and distributors of mushroom products in Europe, for a maximum consideration of DFL 40 million (13.0 million pounds sterling).

Holco is a processor of high quality mushroom and asparagus products under its own Holco brand and certain other brands. The products are mainly supplied in glass jars and cans and some mushrooms are sold in fresh and frozen form.

The group has an extensive processing facility at Roermond in Holland, together with sales and marketing companies in West Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and France. It also has a joint company in Poland from where it obtains some of its supplies; other supplies are obtained from Holland, France, Spain and Peru.

Joep Theeuwen (aged 46), the owner of the group who has been primarily responsible for the growth and development of Holco, has entered into a four year service agreement.

The net tangible assets of Holco at completion will amount to approximately DFL 6.7 million (2.18 million pounds sterling). Adjusted profits before taxation in respect of the year ended Dec. 31, 1988 were DFL 5.4 million (1.75 million pounds sterling) on turnover of DFL 83.7 million (27.18 million pounds sterling).

The board of Albert Fisher considers the acquisition of Holco to be a further important step in developing Albert Fisher's European food processing and distribution operations. Holco has a high quality product range, a well established brand name and marketing company in Germany, and its own marketing companies in other European countries. These operations are complementary to the existing operations of Albert Fisher in Europe and should lead to significant synergy and benefits for the group. The joint company recently established by Holco in Poland also strengthens the group's existing relationships in Eastern Europe.

The initial consideration of DFL 30 million (9.75 million pounds sterling) will be satisfied by the payment of DFL 22 million (7.14 million pounds sterling) in cash and by the issue to the vendor of 2,190,521 new ordinary shares in Albert Fisher. The new ordinary shares will rank pari passu with the existing issued ordinary shares save that they will not rank for the rights issue announced on Dec. 21, 1989 but they will rank for the bonus issue of warrants announced on the same date. Application will be made to the council of the stock exchange for the new ordinary shares to be admitted to the official list.

A further cash sum of DFL 10 million (3.25 million pounds sterling) will be placed in escrow and will be released to the vendor on the basis of DFL 5 for every DFL 1 by which profits before taxation in the year to Dec. 31, 1990 exceed DFL 5 million (1.62 million pounds sterling).

The vendor has undertaken to retain the ordinary shares issued as consideration for a minimum period of two years from their date of issue.

HOUSTON (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Wyoming-California Pipeline Company (Wycal) said today that Southern California Edison Company (AMEX: SCE) has signed a contract to transport a minimum of 50 million cubic feet of gas a day on a firm basis for 15 years on Wycal's pipeline system. The new agreement replaces a letter of intent signed by Wycal and Southern California Edison last June.

Wycal, a subsidiary of The Coastal Corporation (NYSE: CGP), has a final certificate from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) that authorizes Wycal to build and operate a 1,000-mile natural gas transmission system from Lincoln County, Wyo. to Kern County, Calif. It is anticipated that construction will commence in 1990 with an inservice date of late 1991.

Under the transportation agreement, the California electric utility has the right to extend the initial 15-year term for up to an additional 15 years. In addition, Southern California Edison has the opportunity to purchase interruptible transportation service on the Wycal system.

"Southern California Edison believes that the proposed Wycal system would be in the best interests of the customers we serve because it can provide flexible, long-term firm access to competitively priced gas supplies," said Kenneth P. Baskin, vice president of Southern California Edison. "This agreement is certainly consistent with the goals of FERC and the California Public Utilities Commission to make competitive options for natural gas pipeline services available to the California market as quickly as possible."

D. Lamar Smith, president of Wycal, added: "We are pleased that Southern California Edison has selected Wycal from among the available alternatives and that we will have the opportunity to provide this major west coast utility with firm, reliable and economical natural gas transportation services.

"This agreement with Southern California Edison, along with previously executed agreements with Pacific Gas and Electric Company and the city of Long Beach, represents strong market support for Wycal among California utilities," Smith said.

Wycal, with an initial certificated design capacity of approximately 650 million cubic feet of gas a day, now has signed agreements or letters of intent covering long-term transportation capacity for more than 550 million cubic feet a day. In addition, Southern California Gas Company has an option to purchase firm capacity for 75 million cubic feet of gas a day.

Southern California Edison Company, an electric utility based in Rosemead, Calif., serves 3.9 million customers in central and southern California.

PITTSBURGH (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Equitable Resources Inc. (NYSE: EQT) has announced a $108 million capital expenditure program for 1990, the highlights of which include a record gas and oil well-drilling program, expansion of the company's underground natural gas storage capacity, and development of a network of fueling stations for natural gas powered vehicles.

The proposed spending levels represent a 3.5 percent increase over 1989. The new budget provides for a capital investment of $60 million in energy resource operations, primarily for the drilling of a record 260 net wells. The focus of activity will again be the Appalachian Basin, which accounts for $49 million, or 82 percent, of the planned expenditures and includes the drilling of 233 net wells. Reserve additions of Devonian Shale gas and Big Lime oil in Kentucky, and expansion of Equitable's coal seam gas production in Virginia, will be the program's main objectives. The remaining $11 million of energy resource outlays will be used to fund Equitable's offshore Gulf of Mexico gas drilling venture and its oil development program in the Rocky Mountains.

The $48 million of authorized expenditures for utility service operations are evenly divided between the company's local distribution and interstate pipeline activities.

Several distribution projects planned for 1990 will be aimed at new business and market development. These include: the extension and upgrading of facilities to serve the expected commercial development sparked by Pittsburgh's airport expansion; and the construction of four natural gas vehicle fueling stations. The use of natural gas as a transportation fuel represents significant potential as a growth market for Equitable, and has drawn increasing support from environmentalists, legislators and government officials.

Among the pipeline projects planned for 1990 is an expansion of Equitable's natural gas storage capacity. Additional sales of storage service are expected to play a key role in the further growth of Equitable's interstate transmission business.

NORWALK, CT. (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Great Northern Nekoosa Corporation (NYSE: GNN) announced today that it has filed a motion in Maine federal district court for a preliminary injunction against Georgia-Pacific Corporation's (NYSE: GP) tender offer and proxy contest. The motion is based on the repeated false and misleading statements of Georgia-Pacific Chairman T. Marshall Hahn, Executive Vice President A.D. Correll and other Georgia-Pacific employees with respect to Georgia- Pacific's plans for asset divestitures should its takeover effort succeed.

In its court filing, Great Northern Nekoosa said that it has uncovered still more documentary evidence demonstrating Georgia- Pacific's intention to sell assets if it takes over Great Northern Nekoosa. Among the new documents uncovered are the notes of a 1989 conversation between Correll and an outside consultant in which Correll said that it was important to "keep (Great Northern's) industry gems at all costs" (according to the notes, referring to mills in Arkansas, Georgia and Mississippi) and to "sell dawgs" (according to the notes, referring to, among other assets, Great Northern's "Maine mills" and "all the timberlands"). Also discovered were notes of a conversation between Georgia-Pacific and its lead bank in October 1989 in which the lead bank was told that Great Northern assets probably will be divested should Georgia-Pacific succeed in its acquisition.

Great Northern Nekoosa's court filing states, "The evidence that Georgia-Pacific has for years classified Great Northern's Maine assets and other facilities as 'losers' and 'dawgs' shows that the public statements of Messrs. Hahn and Correll are cynical propaganda totally at variance with the facts. And the totality of the evidence demonstrates that Georgia-Pacific's public relations campaign is a fraud on the Great Northern shareholders and the investing public."

William R. Laidig, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Great Northern Nekoosa, said, "By seeking to enjoin Georgia-Pacific's offer and proxy contest, we are simply trying to hold Georgia-Pacific to account for its statements and actions."

CARSON, CA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Infiniti, the luxury car division of Nissan Motor Corporation in U.S.A., today announced that it sold 1,723 automobiles through its network of 50 dealers since the division's launch in mid-November.

Infiniti's calendar-year sales include 1,072 Q45 luxury sedans and 651 M30 sports coupes, resulting in a 62/38 model mix.

Launched Nov. 8, the company has had more than 33,000 prospects visit its Infiniti dealer showrooms.

"We are particularly pleased with the sales during our first seven weeks in the market, and with the high level of interest our advertising campaign has created," said William R. Bruce, vice president and general manager of Infiniti. "Most importantly, however, Infiniti Division is on-target in terms of brand awareness and image building -- our primary objective during our crucial 'launch' phase."

Although the company reports having had a wide variety of trade-ins, ranging from European marques such as Mercedes and BMW, to domestics from Cadillac and Lincoln, the greatest percentage are European.

According to Bruce, preliminary indications show the profile of the typical Q45 purchaser is that of a 46-year-old male who has been with his present employer 10 years, is earning around $150,000 a year and has lived at his current address for 14 years. The Q45 is a fully equipped four-door luxury sedan that carries a suggested retail price of $38,000.

Preliminary data on M30 purchasers show the typical buyer as 42 years old with an average annual income of $73,000. He or she has been with his or her present employer for seven years and has lived in the current dwelling for approximately 10 years. Also of note, the attractive features of the two-door sports coupe have proven a hit with the female buying audience, with one-third of M30 sales to women. The M30, which comes fully equipped has a suggested retail price of $23,500.

Comment by J.B. Fitzpatrick, vice president in charge of the General Motors Marketing and Product Planning Staff:

In the 1989 calendar year, General Motors sales in the U.S. were down 7.5 percent from last year's level, primarily reflecting an industry-wide decline. Throughout the year, GM dealers sold a total of 5.1 million cars and trucks -- 1.5 million vehicles ahead of the nearest competitor, and double the combined sales of Japan's big three automakers -- Honda, Toyota and Nissan. Despite the industry's sales decline, GM maintained its position as sales leader in the U.S. -- a position it has held for more than a half-century.

In 1989, consumers purchased 3.4 million new GM passenger cars and 1.7 million new GM trucks, making General Motors the sales leader once again in both the car and truck segments of the U.S. automotive market. On the passenger car side, GM will outsell Ford and Chrysler by a wide margin. As for 1989 truck sales, GM expects to increase its lead over Ford in both units sold and in market share.

Industry sales in 1989 fell short of the 15 million unit level for the first time since 1985. Although sales were down from last year's 15.8 million unit level, the industry sales volume is expected to be the sixth-best sales year in the U.S.

ROCKLEIGH, N.J. (JAN. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - In spite of the depressed market for new cars, Volvo finished 1989 with a total of 101,847 sales, 4.1 percent ahead of last year's 97,848. December retail sales of Volvo cars in the United States were 5,841, up 4.5 percent from the 5,591 sold a year ago. This established a new December sales record for the company. Joseph L. Nicolato, president and CEO of Volvo Cars of North America attributes the company's success to smart customers.

"Marketing people love to use acronyms to describe customer groups," Nicolato explained. "If I had to pick one to describe Volvo customers, it would be smart: successful, mature, and rational thinking. Satisfying their automotive needs has been the key to Volvo's success."

Safety, longevity, quality and value are the product attributes Volvo has consistently promoted over its 33-year U.S. history. According to Nicolato these values have never been more in tune with the times than they are today. He believes Volvo's continuity of image and message gives Volvo, a relatively small company, an advantage over its larger competitors.

"Stop the average person on the street and ask him what a Volvo is and you'll get an amazingly accurate description." He added, "When you sell only one out of every 100 new cars sold in this country, that is amazing!"

Nicolato also credits the network of 416 Volvo dealers across the country for the company's strong performance. Ultimately, according to Nicolato, it is the dealer who makes the final impression on the customer. "In Volvo's case, it's a good impression," Nicolato concluded.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Motor Trend magazine, considered the world's automotive authority, today named the Lincoln Town Car as the Motor Trend Car of the Year for 1990.

It marks the first time in 38 years that a four-door luxury sedan has won top honors, Motor Trend editors said.

The Motor Trend Car of the Year title is a first for a Lincoln model. Ford Motor Company products have now captured the most coveted honor in the automotive industry four of the last five years.

Motor Trend said the 1990 award competition was one of the most closely contested competitions, with the Lincoln Town Car emerging as the decisive winner of excellence in automotive achievement. Other nominees were the Buick Reatta Convertible, Buick Regal Four-Door Sedan, Chevrolet Lumina, Oldsmobile Trofeo, Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme Four- Door Sedan and the Pontiac Grand Prix Four-Door Sedan.

Motor Trend magazine editor Jack Nerad announced the winner of the award at the 1990 Los Angeles Auto Show. Concurrently, the announcement was made today at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit.

Motor Trend editors said the Lincoln Town Car "is a performer true to its character and we (the world) are watching the curtain go up on a genuine new star."

"The new Town Car embodies a seamless blending of the familiar and the futuristic," the magazine's editors wrote in the February issue. "Its aerodynamic bodywork design retains a number of traditional styling cues, but these classical overtones are integrated into contemporarily contoured sheet metal definitely in step with the '90s."

Other areas of excellence cited by the Motor Trend editors as reasons for selecting the Lincoln Town Car as Car of the Year are upgraded handling and road feel, exceptional noise and vibration/ harshness control characteristics -- making the passenger compartment one of the quietest of any car on the road today -- and comfortably designed passenger seating, as well as the largest trunk space of any car in its class.

At the legendary Los Angeles County Fairgrounds and on city streets, Motor Trend editors put each nominee through a grueling, weeklong regimen, including a slalom course, a skidpad to determine lateral acceleration, and tests of acceleration and braking. The cars were further evaluated in a combination of stop-and-go city traffic, open freeways, and on twisting mountain road conditions.

The nine categories in which the cars were judged are styling and design, quality control, comfort and convenience, ride and drive characteristics, chassis dynamics, acceleration, handling, dollar value, and fuel economy.

To ensure judicial integrity at the time of each test, the editors surrendered their score books to an on-site representative from Ernst & Young, who were responsible for auditing each test and compiling the results.

Manufacturer's base prices for the Lincoln Town Car, Signature series, and Cartier design range from $27,986 to $32,809, not including options or destination and delivery charges.

Motor Trend is a leading monthly magazine for new car enthusiasts, published by Petersen Publishing Company, based in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Nissan's all-new 1990 four-door Pathfinder SE V-6 has been named "4x4 Of The Year" by Petersen's 4Wheel & Off-Road Magazine.

"Following extensive testing of five competing vehicles, and after evaluating each driver's input and tabulating results, the Nissan Pathfinder came out on top with a total of 389,392 points," said Steve Campbell, editor of 4Wheel & Off-Road.

"We put these vehicles through some really stringent tests," he said. "The Pathfinder placed consistently at or near the top in each category, and proved to be the best all-round new 4x4 for 1990."

For the past eight years, the magazine has gathered together each automotive manufacturer's new four-wheel-drive offering to vie for the prestigious 4x4 Of The Year Award.

Nissan's four-door sport utility vehicle was pitted against Chevrolet's four-door S-Blazer, Ford's four-door Explorer, Toyota's four-door 4Runner and Mitsubishi's Mighty Max 4x4 truck.

The test, whose purpose it to select "the best all-around 4x4" of the new model year, judges the vehicles on empirical data as well as on- and off-road performance.

Empirical testing includes rear-wheel dynamometer, quarter-mile acceleration, 55-to-zero mph braking and decibel tests, and comparisons of load capacity, price and miles per gallon.

Each vehicle is also evaluated on mechanical qualities, ride-and- drive performance, interior ergonomics and exterior body styling, fit and finish cargo and off-road attributes.

The four-door Pathfinder went on sale through Nissan's dealer network on Dec. 18 with pricing beginning at $15,720.

Such redemptions are not expected to occur for several years.

A total of 5,550,513.25 common shares of series A common stock of Illinois Central will be distributed on the basis of one share of series A common for four Prospect shares held. After the distribution, Prospect's percentage interest in the common stock of Illinois Central will decline from 64 to 32 percent. W. Wallace McDowell, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of The Prospect Group and chairman of the Illinois Central and Sylvan boards of directors, stated, "Prospect's commitment is to create and return value to shareholders and we are extremely pleased that the progress at these two companies affords us this opportunity to fulfill that commitment. "By making the distributions at this time, Prospect shareholders will realize the direct benefit of appreciation in the two companies while retaining their interest in The Prospect Group."

McDowell will remain chairman of Illinois Central and Sylvan after the distributions.

During the period while the Illinois Central and Sylvan stocks are stapled to Prospect stock, Illinois Central and Sylvan will be separate public companies, filing the required periodic statements with the Securities and Exchange Commission and disseminating information to holders of the new securities. The stapling is expected to provide a period during which the public can evaluate the performance of the new companies. After the unstapling, which will likely occur in the second half of 1990, stock in the two companies will trade separately on public exchanges.

DETROIT, (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Mazda Motor of America (MMA) had its best passenger car sales year ever in 1989, posting sales of 263,378 cars. Mazda credited the addition of three new product lines for boosting the company to its second-straight record-breaking year.

Speaking today at the North American International Auto Show here, Clark J. Vitulli, senior vice president and general manager of MMA, attributed the sales achievement to the strength of Mazda's bread-and- butter products and the addition in 1989 of three key products that address unique market segments.

"Our three newest products were major contributors to the outstanding year we had," Vitulli said. "We are pleased that consumers have responded so well to these products -- the MX-5 Miata, MPV multi- use vehicle and the all-new Protege sedan -- especially in a tough year- end market. It reaffirms our belief that we have the right products that anticipate customer desires in key market niches.

"Mazda's sales were further enhanced by the availability of quality cars from our manufacturing operation here in the Detroit area, Mazda Motor Manufacturing (USA) Corp. (MMUC). MMUC supplied 15 percent of our passenger cars, including virtually all MX-6s and many of our mid-size 626 sedans," Vitulli said.

Since its introduction in July 1989, the Miata achieved sales of 23,052. The MPV and MPV 4 X 4 reached sales of 37,211 in 1989, making it the best-selling import vehicle in its class. The well-appointed Protege compact sedan, available since September, closed out the year with sales of 9,863 units. In Detroit, Mazda introduced a four-wheel- drive version of this high-value entry.

"Besides receiving a vote of confidence from astute consumers last year, our products received awards and accolades in numbers unprecedented for Mazda, and possibly, for any automaker," said Vitulli.

The Miata led the pack, starting before it went on sale, when it was named one of the five best cars in the world by Road & Track and the only one under $40,000. It was also heralded as the Automobile of the Year by Automobile magazine, placed on Car and Driver's 10-Best List, and picked for Motor Trend's Top Ten list of imported vehicles. Additionally, Newsweek, Popular Science, Fortune, Time, Life and Business Week named the sports car to their list of top products.

The MPV, too, was named to several "best" lists by key publications, including first place in Car and Driver's minivan comparison test. And the Protege was recognized by Popular Science with inclusion in the Top 100 products list for 1989.

MINNEAPOLIS (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - FSI International Inc. (NASDAQ: FSII), major manufacturer of capital equipment for the semiconductor industry, announced today that it will close its Semiconductor Technologies Division (STD) in Ontario, Calif. Design, manufacture and marketing of STD's megasonic cleaning systems will be relocated to FSI's corporate headquarters facility in Chaska, Minn., outside of Minneapolis.

FSI President and Chief Executive Officer, Richard Jackson, said the company is taking this step mainly ''to enhance customer service, strengthen product engineering, and also gain economies of scale by consolidating all manufacturing.'' FSI expects $300,000 in annual pretax savings by closing STD and relocating the operation to Minnesota.

Sales of megasonic systems, cleaning technologies used in the production process of semiconductor devices, accounted for approximately $2 million, or almost 4 percent, of FSI's total sales for fiscal 1989, ended Aug. 26. Jackson noted that the company will combine the design, manufacture and marketing of this product line with two other drying technologies. The relocation will consolidate these technologies into one product group in one facility under the direction of Truman Porter, vice president and general manager of Megasonics and Drying Technologies.

FSI plans to relocate certain STD employees and equipment by March 31, with no disruption in shipments or service support anticipated. As a result of facility closing costs, FSI will take a one-time, pretax charge of approximately $200,000 in the second quarter ended Feb. 24. On an after-tax basis, the charge will be approximately $136,000, or less than 4 cents per share. The company has 4.0 million shares outstanding.

FSI International is a leader in producing automated surface conditioning equipment for processing silicon wafers. The company develops, manufactures and markets centrifugal spray processing systems, gas processing systems, photoresist processing equipment, and chemical management and delivery systems for use in the fabrication of advanced semiconductor integrated circuits. FSI's customers include semiconductor manufacturers located throughout North America, Europe, Japan and the Far East.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Index Technology Corporation (NASDAQ: INDX), a leading provider of computer-aided software engineering (CASE) products, today announced that it expects revenues of between $11 million and $11.5 million in the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared with revenues of $8.7 million in the fourth quarter of 1988.

Although this represents revenue growth in excess of 28 percent over the comparable period of 1988, the rate of growth is below the company's expectations for the period, due in large part to lower-than-anticipated revenues in the European market.

As a result of this shortfall in anticipated fourth quarter revenues and the company's continuing investment in sales, marketing and development, Index Technology expects earnings to be below the 22 cents per share earned in the fourth quarter of 1988, but approximately in line with the 13 cents per share earnings in each of the preceding quarters in 1989.

Richard A. Carpenter, president and CEO, said, "The continuation of the current expense levels coupled with the revenue estimates for the first half of 1990 will continue to put pressure on earnings. In the second half of the year, with the addition of several new products, operating margins are expected to improve."

Index Technology's Excelerator(R) is the world's most widely used systems analysis and design CASE product, with an installed base of more than 19,000 copies. IRVINE, CA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Charles W. Missler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of The Phoenix Group International, Inc. (NASDAQ: PHIX), announced today that its subsidiary, American PC Corporation, has received confirmation of its first order to ship 770 computers to the Soviet Union, which is the first step in implementing its joint venture with the State Committee for Public Education of the U.S.S.R. This initial shipment is part of what the Soviets have previously indicated is a total requirement for 6 million computers to be acquired through the joint venture with The Phoenix Group.

American PC will supply computer systems based on IBM compatible 286 personal computers manufactured by Netcom Research, Inc., another Phoenix subsidiary. These computers are specifically designed to function within local area networks and are ideal for instructional and educational purposes.

The initial shipment is being handled through "Electronorgtechnica," the Soviet government's foreign trade organization having the responsibility for importing computers. Final payment is to be in U.S. dollars upon delivery in Moscow. Oesterreichische Laenderbank in Vienna is providing letters of credit to secure the initial shipment. The initial shipment is scheduled to take place in February 1990 and will exceed $1 million in value.

"We are delighted to receive confirmation of the Soviet purchase contract at the beginning of the New Year," commented Missler. "This will accelerate the Soviet joint venture program and answer those sceptics who thought that the Soviets would not confirm their purchase contract with American PC. We believe that this is the first step in the successful implementation of the entire computerization program through our joint venture, which was announced by representatives of the Soviet State Committee for Public Education at their press conference in September 1989."

CALGARY, ALBERTA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Shell Canada announced today it will install new technology at its Burnt Timber gas plant to reduce sulphur dioxide emissions by more than 50 per cent.

"Our intention is to evaluate the technology in a full-scale application at Burnt Timber and then determine its suitability for application elsewhere,'' Executive Vice President Ed Czaja said.

Czaja said related studies are under way at Shell's Waterton plant, one of the largest gas plants in Canada. Waterton is located in the in the southwest corner of the province and Burnt Timber is 100 km northwest of Calgary.

The new SUPERCLAUS technology is licensed by a Dutch company, Comprimo, in which Shell Group is a substantial shareholder.

Czaja said initial engineering studies conducted during 1989 showed a major opportunity for reducing sulphur dioxide emissions. Sulphur dioxide is created when hydrogen sulphide is removed from natural gas.

''We see this as a good example of sustainable development, providing significant environmental benefits at acceptable costs for this project,'' he said.

The technology, which includes a new catalyst and other modifications, has the potential to cut current Burnt Timber sulphur dioxide emissions from 40 tonnes per day to less than 20. This would mean a total reduction, over plant life, of more than 100,000 tonnes. Burnt Timber installation is expected to be completed by mid-1991.

Cost estimates for Burnt Timber total about $4 million, while Waterton estimates are not yet complete.

''In the 1990s, responsible energy development requires more than just talk. It requires that all companies turn their technological expertise to greater environmental protection,'' Czaja said.

''That means reducing emissions where practical and building new plants that meet the highest standards''.

''For example, our proposed Caroline plant will include the latest

Shell-patented technology for environmentally responsible development of the Caroline gas field.'' Shell's Caroline plant design calls for 99.8-per-cent sulphur recovery, the highest level of any major gas plant in the world.

''We see the 1990s demanding more of all Canadians in the area of environmental protection,''Czaja said. ''We're addressing the issue on many fronts and we intend to continue to lead in responsible development.''

CAMBRIDGE, MA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - A Repligen Corporation (NASDAQ: RGEN) study published in the Jan. 5 edition of Science demonstrates the ability of a natural human protein found in blood platelets to block the inappropriate formation of new blood vessels that occurs in a number of diseases, including cancer. The findings suggest that this protein, platelet factor 4 (PF4), may have potential for treating Kaposi's sarcoma, malignant tumors, diabetic retinopathy, neovascular glaucoma, and other diseases.

The development of new blood vessels, a process known as angiogenesis, has long been recognized by scientists as essential for tumor growth. Repligen researchers believe that blocking angiogenesis with a substance such as PF4 will provide a unique mechanism for treating cancer patients.

According to Walter C. Herlihy, Jr., Ph.D., vice president and director of research at Repligen, "This work defines the ability of PF4 to block blood vessel development, providing us with a potential new therapy for solid tumors. The first specific indication for our modified form of PF4, called Endostatin B(tm), will be for Kaposi's sarcoma, a malignancy often associated with AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) in homosexual males.

Theodore E. Maione, Ph.D., principal investigator at Repligen, said, "Our work demonstrates that Endostatin B inhibits blood vessel growth by blocking the proliferation of endothelial cells which line the blood vessel walls. The ultimate goal of our program will be to develop an Endostatin B treatment for all diseases in which angiogenesis plays a central role."

Maione noted that because Endostatin B is virtually identical to natural human PF4, it is expected to be non-immunogenic, non-immunosuppressive and have low toxicity in humans. This is especially important in light of the immune system suppression and high toxicity associated with many existing cancer therapies.

Repligen Corporation develops and manufactures biochemical products for the healthcare market. The company's corporate headquarters and its research and production facilities are in Cambridge, Mass.

BURBANK, CA (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Calling it "the ideal marriage of 60 years of Disney animation excellence with the vast potential of local television and the children's audience," The Walt Disney Co. (NYSE: DIS) executives today presented to stations a groundbreaking, multi-faceted strategy to establish a successful Disney franchise at the local level -- The Disney Afternoon.

The strategy, incorporating both programming and marketing, is the most comprehensive ever created around a syndicated program. "We're offering such a revolutionary plan for three reasons," explained Robert Jacquemin, president, Buena Vista Television. "First, we are committed to the long-term success of The Disney Afternoon for us and our partner stations.

"In addition, this is the first time local stations can truly become part of the Disney franchise, and we want them to be able to use it to its fullest. Finally, only Disney has the expertise in production and resources available to break such new programming and marketing ground."

It was explained today how The Disney Afternoon is a uniquely designed daily program service permitting BVT to maintain consistently strong product by rotating in fresh segments as needed. The first segment available for rotation as early as fall 1991 is the just- announced comedy adventure Double-O Duck.

The innovative programming strategy for The Disney Afternoon will be matched by an unprecedented $100 million marketing campaign, the largest ever in television history. Some of its major elements are national promotions with McDonald's, the pre-eminent leader in quick service restaurants, and Kellogg's, the world's leading cereal manufacturer. The Disney/Kellogg promotion will be the largest ever in the cereal business. In addition, BVT will expand its "Watch 'n' Win" contests, which have been hugely successful with stations.

The Disney Afternoon character groups will be cross-promoted within Disney's enormous network of corporate resources, including theme parks, Disney Stores, consumer products and home video.

This fall, perhaps the strategy's most original element makes its debut when the company launches the "Disney Adventure Digest," the official digest of The Disney Afternoon. The full-color comic magazine featuring puzzles, games and information on the program's segments will be available at more than 100,000 supermarket checkouts.

BVT is also providing The Disney Afternoon stations with the most comprehensive on-air package ever prepared for a syndicated show.

Finally, Disney executives revealed a series of special programming/ marketing activities for 1990 Disney summer theatrical releases, as well as original full-day programming opportunities. "The Disney Summer" will let stations participate in the highly touted "Dick Tracy;" "The Jungel Book," featuring The Disney Afternoon's newest characters, Baloo the Bear and Louis the Ape; and the much-anticipated "DuckTales: The Movie." For each feature, the station can hold sneak preview screenings in its market, air a half-hour preview program and use special merchandise and contest kits to enhance promotion.

NEW YORK (JAN. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - Temple Holdings stated that Sea Containers (NYSE: SCR) is currently in default under Bermuda law, its Bylaws and New York Stock Exchange rules in not holding its annual meeting. By scheduling the proposed Feb. 24 special meeting to consider only Sea Containers' purported recapitalization, Sea Containers' directors have continued to disregard their legal and fiduciary obligations and continue to prevent Sea Containers' shareholders from properly electing directors. Temple stated that this tactic is yet another attempt by Sea Containers' management to coerce its shareholders into approving its inferior alternative without allowing shareholders an opportunity to accept Temple's fully financed all cash $70 per share offer.

Temple also stated that the Court of Appeal for Bermuda will hear, commencing Jan. 22, Temple's appeal from orders of the Bermuda Supreme Court. The Bermuda Supreme Court denied Temple's request for declaratory and injunctive relief both with respect to Sea Containers' "poison pill" rights plan and the purported acquisition and the voting by certain Sea Containers' subsidiaries of approximately 20 percent of the Sea Containers' shares. The appeal schedule should permit a decision by the Court of Appeal prior to Sea Containers' proposed February meeting.

Temple also stated that it has extended the expiration date for its cash tender offer until midnight, Eastern time, on Friday, Jan. 19 and that it has been informed by the depositary that approximately 1,585,705 common shares; 406,020 $2.10 Cumulative Preferred Shares, Series 1982; 148,573 $2.10 Cumulative Preferred Shares; 661,377 $1.4625 Cumulative Preferred Shares; and 4,700 $4.125 Convertible Cumulative Preferred Shares have been tendered.

NEW YORK (JAN. 4) UPI - A ruptured Exxon pipeline that spilled up to 546,000 gallons of heating oil has polluted the shoreline of an important waterfowl nesting area in a waterway between Staten Island and New Jersey, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard revised its estimates of the spill Wednesday after originally reporting that between 5,000 and 10,000 gallons of the home heating oil spilled into the busy waterway early Tuesday.

Shipping in Arthur Kill, which flows into the Atlantic Ocean, was not impeded despite a safety zone set up in the Goethals Bridge area so that a local contractor could contain the worst concentration of the oil spill. The slick extended south to Prall's Island, part of a New York state heron rookery, said Coast Guard spokesman Gary Reeves.

''Fortunately, most of the birds on Prall's island have all gone south for the winter, so there doesn't seem to be any damage to bird life and part of the cleanup will be to make sure the island is habitable for the birds when they return in the spring,'' Reeves said.

Damage to sea life is more difficult to assess and is a problem for environmental agencies, Reeves said.

William Hewitt, a spokesman for the state Department of Environmental Conservation, said a team of biologists were at the scene and reported the ducks and grebes on Prall's Island, the smaller Shooter's Island and the Goethal's Bridge Pond ''don't appear to be affected.''

He said all herons, egrets and ibises that normally nest there had migrated south.

Reeves said Coast Guard experts estimated it would take a week to clean up the spill, aided by a warming trend in the weather which would speed up evaporation.

Coast Guard Capt. Robert North said he believed a boat collided with the 12-inch pipeline in about 7 feet of water, outside the regular shipping channel, where the pipe lies 45 feet below the surface.

That version was confirmed by Kitty Cochrane, an Exxon spokeswoman.

''Divers examining the pipeline as part of Exxon's investigation into the cause of the leak have found evidence that would suggest it has been hit by a ship,'' she said. ''The line has been moved and creased.''

Cochrane said said two prior accidents have been recorded at that pipeline during the past 25 years, but neither resulted in a leak.

The line is pressure-tested by an independent engineering firm about once every three months, and is inspected by the company about once a month, she said.

On Wedesday Exxon increased the estimated loss to 10,000 to 13,000 barrels or 420,000 to 546,000 gallons.

''Exxon changed its original estimate of 5,000 gallons this morning when their investigation revealed the actual amount lost,'' the Coast Guard said.

A spokesman for Citizen Action, a consumer group in Washington, said Exxon's original low estimate of the oil loss showed the company ''hasn't learned very much from its experience with the Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska.''

''It is clear that there is something deeply wrong internally at Exxon,'' said Ed Rothschild, energy policy director for Citizen Action. ''The top leadership at Exxon needs to be changed.''

The rupture occurred when something struck the oil pipe beneath the water line after a fuel transfer at the Morse's Creek storage tank at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, Exxon spokesman Lou Jung said.

The spill was discovered by Coast Guard inspectors on Staten Island at 3:07 a.m. and Exxon employees located the rupture more than seven hours later, according to the Coast Guard and Exxon. The slick spread roughly 10 miles across Arthur Kill, reaching as far as Shooter's Island to the north and Tottenville, Staten Island, to the south.

Water traffic in the waterway was curtailed briefly until a cleanup was organized by a local contractor, Clean Ventures, which reported the operation was going ''real well.'' The Coast Guard cutter Hawser kept traffic away from the cleanup area.

Exxon at first downplayed down the seriousness of the spill.

''Because of the small amount of oil, the wind and the warming temperatures, we expect the oil to be cleaned up in a few days,'' said Jung on Tuesday. ''The amount of oil lost was about 5,000 gallons, about two-thirds of the amount transported by tanker trucks on highways.''

Jung said the rupture occurred in a 6.7-mile Exxon pipeline connecting Bayonne, N.J., to Linden, N.J., and passing over Staten Island. He said it was shut down by the company's leak detection system at 2:30 p.m. but the leak reoccurred and the line had to be shut down a second time.

MINNEAPOLIS (JAN. 4) UPI - General Mills said it is dropping its Benefit breakfast cereal because of disappointing sales during eight months of test marketing.

The food company, which made the announcement Wednesday, had introduced Benefit in hopes of increasing its share of the health food market. But General Mills quickly encountered trouble with its claim that its high-fiber cereal can reduce cholesterol with the help of a grain called psyllium. The use of psyllium raised concerns that the cereal should be regulated as a drug, not as a food.

"We envisioned that with all the interest in cholesterol, a product like Benefit would appeal to a broad range of consumers," General Mills spokesman Craig Shulstad said. "What we found was that it appealed to a much narrower range than we had expected."

The discontinuation of Benefit, which General Mills indicated was available in 28 percent of the country, is not expected to affect the company significantly. The company declined to reveal how much it spent on developing and marketing the cereal. But if Benefit had been successful in its test markets, the company said it would have spent $25 million in advertising.

Procter & Gamble of Cincinnati started the controversy over Benefit last summer when it asked the Food and Drug Administration to prevent General Mills from making its cholesterol-reducing claims. Procter & Gamble makes Metamucil, a laxative that also contains psyllium, but the company is restrained from marketing it as a cholesterol-reducing product. Because Metamucil is labeled a drug, it is more strictly regulated than foods.

The FDA did not order General Mills to change its Benefit advertising, but it did ask for scientific data on which the company based its claims. Shulstad said, however, that the FDA's request did not contribute to the decision to take Benefit off store shelves.

But publicity over the debate contributed to consumers' unwillingness to try the cereal. "I think consumers didn't want to feel like they were going to the medicine shelf" when they ate their cereal, said John McMillen, a food industry analyst with Prudential Bache Securities in New York.

Psyllium is a grain grown in India. Its cholesterol-reducing properties are due to the soluble fiber it contains. Oat bran also contains soluble fiber, which also has been shown to reduce cholesterol.

Kellogg's Heartwise also contains psyllium. Kellogg's said Wednesday that because Heartwise reached store shelves only last fall, it is too soon to estimate sales. "We remain optimistic about Heartwise in the high-fiber cereal market," said Kellogg's spokeswoman Celeste Clark.

GOLDEN, CO (JAN. 4) UPI - The Adolph Coors Co., which last month cancelled plans to buy the Stroh Brewery Co., Thursday said it has had negotiations with G. Heileman Brewing Co., the nation's fifth-largest brewery.

Coors declined to specify the focus of the negotiations, but there has been speculation the company is interested in buying some of the assets of La Crosse, Wis.-based Heileman.

"We have been having discussions with Heileman for more than a year," said Coors spokeswoman Anita Russell. "As the industry consolidates, we've looked at all our options." Russell added there were no active negotiations with either Heileman or Stroh.

Coors had reached a tentative agreement last September to buy most of the assets of Stroh for $425 million, but reports have indicated the deal collapsed because of antitrust implications.

Coors is the nation's fourth largest brewery, while Stroh is No. 3. The combined Coors-Stroh operation would have remained third largest behind brewery giants Anheuser-Busch and Miller.

Heileman is owned by Australian financier Alan Bond and produces Old Style Iron City, Lone Star and Rainier beers, along with Colt 45 Malt Liquor. Parent company Bond Corporation Holdings Ltd. of Perth, Australia, has been in financial difficulties.

Bond acquired Heileman in 1987 for approximately $1.2 billion, but a beer industry analyst indicated the company's current worth has dropped to only one-third of Bond's purchase price.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 4) UPI - A pharmaceutical firm under investigation by the government in the generic drug scandal has permanently halted production and shipping of its products, a company official said Thursday.

Quantum Pharmics Ltd., of Amityville, N.Y., initially halted the operations in September after federal investigators launched an inquiry into information the company supplied when it applied for three drug approvals. Quantum is a subsidiary of American Home Products Corp. of New York

As a result of the decision to permanently cease production and shipping, 17 Quantum employees were terminated Jan. 1 and another 21 will lose their jobs March 1, said Carol Emering, a spokeswoman for American Home Products.

Thirty-one Quantum employees will, however, remain on the payroll "doing research," Emering said, while company officials discuss plans for the drug firm's future.

Quantum voluntarily withdrew its applications to the Food and Drug Administration, which is investigating a number of generic drug maker for various suspected improprieties, to market 25 of its products.

The company had at one time produced 40 drugs requiring the approval of the FDA in addition to a urinary tract infection drug that did not require approval of the government agency. The manufacture of the urinary tract drug was suspended late last year, Emering said.

HARTFORD, CT (JAN. 4) UPI - United Technologies Corp. may be fined more than $1 million for alleged PCB violations, the largest federal penalty in New England involving the suspected cancer-causing substance, officials said Thursday.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency proposed a $1.16 million fine against UTC for violations at the United Technologies Research Center in East Hartford, the Hamilton Standard Division in Windsor Locks and the Pratt & Whitney division in East Hartford. "United Technologies has a very poor record of complying with PCB regulations," said Paul G. Keough, acting EPA regional administrator.

Since 1985, the EPA has issued four other complaints against UTC for violations of PCB regulations at several facilities, officials said. All the cases were settled after the company corrected the violations and agreed to pay fines totaling $123,107.

"These are dangerous chemicals and it is the company's responsibility to make sure they are managed properly and in accordance with the law," Keough said. PCBs are a group of toxic chemicals used in electrical equipment which are suspected carcinogens and are known to cause liver ailments and a persistent skin rash.

UTC officials said PCBs were properly handled at the facilities cited in Thursday's complaint. "We strongly disagree with the complaint's conclusions and we will file our detailed objections within the response time," said Philip J. Rieth, spokesman for UTC. The company has 20 days to respond to the complaint. "Our specific objections will be detailed in the written response," said Rieth.

EPA's complaint alleged that the United Technologies Research Center knowingly used PCBs in certain research equipment for almost six months. The complaint also stated that UTC improperly delayed the cleanup of a PCB spill and that the actions presented a risk of exposure to employees and the environment. Rieth said when the spill occured, the equipment was "promptly shut down" and the appropriate state and federal agencies were notified.

At the Hamilton Standard Division, the EPA claimed the company used PCBs illegally in a heat transfer system between January 1988 and November 1989. The complaint also alleged that UTC did not properly store PCB wastes, including storing PCB waste in structurally inadequate areas at Hamilton Standard and Pratt & Whitney.

TAMPA, FL (JAN. 4) UPI - A 3,500-pound engine fell from a Northwest Airlines jetliner over Florida Thursday, forcing the pilot to make a safe emergency landing with 145 people aboard, airline officials said.

The right rear engine, one of three on the Boeing 727, fell off in the vicinity of Cross City, between Jacksonville and Tallahassee in northern Florida, the airline said. Safety investigators have not determined where it landed.

No injuries were reported.

Bob Gibbons, a spokesman for the Minnesota-based airline, said Flight No. 5 left Miami at 8:03 a.m. and was bound for Minneapolis with 139 passengers and a crew of six.

''Just northeast of Tallahassee, the pilot radioed and reported losing an engine. At that point the plane was diverted to Tampa and landed without incident at about 9:50 a.m. EST,'' said FAA spokeswoman Arlene Sallac in Atlanta.

The FAA originally said the plane had made a routine stop in Orlando, but later determined that it was a non-stop flight, scheduled to fly directly to Minnesota.

The plane was flying at 35,000 feet when the engine, 12 feet long and 4 feet in diameter, tore loose from the pylon that housed it, said Paul MacAlester, a spokesman for the Hillsborough County Aviaition Authority in Tampa.

The plane was 14 years old, about average for Northwest's fleet, Sallac said. The FAA had no record of similar problems with that model of plane.

Passengers said they felt the plane shudder and some reported hearing a ''bang'' sound but they did not know until the plane landed in Tampa that an engine had fallen off. They thought it had merely lost power.

Passenger Mark Weingartner, 25, said the plane shook and he felt a bump similar to driving over a pothole in a road.

''I was sitting next to the window but it was cloudy at the time, so I really didn't see anything. Then the captain came on and said one of our engines had just failed - he called it failed - and he said there was no problem, that we could fly on two engines but that they were going to take us down in Tampa,'' said Weingartner, who was on his way home to Minneapolis from the Orange Bowl game in Miami.

''Right after it happened everyone got real quiet,'' said passenger Michelle White. ''They were just sitting there, not saying anything. The woman sitting next to me said her husband was a pilot and she was holding onto her crucifix and praying.''

White and her husband, Craig, were on their way to Washington after their wedding in Miami.

Passenger Augustine U. Stine Calatrone said the plane shook only briefly and he though it had simply hit a little turbulence.

''It just stopped, like that, then I think I felt shocks two or three more times. I was asleep. The only thing it did to me was wake me up. I thought it was just the wind,'' Calatrone said.

Flight attendants were serving breakfast at the time and quickly put away the food carts to prepare for landing.

The passengers waited in the Tampa airport while Northwest booked them on other flights. Minneapolis was not the final destination for most, an airline official said.

Officials with the FAA, the National Transportation Safety Board and Northwest went to Tampa to investigate, Sallac said.

DETROIT (JAN. 4) UPI - Ford Motor Co.'s restyled Lincoln Town Car was officially named Motor Trend Magazine's Car of the Year for 1990 Thursday as the automaker's Lincoln-Mercury division scaled back its sales forecast for the new year.

The choice of the Town Car as the top domestically built car of the year - previously reported in early November - marks the first time a large luxury sedan has been awarded the highly coveted prize, worth millions of dollars in advertising and prestige.

The 1990 Town Car, which ranges in price from about $28,000 to $33,000, marks the first major redesign since 1979, although it remains one of the largest automobiles offered.

Each year, Motor Trend, a monthly enthusiast publication, evaluates new or substantially redesigned cars for ride, handling, style, comfort, quality, and value. It has offered the award nearly every year since 1949, and will name an Import Car of the Year Feb. 7 in Chicago.

Last year, Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division sold a record 200,000 Lincolns, which include the Town Car, Continental and Mark VII. Total Lincoln-Mercury sales reached 675,000 units.

However, Ross H. Roberts, the division's general manager, said Lincoln-Mercury will not meet its earlier goal of selling 702,000 new cars in 1990.

Instead, 1990 sales will likely remain flat at 675,000 units, although the division's market share is expected to increase because the overall market size is expected to decline.

Lincoln-Mercury also once again unveiled its new Capri roadster at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit. The front-drive Capri was to debut earlier, after first being shown two years ago at the Chicago Auto Show.

A four-seat roadster developed by Mazda and built in Australia, the Capri will go on sale in late spring or early summer with prices comparable to Mazda's Miata roadster, Roberts said. The Miata currently sells for between $13,800 and about $17,000, depending on model.

Ford hopes to sell between 20,000 and 25,000 Capris a year, which is near the capacity of its Australian plant. Mazda has pegged Miata sales at about 40,000 cars annually.

Standard equipment on the Capri will include a 1.6 liter 16-valve engine, 5-speed manual transaxle, driver's side air bag, power windows and AM-FM stereo. A detachable hard top and air conditioning are extra, and an automatic gearbox will be offered later this year. The Capri XR2 will feature a turbocharged 1.6 liter four with a 5-speed manual only, Roberts said.

NEW YORK (JAN. 4) UPI - Merrill Lynch & Co. is discontinuing a practice of paying its brokers a higher commission to sell the firm's own mutual funds, the company said Thursday.

Under the firm's previous policy, its 11,000 brokers were paid an eight percent higher commission for selling Merrill Lynch's in-house funds than mutual funds of other companies. Begining this week, the commissions for selling either type of fund will be identical, the firm said.

Merrill Lynch, the nation's second-largest mutual fund manager with about $90 billion in assets, offers 92 portfolios of its own mutual funds, closed-end funds and variable annuity products, the company said.

Brokerages have been coming under criticism for offering incentives to sell in-house products on grounds the practice could dissuade brokers from giving impartial advice to investors.

Also, Shearson Lehman Brothers has reduced commissions to its brokers for certificates of deposit, the Wall Street Journal reported Thursday. A spokesman for the investment firm said he could not confirm the report.

In November, Shearson, which like other Wall Street firms has seen shrinking profits in the wake of the 1987 stock market crash, slashed commissions to its brokers and launched a round of employee layoffs expected to total more than 800 jobs.

LINDEN, NJ (JAN. 4) UPI - The Exxon Corp. Thursday doubled the work force cleaning up the spill of home heating oil in the waterway separating New Jersey and Staten Island Thursday.

At least 150 workers were working to remove the oil from the waters of the closed Arthur Kill and the edge of Staten Island where most of the oil settled.

Workers have set between 20,000 and 25,000 feet of containment booms while other crews used boats and trucks equipped with vacuum pumps to suck the oil from the water and the shore and still others used absorbent material to sop up the relatively light petroleum product, said Lou Jung, a company spokesman.

Two environmentally sensitive bird sanctuaries in the path of the oil were protected by containment booms and a group paid by Exxon to rescue birds said 13 had died and another ten oiled live birds were picked up by cleanup crews.

The waterway remained closed to ship traffic Thursday, but could be opened as soon as Friday morning, said Chief Warrant Officer John Hollis, a spokesman for the Coast Guard.

Warmer temperatures and calm winds could result in the entire cleanup being completed in a week, said First Coast Guard District Rear Admiral Richard Rybacki, who toured the area by air.

Coast Guard officials said the spill dumped an estimated 200,000 gallons of home heating oil into the waterway Tuesday morning when a tear developed in the company's 6.7-mile long pipeline from Bayonne to the Bayway facility in Linden.

Exxon officials believe a ship moving outside the normal shipping lane ran into the pipeline in seven feet of water, but no vessel has been identified as the cause of the mishap.

The investigation into the cause of the spill is continuing, Jung said. The company said as much as 546,000 gallons of oil was spilled, but "that is an absolute worst-case scenario," Jung said.

Rybacki, who oversees the area that includes the Arthur Kill, said he believes the cleanup is being handled professionally. "I am satisfied," he said. "I would like to see a few additional booms put into place to help direct the oil and they're in the process of doing that and I expect closer coordination will be going on between the people on the surface and the aircraft that are flying over the spill."

The oil stretched from near the Goethals Bridge to Tufts Point, a distance of about eight miles, the Coast Guard said.

DETROIT (JAN. 4) UPI - A 17 percent decline in sales of domestically made cars and light trucks during December caused the nation's automakers to report Thursday a 3.9 percent slide in sales for 1989.

Sales during the year were artificially fueled by buyer incentives throughout most of the year, but stalled in October after those lures were made less attractive. Sales of domestically built cars and light trucks fell to 11,213,651 units comapred to 11,747,718 units sold during 1988.

On average, sales amounted to 36,646 vehicles per day, down from 38,142 vehicles sold daily during 1988. There were 306 selling days last year against 308 days in the previous year.

When import sales are totaled, the U.S. industry is expected to total about 14.8 million units, down about one million units from 1988. Sales hit a record 16.3 million units in 1986. Most industry analysts expect sales in 1990 to fall further to between 14.2 million and 14.5 million units because of a saturated new car market.

Sales of domestically built cars alone during 1989 slipped 5.4 percent from a year ago when measured by sales per day, following a 23 percent decline during December from strong year-ago levels.

Sales of U.S.-built light trucks during 1989 declined 1.3 percent during 1989 after falling six percent for December when compared with the year-ago month. U.S. car and truck sales for the final ten days of December slipped 10.5 percent from year-ago levels, automakers said.

The annual selling rate for domestically made cars last month totaled 6.2 million units, substantially below the 8.4 million units posted in the year-ago month because of strong reaction to buyer lures. The rate for Dec. 21-31 was 7.3 million units, but still a far cry from the robust 10.6 million units for the final ten days of 1988.

"We don't understand the reason why (sales are so low)," said Ford Motor Co. Chairman Donald E. Petersen during a preview for the auto show in Detroit. "But we are pretty bullish that there will be a correction within the next few months to raise industry figures substantially."

"The underlying economic fundamentals are still there," added Robert Lutz, president of Chrysler Motors. "There is no justification for a sales rate as low as it is."

Lutz acknowledged, however, that the market has reached the saturation point after several years of strong sales, and that many buyers have been unable to get out of lengthy loans which "put people in the hopeless position of having negative equity in their cars."

Domestic manufacturers include General Motors Corp., Ford, Chrysler, American Honda Motor Co., Nissan Motor Manufacturing U.S.A., Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A., Mazda Motor Manufacturing (USA) Corp. and Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America, Inc.

Sales of GM's domestically made cars during 1989 declined 9.4 percent, while its light truck sales dipped 2.5 percent. Second-ranked Ford posted a 4.2 percent decline in car sales and a 3.5 percent decline in truck sales when compared with 1988 totals.

Chrysler's car sales during 1989 fell 13.1 percent, while its light truck sales including Jeep slipped 0.4 percent when compared with the combined total a year ago.

Among the smaller companies reporting sales of U.S.-built cars, Honda posted a 4.3 percent gain for the year. Toyota, which recently started building its mid-sized Camry sedan domestically, reported a 195.3 percent rise in sales from a year ago, when its only domestically built cars were Corolla models at its joint venture plant with GM in California.

Nissan reported a 7.4 percent decline in sales of its U.S.-built cars, while its domestically made compact truck sales rose 12.9 percent from year-ago levels.

assembly plant during 1989 vs. 31,331 for 1988. Mitsubishi reported sales of 32,018 Eclipse cars built at its joint venture plant with Chrysler in Illinois.

TORONTO (JAN. 5) UPI - The seizure of 35 percent of Campeau Corp.'s voting rights by the National Bank of Canada in response to a loan default will accelerate the restructuring at the troubled company, analysts said Thursday.

Leon Courville, an executive vice president of the National Bank, said certain securities of Campeau Corp., previously held as collateral for a loan, were transferred into the bank's name.

The bank said it now holds 13.03 million common shares and 4 million convertible subordinate preference shares for a combined 35 percent of voting rights currently exercisable by Campeau shareholders.

Janet Mangano, analyst at New York's Josephthal & Co., said ''the financial and operational actions related to the restructuring should (now) accelerate.''

Mangano said Robert Campeau's departure from the company he founded nearly four decades ago is likely to occur sooner rather than later.

Courville said a loan to 752090 Ontario Inc., a private company controlled by Robert Campeau, had been in default for some time before the bank acted.

The bank did not disclose the amount of the defaulted loan, but Courville said a 1987 assessment of the securities valued them at a maximum of about $180 million.

Mangano said the bank's action has triggered a change in control at Campeau.

On a fully diluted basis, Olympia & York Developments Ltd. becomes the single largest shareholder with a 38.4 percent stake, while Robert Campeau's personal holdings drop to 8.2 percent. from 43.2 percent.

Carol Sanger, spokeswoman at Campeau's Cincinnati office, said the loan default was a ''personal situation'' between Campeau and the bank.

The securities transferred to the bank were used by the numbered Ontario company and Robert Campeau Capital Inc. as collateral for the loan.

Also transferred to the National Bank was a $51.4 million aggregate principal amount of 7 1/2 convertible subordinated debentures, series A.

The bank said it did not intend to sell or acquire any additional Campeau securities.

Campeau is in the midst of a major restructuring begun in September to reduce debt and ease a severe cash crisis at its two retailing subsidiaries, Allied Stores Corp. and Federated Department Stores Inc.

Allied and Federated operate Bloomingdale's, Abraham & Straus, Jordan Marsh, Burdines, Maas Brothers, Lazarus, Rich's, Goldsmith's, Stern's and Bon Marche.

New York-based Allied and Cincinnati-based Federated Tuesday were given until Jan. 15 to prove they are solvent and not in technical default on payments of $2.34 billion in loans from Citibank NA.

Citibank was responding to documents filed in mid-December with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in which the two retailers said they could not determine whether they were solvent, a condition of their loan convenants.

In return for the two-week reprieve, Federated agreed to pay early a $250 million asset bridge facility scheduled to mature April 30.

Heavy trading with more than 256,000 shares changing hands pushed Campeau's stock down 17 cents to close at $2.93 on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The stock's 52-week high is $18.91 and its 52-week low is $2.76.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 4) UPI - The Treasury Department Thursday announced a license has been granted to Turner Broadcasting System Inc., allowing Vietnam Television to receive and rebroadcast news programming from Cable News Network.

The Treasury noted that the license prohibits the transfer of any funds to Vietnam or to any national of Vietnam in connection with the agreement. The application for the license had been under interagency consideration since Aug. 4.

Favorable action on the application was influenced by the importance of having U.S. news programming available in Vietnam under an agreement that maintaines the embargo on payments to Vietnam, the Treasury said.

BOSTON (JAN. 4) UPI - A lawyer specializing in multimillion dollar corporate stockholder suits said Thursday he is seeking a substantial judgment against the Bank of New England Corp. for misleading the public about its prospects.

The attorney, Thomas G. Shapiro, has filed suits for 13 current or former stockholders in U.S. District Court against the bank holding company. However, Shapiro said he expects the suits will be consolidated into a single class action.

A similar suit has been brought in Philadelphia by still another investor.

Shapiro's clients claim the bank ''held itself out to be well-managed, in good shape,'' while in fact it has been troubled by growing real estate problems since mid 1987, he said.

During 1989, the company's stock plummeted from a high of nearly $25 a share to less than $8 a share on news of growing real estate problems, thus erasing more than $1.1 billion in market value in the stock.

However, to be able to collect compensation from the bank if the complaints are upheld, investors would have to show they bought stock during the class period established by the court.

Shapiro, who in 1987 successfully represented a group of Polaroid Corp. investors against that company, said he could not estimate the potential loss but said it would be substantial.

Marcia Ryan, a spokeswoman for the banking company, declined comment.

SEDONA, AZ (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - RMED International Inc. (NASDAQ:RMED) the company which pioneered in the United States the use of biodegradable plastic in its chemical-free (no superabsorbent polymers) TenderCare disposable diapers, Friday announced that it has a patent pending for a new disposable diaper which is flushable and uses approximately 40 percent less diaper material than conventional disposable diapers.

RMED plans to market its new diaper under the name of TenderSoft. The TenderSoft diaper is considerable smaller and lighter than all conventional diapers. Its small size means that it is less bulky, ensuring a more comfortable fit for baby. The smaller TenderSoft will be packaged to make them more convenient to carry and will take up considerable less retailer shelf space while providing the consumer with an equal quantity of diapers.

TenderSoft will make use of a new mineral-based, breathable, soft and quiet part-plastic film for the outer layer of the diaper which reduces the amount of nonrenewable resources currently required to produce the conventional plastic outer layer film.

The mass production of TenderSoft diapers will require the design and production of a new machine which RMED believes can be accomplished using, in part, existing diaper machinery technology. The eventual marketing of the TenderSoft diaper is dependent upon a number of factors, including the successful completion of field testing of the product, whether the product can be offered to the consumer at a reasonable price, the ability of RMED to obtain the financing necessary to bring the product to market, and, in the final analysis consumer acceptanct of the product.

It is anticipated that the TenderSoft diaper would be manufactured by various licensees under licensing agreements with RMED. It is further anticipated that the product would be distributed through home delivery and the natural food industry retailer, as well as the usual distribution channels, as is the case with the company's TenderCare diaper.

JACKSON, MS (JAN. 6) BUSINESS WIRE - Deposit Guaranty Corp. and Commercial National Corp. have entered into a revised agreement providing for the acquisition of Commercial National by Deposit Guaranty.

Under the terms of the new agreement, Deposit Guaranty will pay $5.50 in cash for each Commercial National share. Commercial National Bank will remain a separately chartered bank subsidiary of Deposit Guaranty Corp. and will retain its own board of directors.

Within five business days, Deposit Guaranty will commence a tender offer for all Commercial National shares. The offer will be conditioned on, among other things, two-thirds of the outstanding Commercial National shares being properly tendered and not withdrawn pursuant to the offer.

"This new agreement represents the end of a long period of negotiations, and we are eager to see the merger finalized," said E.B. Robinson Jr., chairman of the board of Deposit Guaranty Corp. "The merger offers many potential benefits to the combined companies, their shareholders, employees and customers."

Following completion of the offer, the parties will effect a merger in which any untendered shares will be cancelled in exchange for $5.50 per share in cash.

COSTA MESA, CA (JAN. 6) BUSINESS WIRE - Archive Corp. (NASDAQ: ACHV), Friday evening announced that it has sent the following letter to the board of directors of Cipher Data Products in connection with Archive's tender offer to purchase the outstanding shares of Cipher:

"Jan. 5, 1990"

"Board of Directors Cipher Data Products Inc. 9715 Business Park Ave. San Diego, Calif. 92131"

"Gentlemen:"

"As you are aware, in conversations among our investment bankers, First Boston indicated, among other things, Cipher's unwillingness to meet with representatives of Archive unless, as a precondition to any discussions, Archive agreed to offer a higher price than that offered in our pending tender offer."

"It was in response to that request that our representatives expressed Archive's willingness to consider a friendly transaction at a price of $8 per share."

"Archive continues to desire to meet with the top management or the board of directors of Cipher to discuss and negotiate all terms of our offer. Moreover, Archive strongly believes that the benefits of a friendly negotiated transaction may enable Archive to offer in such a negotiated transaction terms which are superior to those offered in a tender offer which is at present unsupported by Cipher's board."

"It was only in the context of a friendly acquisition that our representative mentioned a price per share of $8."

"As Archive has constantly stated, we are willing to negotiate all aspects of our offer. In particular, we remain willing to negotiate with you a friewndly acquisition of Cipher of $8 per share. However, in light of Cipher's suprisingly disappointing financial results announced in the Jan. 5 press release, Archive at this time is unwilling to change terms of its outstanding tender offer without the benefit of discussions with Cipher."

"Accordingly, on behalf of Archive, its board of directors and advisors, we again request the opportunity to meet with Cipher to discuss a business combination as soon as possible. In the interest of your stockholders, we believe it is imperative that discussions commence as promptly as possible."

"Sincerely, D. Howard Lewis, President."

PALM DESERT, CA (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - StratAmerica Corp. Friday announced it has elected to exercise its option to acquire Restaurants Etc., a 14-unit family dining chain based in Sacramento, Calif.

The option is a part of a Secured Credit Agreement made in 1988 with Restaurants Etc. The acquisition does not require shareholder approval and is expected to be completed within 30 days.

The restaurants include eight Shari's Restaurants, of which, two each are located in Colorado and Wyoming and four in California and five Heidi's Restaurants all located in California. Four of the Heidi's Restaurants are in the San Diego area. All the Heidi's Restaurants have the same menu as the Shari's Restaurants. Both restaurant types are characterized as 24-hour family operations.

Also included in the acquisition would be a license agreement with Shari's Management Corp. to open and operate Shari's Restaurants in Arizona, California, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. StratAmerica is currently reviewing potential sites for new Shari's Restaurants in these markets.

Sam D. Battistone, StratAmerica's president, said exercising the option to acquire Restaurants Etc. is the first step toward developing the company's family dining division and becoming a major licensee of Shari's Restaurants. He added that additional growth of StratAmerica's family dining division may be achieved through the acquisition of compatible locations.

In addition to being the only licensee, StratAmerica also holds a $4.5 million note from Shari's Management Corp. The note can be converted, subject to dilution, into approximately 40 percent ownership of Shari's Management Corp. which owns 32 Shari's Restaurants in Oregon and Washington.

Shari's Management Corp. had revenues of approximately $28.7 million for the year ended March 31, 1989.

StratAmerica's stock is traded on the NASDAQ system in the over-the-counter market with the symbol STCO.

NASHVILLE, TN (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - First American Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:FATN) Friday announced that a provision of $55 million was added to the allowance for possible loan losses in the fourth quarter of 1989.

Kenneth L. Roberts, chairman of the board, said: ''Today's action is consistent with the commitment we made earlier this year that we would make an all-out effort to identify our loan problems and deal with them decisively in 1989. We have done this.

''We have established our allowance for possible loan losses at a level which we believe offers us a significant measure of protection as we enter an uncertain economy in 1990. While our earnings for 1989 will be low, we are confident that, through these actions, we have improved the financial position of the corporation for 1990 and future years.

''We enter 1990 with renewed confidence based on the corporation's strong market position in Tennessee, its capital position, liquidity and reserve coverage. The new one-bank structure, which was completed on Jan. 1, also will help the corporation return to a more normal level of profitability in 1990.''

Near the middle of January, the corporation will report earnings for 1989. Preliminary estimates are that earnings for 1989 will be about $4.9 million, or 21 cents per share. In 1988 net income was $30,441,000, or $1.32 per share.

The addition to the allowance will result in a loss of about $16.7 million or 73 cents per share, in the fourth quarter. In the fourth quarter of 1988, there was a loss of $3,365,000, or 15 cents per share.

AGOURA HILLS, CA (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - Bishop Inc. (OTC:BISH) Friday reported revenues of $10,217,000 for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1989, as compared with revenues of $10,061,000 in fiscal year 1988.

For its fiscal 1989, the company incurred a net loss of $355,000, or 15 cents per share, vs. a net loss of $2,531,000, or $1.07 per share, in the prior year.

Included within the results were $144,000 and $2,040,000 of non-recurring repositioning costs recognized in the company's third quarters of fiscal 1989 and 1988, respectively. These one-time charges to income resulted from the resolution of a significant pending legal action against the company in 1989 and programs designed to reverse operating loss trends and return the company to profitability implemented in 1988.

Revenues for the fourth quarter ended Sept. 30, 1989, were $2,691,000, compared with $2,322,000 in the same period of fiscal 1988. For the quarter, the company earned $38,000, or 2 cents per share, as opposed to a pre-tax loss of $35,000 incurred in the fourth quarter of the prior year, which was offset by the recognition of a $211,000 income tax benefit.

Kenneth J. Kay, president and chief executive officer, stated that the improved operating results of the fourth quarter reflect the rapid growth in sales of turn-key engineering workstation systems by the InterCad Division, and the benefits derived from the company's previously implemented cost-reduction programs. He also noted that this was the second quarter during fiscal 1989 in which the company had returned to profitabilty.

Futhermore, Kay stressed the significance of the improvement in fiscal-year operating results. Higher revenues resulting from the tremendous customer response to InterCad's proficiency and expertise in workstation systems integration and implementation were masked by the decrease in sales of the company's traditional pressure-sensitive printed circuit board design aids and lower sales of commercial products earlier in the year.

Despite the marginal rise in revenues, the company was able to substantially reduce the operating losses which had been incurred in several of its most recent years.

After removing the impact of the non-recurring repositioning costs and income tax benefits recognized, the annual operating losses of the company have been reduced from $1,050,000 in 1986, $994,000 in 1987 and $817,000 in 1988 to $211,000 in 1989.

In addition, of this loss for 1989, a good portion was attributable to increased selling expenses incurred to establish the company's new commercial products distribution center in Irvine, initiate its new label manufacturing business and expand the commercial products sales force.

Kay expects that the company's fiscal year 1990 should reflect even better results than the period just ended. Growth in demand for enginering workstations is expected to continue at a strong pace and InterCad is uniquely positioned to further its penetration into the marketplace.

Bishop's operating companies are primarily engaged in the marketing and distribution of engineering, architectural and design products.

TIMONIUM, MD. (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - Kirschner Medical Corp. (NASDAQ: KMDC) announced Friday its board of directors has declared a dividend of common share purchase rights as part of a shareholder rights plan.

The plan is designed to ensure that all Kirschner shareholders receive fair value for their shares in the event of a change in control of Kirschner and to guard against the use of partial tender offers or other tactics to gain control of the company without offering fair value to the company's shareholders.

Kirschner believes this plan protects shareholder interests in the event that Kirschner is confronted with unfair takeover tactics, including offers that do not treat all shareholder interest fairly or do not maximize the value of the company.

The company stressed that the plan is not intended to prevent an acquisition of the company on terms that are favorable and fair to all shareholders. The plan is designed to deal with unilateral actions by hostile acquirers that deprive the board and shareholders of their ability to determine the future of the company. The plan is not being adopted in response to any effort to acquire control of the company.

Under the terms of the plan, common share purchase rights will be distributed as a dividend at the rate of the one right for each common share held as of the close of business on Jan. 9, 1990. Shareholders will not actually receive certificates for the rights at this time, but the rights will become part of each common share. The number of rights outstanding is subject to adjustment under certain circumstances and all rights expire on Jan. 3, 2000.

Kirschner develops, manufactures and markets orthopedic medical instruments and implants including reconstructive surgery and trauma devices, orthopedic support products, surgery tables, surgery room lighting and synthetic cast products. In addition, Kirschner is the world's leading supplier of veterinary orthopedic products. The company operates facilities in Timonium; Fair Lawn, N.J.; Delray Beach., Fla.; Greenwood, S.C.; Marlow, Okla; and Valencia, Spain.

NEW YORK (JAN. 5) BUSINESS WIRE - INVG Mortgage Securities Corp. (NASDAQ Symbol:INVG) (the ''company''), a holding company of issuers of collateralized mortgage obligations, announced Friday that it has taken further steps in accordance with its previously announced intention of maximizing shareholder value and distributions to shareholders through reductions in overall operating costs.

Since the beginning of the company's 1989 fiscal year, the board of directors has been seeking ways to lower the company's operating costs as the assets of the company continue to attenuate through the normal process of repayments on the mortgages underlying those securities.

Inc., the former manager of the company with the New York based firm of Fulcrum Financial Partners Inc., which is acting as the company's advisor.

The company has accepted, effective immediately, the resignations of five directors and two officers as a means of reducing operating costs generally and directors' and officers' liability insurance costs specifically.

Robert E. Greeley, a director since 1986, has assumed, effective immediately, the positions of president and chief executive officer of the company and its two subsidiaries, Investors GNMA Mortgage-Backed Securities Trust Inc. and INVG Government Securities Corp.

In connection with the reduction in the size of the board of directors and number of officers, a change of the jurisdiction of incorporation to Delaware for the company and Investors GNMA Mortgage-Backed Securities Trust Inc. is being contemplated by the company.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 5) COMTEX - Statewide Bancorp of Toms River, NJ, has increased its loan loss allowance for the fourth quarter of 1989 to $3.8 million.

Including a $5.2 million provision for the third quarter, the company will set aside a total of $15 million for the fiscal year, or 1.09 percent of its gross loans.

The majority of the loans are secured by real estate and other collateral.

Although Statewide will not report annual earnings for 1989 until later

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 5) COMTEX - Yellow Freight Systems Inc. said it will take a $27.7 million, or 96 cents a share, charge against earnings in the fourth quarter of 1989 to cover increased workmen's compensation claims.

The company will take the charge because of a recent actuarial study predicting an increase in claims, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing.

Yellow Freight said an accounting change will more than offset the charge, and that it will adopt the Financial Accounting Board's Statement No. 96 Accounting for income taxes, creating a $29.2 million credit to earnings for the year.

The charge, coupled with price discounting and cost pressure, will result in a net loss for the fourth quarter.

But the company said the new accounting method will have a positive impact on reported earnings for 1989.

WASHINGTON (JAN. 5) COMTEX - Top Sound International Inc. filed a Form 8-K with the NASD stating on Dec. 21, 1989, it appointed Arthur Andersen & Co. as its independent accountants, replacing the firm of Deloitte & Touche.

In connection with the audits of the two most recent fiscal years and the subsequent interim period, there were no disagreements with the former accountant on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statement disclosures, or auditing scope or procedure.

The former accountant's report on the financial statements for the past two years contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion and was not qualified or modified as to uncertainty, audit scope or accounting principles. However, the report of Deloitte Haskins & Sells contained an explanatory paragraph in its audit opinion expressed on the Dec. 31, 1988, financial statements. The opinion related to the realization of $1,684,482 in manufacturing and distributing rights.

The explanatory paragraph in the audit opinion indicated that realization of this asset was dependent upon the favorable resolution of a number of future events including, but not limited to, acceptance of the device by a major automobile manufacturer and demonstrating that National Highway Traffic Safety Administration test results can be improved through the use of the safety seat belt. The explanatory paragraph also stated that the ultimate outcome of these future events cannot presently be determined and therefore, no provision for any impairment of such manufacturing and distribution rights has been made in the accompanying financial statements.

TOKYO (JAN. 5) - Japan's domestic sales of new motor vehicles in 1989 hit an all-time high for the third straight year to total 5.56 million, up 11.9 per cent from 1988, the Japan Automobile Dealers Association said Friday.

Imported cars accounted for a record 182,100 vehicles, up 35.2 percent from the preceding year, with their share of the Japanese market rising from 2.7 per cent to 3.3 percent during the same period, it said.

The association attributed the booming sales to strong purchasing power based on an expansion of domestic demand and the introduction of a general consumption tax in April which cancelled out a higher commodity tax on cars.

The 1989 total excluded mini-cars of 550 cc or less.

Sales of passenger cars rose 12.6 percent to a record 4.01 million and those of trucks also set a new record of 1.5 million, up 10.3 percent, although sales of buses slipped 0.1 percent to 23,500.

Toyota Motor Corp. retained top spot with sales of 2.3 million, up 8.9 per cent, but its share of the market slipped 1.2 percent to 41.5.

In second place was Nissan Motor Co., which sold 1.3 million, up 13.7 per cent, increasing its market share 0.3 points to 23.7 percent.

NEW YORK (JAN. 5) - Nippon Life Insurance Co. will invest 200 million dollars in American Express, furthering cooperation between the two financial service giants, it was announced Friday.

Under the accord, Nippon Life, which in May 1987 purchased 13 percent of the Shearson Lehman Hutton subsidiary of American Express, will purchase preferred shares in American Express that can be converted into common stock at 42.50 dollars per share.

American Express spokesman Matthew Stover said Nippon could obtain up to 1.6 percent of American Express under the new agreement and a 1987 warrant allowing the Japanese group to buy two million additional shares at 50 dollars each.

Stover called the investment a "reflection of the close cooperation between the two companies." Nippon Life is the largest Japanese insurance firm.

LAS VEGAS, NEV (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - SelecTronics, Inc. (NASDAQ: SELE), announced today the introduction of a line of handheld electronic translators based on the world-renowned Berlitz(R) Phrase Books and Dictionaries, published by Berlitz (NYSE: BTZ). The products include the Berlitz(R) Interpreter(TM) by SelecTronics and the Berlitz(R) EuroTraveller(TM) by SelecTronics. Working with its merger partner Microlytics, Inc., a developer of linguistic software, SelecTronics has acquired the exclusive license to all Berlitz Phrase Books, Dictionaries and Travel Guides for the development of handheld electronic and ROM-based cartridge devices.

The Berlitz Interpreter by SelecTronics is a five-language translator which includes English, French, German, Spanish and Italian with 12,500 words per language and 300 phrases per language. The Berlitz EuroTraveller by SelecTronics contains 1,100 phrases that can be translated between 10 languages: Danish, Dutch, English, French, German, Italian, Norwegian, Portuguese, Spanish and Swedish. Users can scroll through phrases that are organized by category and/or switch from language to language. Both products, designed for a worldwide market, are customized with each language's distinct words, characters and diacritical marks.

In addition, the Berlitz Interpreter and the Berlitz EuroTraveller each feature a typewriter style ("Qwerty") keyboard, five-function calculator, currency exchange information, a 2-line by 20-character scrolling display, and are just slightly larger than a credit card. Also, these products will be available as ROM-based cartridges for the recently announced Electronic Bible and Random House Electronic Encyclopedia as well as for other manufacturers' notebook and laptop computers.

Published in 10 languages worldwide, a unique attribute of the Berlitz books is their interconnectivity between languages. Where competitors produce only bilingual products, SelecTronics has combined five languages in the Interpreter, representing the equivalent of 20 bilingual dictionaries (English: French, French: Spanish, etc.) all in one low cost, pocket-size device. In the EuroTraveller, the 10 languages represent 90 possible language combinations. "This allows retailers throughout the world to stock only two products, yet market to customers whose primary language is any of the 10 featured," Weiner explained.

In the U.S., the Berlitz Interpreter by SelecTronics will have a suggested list price of $99.95 and the Berlitz EuroTraveller by SelecTronics will have a suggested list price of $149.95. Both products will ship during the first quarter of 1990 and will be distributed worldwide.

Microlytics has an ongoing agreement with Xerox Corporation's Palo Alto Research Center (PARC) and utilizes several proprietary compression technologies in its products which include GOfer(R), a RAM-resident add-on utility for high speed text search and insertion; Word Finder, the most widely-used electronic thesaurus available in nine languages; and Spell Finder, an electronic spelling verifier/corrector in 16 languages.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Veronex Resources Ltd. (NASDAQ: VEOXF) reported record revenues of $2,708,000 for the nine months ended November 30, 1989 compared to $21,000 in revenues for the comparable period in fiscal 1988. The Company narrowed its operating net loss for the period to $581,000 ($0.05 per share) from $16,362,000 ($1.73 per share) a year ago when Veronex reported a $15,052,000 ($1.59 per share) revaluation of assets.

The improvement in the results of operations for the period came directly from the more than 100-fold increase in revenues attributable to increasing oil production. These nine-month results continued the trend of record revenues and cash flow. The Company remains debt free with $7,682,000 in working capital of which $6,559,000 is in cash reserves.

Daily production from the four fields in the Enim Oil Project in Indonesia averaged in excess of 1800 barrels of oil for the month of December, a 20 percent increase over previous levels. The development of an expanded waterflood program on the Enim Oil Project is under construction.

Currently, water is being injected at the rate of 12,000 barrels of water per day. The expanded water injection system will operate at 60,000 barrels of water per day. As water injection rates increase, the Enim's oil production level is expected to rise significantly.

The acquisition is part of a $5.5 million transaction that includes an equity investment of $3.25 million.

The commercial plant protection products developed and marketed by Safer are primarily based on naturally occurring fatty acids. These biodegradable pesticides act on contact to kill certain insects and weeds.

"The agreement demonstrates Mycogen's continued commitment to provide commercial growers with a variety of products that meet their pest control

Under the terms of the agreement, Mycogen purchased the exclusive rights to existing and future Safer products for use in agronomic, horticultural and other commercial markets. The current products control certain harmful insects, weeds, moss and algae.

"Our ability to immediately expand our product base significantly increases Mycogen's presence in the commercial crop protection market and provides a stronger platform for the company's long-term growth," Caulder said.

B.t. is a naturally occurring bacterium that produces toxins that can be used to control insect pests.

Mycogen's Caulder also noted: "The agreement broadens our product portfolio for commercial markets -- our primary business focus. The resulting expanded sales force and commercial development capabilities will accelerate the penetration of our biopesticide products in the marketplace."

NORTH ANDOVER, MA (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Software Services of America, Inc. (NASDAQ: SSOA), announced today that the 1989 annual meeting of stockholders of Software Services of America, Inc., was held on Dec. 20, 1989. At the meeting, the incumbent board of directors consisting of Bertram R. Hickman Jr., Robert J. Landry, Gregory P. Plunkett and A. Bruce Williams was re-elected. In addition, the stockholders ratified the selection of Price Waterhouse as the independent auditors of the company for fiscal 1990.

No action was taken on the proposal to approve the 1988 Non-Qualified Stock Option Plan or the proposal to authorize the company to issue Common Stock, warrants and other securities to directors, officers and other key employees of the company because the number of shares voted on these proposals (including Yes and No votes) did not satisfy the quorum requirement for these proposals. In addition, a small group of stockholders commented on these proposals at the meeting. As a result of such events, the meeting was adjourned until 10 a.m. on Jan. 17, 1990 to permit management to solicit additional votes on these proposals and to consider the suggestions of the small group of stockholders. The place of the meeting was also moved from the Stonehedge Inn in Tyngsboro, Mass. to the offices of Peabody & Brown, 101 Federal Street, Boston, Mass.

After further consideration, management of the company has decided to withdraw the proposals to approve the 1988 Non-Qualified Stock Option Plan and the issuance of Common Stock, warrants and other securities to directors, officers, and other key employees of the company. The company intends to resubmit the two proposals at the 1990 annual meeting of stockholders.

When the 1989 meeting is reconvened on Jan. 17, 1990 at the offices of Peabody & Brown, 101 Federal Street, Boston, Mass., the meeting will be formally adjourned and no other business will be conducted.

The company reported exciting developments at the meeting regarding the expansion of its products and its relationship with IBM. Robert J. Landry vice president of marketing, stated, during his presentation at the meeting, that the company's joint marketing and software development plans with IBM over the next few months will set the stage for SSOA to take a significant leadership position and role in IBM's strategic direction for branch automation in the 1990's. These developments will be further detailed in the company's quarterly report for the period ending Nov. 30, 1989 to be distributed to the company's list of stockholders later this month.

Bertram R. Hickman, Jr., president of the company, commented that the results of operations for the quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989 will likely show a loss, due in part, to the company's significant investment in its relationship with IBM.

At the meeting of the board of directors, following the 1989 annual meeting, Ronald E. Kaplan was elected vice president, chief financial officer of the company.

Software Services is a developer of electronic banking software supporting branch automation and retail funds transfer systems utilizing IBM mainframe computers and financial terminal systems. Software Services is also a remarketer of IBM computer hardware used in conjunction with its software products. The company's securities are traded on both NASDAQ and the Boston Stock Exchange.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Quadra Logic Technologies Inc. Similar PLA's have also been filed with the Health Regulatory Bodies in Finland and Iceland.

Photofrin(R) is used in Photodynamic Therapy (PDT), a new medical technology being developed and commercialized by Quadra Logic Technologies Inc. In PDT, patients are given an injection of Photofrin(R) which is harmless until it is ''switched on'' by a low power laser light channelled down a fibre optic probe. Photofrin(R) preferentially accumulates in tumors and when the drug-saturated tumour is exposed to light, a toxic substance is generated that destroys cancer cells without damaging surrounding healthy tissue.

The 40 volume Product License Applications document a 75 percent overall response rate among lung cancer patients involved in PDT clinical trials between 1983 and 1988. The applications also report that 46 of 47 patients suffering from carcinoma in-situ of the bladder, who were resistant to other forms of therapy, showed a complete response when treated with PDT.

QLT plans similar drug approval filings in the United States and in the European Community in 1990. QLT is conducting one of North America's largest clinical trial programs for cancer with Phase III clinical trials currently taking place at 42 major cancer treatment centers to evaluate the use of Photofrin(R) in lung, esophageal and bladder cancer.

''Photodynamic therapy offers doctors a new tool to combat cancer,'' says QLT president and chief executive officer, Dr. Jim Miller. ''The positive results from treatment of over 3,000 patients suffering from a wide variety of cancers have led many doctors to call PDT the 'Fourth Modality' in the treatment of cancer along with the traditional treatments - surgery radiation therapy and chemotherapy.''

On Jan. 4, 1990, QLT issued 90,000 Common Shares pursuant to over-allotment options granted the underwriters. The company has issued 3,086,658 Common Shares for total net proceeds of $27.7 million from the recently completed public offering, concurrent sale to American Cyanamid and exercise of options.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - IDB Communications Group, Inc.

(NASDAQ: IDBX) today announced it reached an agreement in principle to sell 1,243,533 newly issued shares of its common stock for $11.165 per share to Teleglobe International U.S., Inc., an affiliate of Montreal based Teleglobe Canada Inc. This private placement, representing 20 percent of the common stock of IDB, will net approximately $13 million. Teleglobe Canada and Teleglobe International are subsidiaries of Memotec Data Inc., a Canadian data communications products, systems integration and telecommunications company.

"In addition to the sale of stock, the agreement calls for our companies to enter into a joint business venture to provide selected telecommunications services," said Jeffrey P. Sudikoff, chairman and chief executive officer of IDB. "We are especially pleased to be allied with the Teleglobe Group, a billion dollar telecommunications entity. This will provide us with substantial new opportunities in the worldwide telecommunications marketplace, and will give Teleglobe International increased access to U.S. based customers."

"Two of IDB's strategies are achieved through this alliance," said Sudikoff. "First, IDB's debt will be reduced. Second, the Teleglobe Group's position as a major international telecommunications company will complement our plans for expanded global marketing."

"This is the first step in our 1990 financial plan," said Edward R. Cheramy, IDB president. "The positive impact on our financial structure is significant. While our cash flow adequately meets our obligations, this private placement accelerates our efforts to restructure our highly leveraged balance sheet. IDB's debt to equity ratio will be lowered from the current 5 to 1 to approximately 2.6 to 1. In addition, our shareholders' equity will increase 65 percent to $33 million. Debt will be reduced $13 million and the corresponding interest expense will be eliminated."

Also, the interest expense on the company's remaining senior debt will be reduced because the interest rate is based on IDB's debt/equity ratio," Cheramy further explained. "Therefore, with the improved ratio, the interest cost on the remaining $60 million senior debt will be lowered."

The transaction is expected to close in February and is conditioned on completion of agreements detailing the companies' initial joint business venture and necessary third part and government approvals for the venture.

NORCROSS, GA (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - CytRx(R) Corporation (NASDAQ: CYTR) announced today that the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office has issued U.S. Patent number 4,873,083 for the use of CytRx's RheothRx(R) copolymer in the treatment of tumors. The inventor is Robert L. Hunter, Jr., M.D., Ph.D., professor in the department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, Emory University School of Medicine. Emory owns the patent, while CytRx Corporation has worldwide exclusive rights to make, use, and sell RheothRx(R) copolymer for the treatments of tumors.

A major limitation for the treatment of certain cancers is due to poor blood flow in areas surrounding the tumor restricting the delivery of therapeutic agents. RheothRx, because of its ability to improve microvascular blood flow, may enhance the effect of chemotherapeutic agents by increasing drug distribution to the tumor. RheothRx may also be useful during cancer surgery to decrease vascular metastases by inhibiting the adhesion of blood-borne tumor cells to vessel walls.

According to Jack Luchese, president and CEO, "We believe this new indication for RheothRx has great promise for cancer therapy." He added, "RheothRx may potentially improve the effectiveness of current therapies while limiting their toxic side effects."

RheothRx copolymer has completed Phase I clinical trials evaluating safety in humans, as required by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Phase II clinical trial for testing the effectiveness of the compound in inhibiting cellular adhesion to vessel walls and improving microvascular blood flow will be studied in the crisis of sickle cell disease and are expected to begin in the next two months.

CytRx Corporation is a development-stage pharmaceutical company engaged in the research and development of therapeutics incorporating copolymers. The company's products are intended for use in the treatment of vascular, immune system, and infectious diseases.

CINCINNATI (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - The Kroger Co. (NYSE: KR) told investment analysts today that preliminary results indicate that sales from continuing units in both the 1989 fourth quarter and the full year are expected to be more than 7 percent ahead of the comparable periods in 1988.

Indentical store sales -- a key measure of retailing vitality -- are expected to be more than 7 percent ahead in the fourth quarter over 1988, and more than 5 percent ahead for the full year 1989.

Final fourth quarter and full year operating results will be released in the first week of February, the Company said.

Kroger officials also brought analysts up to date on the Company's recently completed restatement of its credit agreement and the successful completion of a real estate financing package. The two agreements, announced just prior to Christmas, extend Kroger's debt repayment schedule and reduce interest costs to approximately $585 million in 1990 from the $636 million originally projected at the time of the restructuring. The real estate financing replaces a portion of Kroger's bank debt with longer term, lower cost mortgage debt.

Under the terms of the restated credit agreement, Kroger has a $2.050 billion credit facility with its lending institutions, with the major portion consisting of a $1.2 billion term loan. The remainder is an $850 million revolving line of credit.

The mortgage financing was provided by a special purpose company which issued credit-enhanced debt with a maturity of 15 years and an effective interest cost of 10.36 percent. Net proceeds of $580 million from the real estate package have been used to pay down debt under Kroger's initial credit agreement.

The two new financing packages replace a $3.6 billion credit agreement Kroger negotiated with a syndicate of lenders in October, 1988, when it implemented a corporate restructuring and paid a special dividend.

TAYLOR, MI (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Masco Corporation (NYSE: MAS) announced that it will report a decline in 1989 earnings, its first decline in annual earnings in 33 years.

Masco believes that the company will report earnings of approximately $1.50 per share in 1989 as compared with $2.03 per share in 1988. This decline was primarily caused by the economic-related softening in a number of its markets, fourth-quarter reserves and charges related to planned sales and restructuring of certain operations, as well as costs related to substantial investments during the last two years in acquisitions, plant expansions, new product development and long-term profit improvement programs.

Masco believes that these recent investments of over $1 billion enhance the company's strong prospects for record sales and earnings in 1990, and will contribute to significant long-term growth in future years.

Masco Corporation also announced that its board of directors has authorized the purchase of up to 10 million shares of its common stock in open market purchases, privately negotiated transactions or otherwise.

Masco Corporation manufactures building, home improvement, home furnishings and other specialty consumer products for the home and family.

PITTSBURGH (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - The United Steelworkers of America (USW) said it today launched a coordinated campaign in the United States and Canada against Noranda Inc. aimed at forcing the management of Noranda's aluminum smelting plant in New Madrid, Mo., to negotiate a fair contract with USW Local 7686, representing 950 workers at the New Madrid plant.

Local 7686 members went on strike Sept. 1, 1989, after contract negotiations broke down. According to union spokesmen, the members voluntarily returned to work on Dec. 5, after the company hired 600 non-union workers and threatened to replace USW members permanently with the scabs. Noranda unilaterally implemented its final contract offer without USW approval prior to following the union members' return to work, but the USW says Noranda is legally obligated to continue bargaining on the issues still in dispute.

The New Madrid workers are among about 7,600 workers represented by the USW at 23 Noranda facilities in the United States and Canada. Noranda, headquartered in Toronto, is engaged in aluminum and zinc mining and fabricating.

The coordinated campaign is directed by Clement Godbout, director of USW District 5, headquartered in Montreal.

"This campaign will show Noranda that when it abuses USW members in any facility in the United States or Canada, our members in both countries will fight together to achieve justice and fair play," Godbout said. The Montreal director added that he has the full support of E. Gerard Docquier USW national director for Canada, in coordinating union activities against Noranda.

Plans for the campaign were developed at a meeting in Montreal called by USW International President Lynn Williams, who participated with leaders of all USW local unions at Noranda facilities in the United States and Canada.

To open the campaign, the USW local union at each Noranda facility will send a telegram today to the plant manager protesting against the company's actions at New Madrid.

The USW represents 650,000 members in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, with its international headquarters in Pittsburgh and a Canadian National Office in Toronto.

LINDEN, N.J. (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - General Magnaplate Corporation (NASDAQ: GMCC) , the Linden, N.J.-based pioneer in synergistic metallurgical coatings, has finalized the acquisition of Dynasurf International Inc., Ajax, Ontario, Canada.

The acquisition of the hard metal coatings specialist, which was first announced at General Magnaplate's annual meeting Nov. 14th, is part of Magnaplate's continuing strategic plan to grow through acquisition of complementary metallurgical coating businesses.

According to General Magnaplate founder, Chairman and CEO Charles P. Covino, "Acquisition of Dynasurf is going to enable us to service key industrial markets in Canada on a more efficient basis than in the past, both by eliminating the border barrier and by reducing turnaround time on coating projects through expanded local operations."

Key industrial markets that will benefit include: pulp and paper, mining, food processing, oil well drilling and production equipment manufacturing.

The Canadian operation is being renamed General Magnaplate Canada, Ltd. Plans call for operations to be relocated to the outskirts of Toronto in an approximately 35,000 square-foot plant.

General Magnaplate projects sales of $3.5 million for the Canadian subsidiary in two years, and $.75 million in after-tax earnings.

"Dynasurf is already engaged in hard chrome and electroless nickel coating " Covino explains, "which gives us the equipment and some of the steps necessary to transfer our Nedox(R), Plasmadize(TM) and Lectrofluor(R) coating technologies immediately. The planned enlargement of the Canadian facilities will permit us to apply our Tufram(R) coating for aluminum and our complete line of synergistic metallurgical coatings."

General Magnaplate's high-technology synergistic coatings provide corrosion resistance, wear resistance and a dry-lubricated surface to a wide variety of metal parts. Multi-step Magnaplate synergistic coatings are impregnated into metal substrates and cannot chip, peel or be rubbed off. The Nedox processes are nickel-based impregnated coatings for ferrous metals and alloys. Lectrofluor copolymer coatings are applied to ferrous and non-ferrous metals where extremely hostile environments are encountered or where superior mold release is desired. The Plasmadize composite coating technology applies engineered layers of ceramic particles to most metals and infuses them with selected polymers to enhance the structural integrity of the base metal and add permanent lubricity.

All eleven of General Magnaplate's synergistic metal coatings offer industry new materials options by permitting the use of lower cost metals and alloys to meet high-performance specifications that previously required the use of scarce strategic metals.

"We're providing industry with a high-tech alternative," Covino says. "This kind of pioneering work in the materials industry is growing more vital every day, as the Eastern Bloc nations turn away from communism in favor of a new 'global materialism.' The earth's dwindling supply of mineral resources is going to be depleted at an ever-increasing rate. In light of these developments, I think it is obvious that the materials enhancement industry will grow more rapidly in the '90s."

General Magnaplate's role in replacing strategic metals is one of the chief reasons for the company's ongoing success. In 1988, Fortune rated the company as its 5th best-performing stock in terms of total return. Net income in fiscal 1989 reached a record 46 cents per share, up 26 percent over 1988. For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1989, the company reported net income of $316,470, 11 cents per share on revenues of $2.46 million.

The company's active acquisition program is continuing into 1990. "We have finalized our previously announced acquisition of Ra-Tech Inc., Racine, Wis. Also under consideration are a number of acquisition candidates overseas," according to Covino.

PHILADELPHIA (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Philadelphia Electric Co. (NYSE: PE) said today that all four of its nuclear generating units were operating at 100 percent power for the first time in the company's history.

PE said that Unit No. 3 at its Peach Bottom Atomic Power Station in York County, Pa., reached full power at 11:30 a.m. today.

In so doing it joined Peach Bottom Unit 2 and Units 1 and 2 at the Limerick Generating Station in Montgomery County, Pa., at 100 percent power.

The four units together were generating more than 4,200 megawatts (mw) of electricity for the regional power pool. PE's share is approximately 3,000 mw.

Joseph F. Paquette Jr., PE chairman and chief executive officer, said the full utilization of the company's nuclear capacity essentially eliminates oil from the company's generating mix, except for backup generation, at a time when oil prices have doubled in less than two months.

The price PE pays for oil on the spot market rose from $16 a barrel in late November to $33 a barrel in early January.

With the company's present generating capacity, Paquette said, PE customer demand can be met without oil, unless a nuclear, coal or hydro generating unit must be taken out of service.

Paquette said PE's present generating mix, which is approximately two-thirds nuclear, "will mean significant fuel savings for PE and for our customers."

Paquette said he was pleased that the achievement of full power at Peach Bottom Unit 3 completes the company's ambitious nuclear agenda of starting or restarting PE's four nuclear units in 1989 and reaching full power on all of them by early 1990.

None of the four units was in operation after Limerick Unit 1 was taken out of service in mid-January 1989, for an extensive refueling and maintenance outage.

Peach Bottom Unit 3, which was shut down by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) on March 31, 1987, was restarted on Nov. 20, 1989, and was taken through an extensive restart power testing program in which it gradually increased power before reaching 100 percent today.

Peach Bottom Unit 2 restarted on April 26, 1989, and, except for brief shutdowns in October and December, has been operating at virtually full power since Aug. 4, 1989.

Peach Bottom Unit 1 was a small, experimental unit which was decommissioned in 1974 when Units 2 and 3 were placed in service.

Limerick Unit 1 returned to service on May 19, 1989, after a four month outage in which two-thirds of its fuel was replaced and major systems common to both Unit 1 and Unit 2 were joined.

Limerick Unit 2 was started for the first time on Aug. 11, 1989. It began producing external electric power on Sept. 1, reached full power late in November, and is currently undergoing a warranty run at full power before being placed in full commercial operation.

HOUSTON (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Consumers should not experience any shortages of Minute Maid orange juice nor dramatic price increases as a result of the recent freeze in Florida, reports Coca-Cola Foods.

Coca-Cola Foods produces and markets Minute Maid chilled and frozen concentrated orange juice, the number one brand of orange juice in the United States.

"Since the freezing weather hit Florida Dec. 24 and damaged the citrus and vegetable crops, we have heard from many consumers who are concerned about the supply of Minute Maid orange juice," said Pierre Ferrari, senior vice president, consumer marketing for Coca-Cola Foods. "And while the damage is indeed serious, we want to assure consumers that there is no danger of a Minute Maid orange juice shortage. In addition, we are very optimistic that prices will not escalate a great deal above the 1989 highs at retail."

The latest industry estimates indicates that 1990 Florida orange production could be 20-30 percent lower than originally forecast as a result of the freeze. In spite of that loss, Ferrari said that the combination of the smaller Florida crop and the current record harvest in Brazil should provide an adequate supply of high quality Minute Maid orange juice for consumers. Ferrari said the company reached its conclusions after a thorough analysis of the Florida situation and a review of the Brazilian harvest, which will be completed in January. "As the only national orange juice marketer that owns and operates its own groves in Florida, we are in the position to know firsthand the status of the Florida orange crop," Ferrari said. "We are doing everything we can to process fruit from the growers who supply us, as well as from our own company groves in order to save as much of the crop as possible."

The December U.S.D.A. report estimated that the current Brazilian crop will be 33 percent higher than last year. Therefore, even if a worst case situation in Florida produced a 30 percent reduction in the state's crop, the total available supply of oranges should be slightly larger than last year.

Like all other major orange juice processors, Coca-Cola Foods uses juice from both Florida and Brazil in its products, although the company does not own or operate groves in Brazil. "The simple fact is that for the past several years, Florida has not produced enough orange juice to satisfy demand in this country. Given the very large Brazilian crop and the enormous processing effort underway on Florida fruit, we are confident that there will be plenty of Minute Maid orange juice to go around," he said.

SAN DIEGO (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Imperial Savings announced today it has received direction from the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) to refrain from certain business activities until further notice. Most significantly Imperial will be required to discontinue all lending and investment operations. Imperial assumes the OTS does not want Imperial to transact any new business until the regulatory body has made a decision regarding the viability of Imperial's proposed plan for rebuilding its capital base.

Imperial announced last October, and again in December, that it would not meet the new capital standards for thrifts established by Congress. Institutions which do not meet these standards are required to submit a plan for rebuilding capital and eventually reaching the new targets. Imperial submitted its proposed plan yesterday, Jan. 4.

Since July of last year, Imperial has sold about $2 billion in assets, including the sale of its credit card portfolio, to reduce its size from over $12 billion to under $10 billion in assets, and thus its capital needs. The firm has also closed nine business operations.

"We have submitted what we feel is a very reasonable and implementable plan for rebuilding Imperial's capital over the next five years to meet new capital requirements," stated Lyman C. Hamilton Jr., interim chief executive officer of Imperial. "Although this action comes as an unwelcome surprise, we have taken steps to implement the directive immediately and we remain hopeful that the OTS will accept our proposed capital plan and allow us to reactivate our lending operations very soon. This most recent directive allows Imperial to continue to conduct branch operations, accepting deposits and offering fee-based services."

The OTS directive does permit Imperial to fund legally binding commitments and loans-in-process existing on or before Jan. 4, 1990. Activities discontinued include the funding of mortgage loans and securities, nonmortgage loans and leases, U.S. government and agency securities, mortgage derivative products, interest rate swaps and caps, and financial futures and options. In addition, the institution must not accept any uninsured deposits, must refrain from declaring or paying and dividend for any class of stock, and must not conduct any transactions with affiliates without the prior written approval of the OTS.

Other than the funds needed to meet essential cash requirements, all receipts and cash flows must be used to reduce the association's liabilities, other than insured deposits.

ATLANTA (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Georgia-Pacific Corp. (NYSE: GP) said today that it is disappointed by the Maine Attorney General's filing of an antitrust suit regarding the company's acquisition of Great Northern Nekoosa Corp. (NYSE: GNN).

"Georgia-Pacific has said repeatedly that our plan is to productively manage the properties we will acquire in Maine. We have said repeatedly that we do not wish to sell those assets.

JACKSONVILLE, FL (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - CSX Transportation Inc. (CSXT), which has already announced plans to begin random drug testing of its employees covered by the Hours of Service Act, today said it will begin a similar program for managers who supervise personnel in those safety related positions.

"The safe operation of the railroad is of paramount concern to CSXT," said John W. Snow, president and chief executive officer of CSXT's parent company, CSX Corporation (NYSE: CSX).

"CSXT has long been recognized as a leader in American industry in developing and establishing programs which are aimed at the identification treatment and prevention of substance abuse problems among its work force " he added.

In a partnership with rail labor, CSXT started one of the first employee assistance programs in the industry aimed at treatment of drug and alcohol abuse.

In mid-January, CSXT will initiate a federally mandated random testing program for many of its union employees. However, Snow said the company does not believe that safety-sensitive positions are limited to just this group of rank and file workers.

"This safety-sensitive chain of command begins with the president of the railroad," Snow said, "and extends through every level of management that controls the activities of employees performing train service, maintaining signals, repairing freight cars or locomotives, working on our track system, or inspecting any part of the rail operation."

CSXT's testing program for managers and supervisors, while not required by federal regulation, will extend systemwide and include nearly 1,800 employees.

The selection process will be made on a random basis by CSX Technology's computers using payroll positions; no selection will be made using names. Frequency of testing will be similar to the federal requirements for union employees: 25 percent of supervisory personnel the first year and 50 percent each year thereafter.

If a supervisor's test results are verified as positive by CSXT's chief medical officer, the employee will be medically disqualified from service until approved for return to service by the employee assistance counselor and the chief medical officer.

After being returned to service, the employee may be required to continue participating in an after-care program and submit to short-notice drug screening by the medical department for a period of three years.

CSX Transportation, Inc. provides customers with rail and distribution services along a 19,300 route-mile system serving 19 states, the District of Columbia and Ontario, Canada.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - On Jan. 5, 1990, United States District Court Judge Edward Rafeedie refused to grant a Temporary Restraining Order requested by Wells Fargo Bank, which would have removed the liens placed upon its real property holdings on Dec. 27, 1989, by Ted G. Hays, an Orange County developer.

Hays is attempting to collect a judgment for more than $700,000 awarded him Sept. 14, 1989, after a Los Angeles Superior Court jury found that Wells Fargo had paid $440,000 of the proceeds of a refinance loan to the wrong people. At the time the loan closed, Hays was hospitalized and being treated for cancer.

Hays is represented by West Los Angeles real estate attorney Robert C. Aronoff who argued that when the Los Angeles Superior Court had denied Wells Fargo's Motion to Stay the Imposition of Liens, Wells Fargo had lost its right to go to Federal Court. "This is the second loss in a row for Wells Fargo on this issue, and just another of many in this case," said Aronoff.

Aronoff and his associate, C. Brent Parker, also argued that Wells Fargo had delayed too long in seeking Federal Court relief. Aronoff said, "Wells Fargo is hoping to drag this our until Hays expires. In 1984, when Hays' ex-partners took the improperly paid loan proceeds, they too hoped Hays would expire and they would avoid the consequences. Judgment for more than $1-1/2 million has been awarded against their corporation as a result of these acts. They made a mistake then; and Wells Fargo is making a mistake now."

CINCINNATI (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Higher earnings before a change in accounting and lower sales were reported by Frisch's Restaurants, Inc. (AMEX: FRS) for the twenty-eight weeks ended December 10, 1989.

Craig F. Maier, president, reported that total revenue declined 3 percent to $78,654,096 compared to $81,254,913 last year. Net earnings before a change in accounting rose 13 percent to $1,623,986, or $.30 per share, from $1,431,004, or $.26 per share. Last year's net earnings were $2,382,068, or $.44 per share after restatement for FASB 96 "Accounting for Income Taxes."

For the twelve week second quarter total revenue declined 3 percent to $33,502,652 compared with $34,707,586 last year. Net earnings declined 17 percent to $758,469, or $.14 a share, compared to $914,825, or $.17 a share, for the second quarter of fiscal 1989.

Maier noted that the sales decline was the result of closing eighteen restaurants during the last twelve months and a moderate decline in same store sales. Twelve new restaurants opened or acquired during the last twelve months partially offset the sales decline. Total revenue was negatively impacted also by lower sales to and fees from franchised restaurants. Net earnings for the first half continue to run ahead of the previous year because the losses of the eighteen closed restaurants no longer affect operating results. The company has experienced higher wages benefit and insurance costs throughout the first half of its fiscal year.

During the second quarter, the company opened one new Big Boy restaurant and acquired another from a franchisee. At the close of the quarter Frisch's operated 101 Big Boy Restaurants, 12 Roy Rogers Restaurants, three Prime 'n Wine Restaurants and two Quality Hotels.

LAKELAND, FL. (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - The following letter was released today by Sikes Corporation (AMEX: SK.A):

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF SIKES CORPORATION:

The demand for the company's floor tile products weakened during the third quarter, while the company experienced aberrational operating costs and expenses. Consequently, sales increased only slightly and net income declined for both the three and nine-month periods ended Nov. 30, 1989, compared to the same periods last fiscal year.

Sales for the third quarter were $34,626,000, compared with $34,510,000 for the same quarter last fiscal year. For the comparative nine-month periods, sales for this fiscal year were up 5.3 percent to $105,923,000, versus $100,622,000 last fiscal year. Sales for the third quarter were adversely affected by the continuing decline in housing starts and stiff price competition from foreign imports.

Despite the marginal increase in sales, net income decreased for both the three and nine-month periods ended Nov. 30, 1989, as compared to the same periods last year. Net income for the current quarter was $1,958,000, or $.22 primary and $.19 fully diluted per share, compared to $2,678,000 or $.30 primary and $.26 fully diluted per share, for the third quarter last fiscal year, a decrease of 26.9 percent. #90005p0317 01/05/1990 ~PR Newswire

NEW YORK, (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - This morning, Temple Holdings Ltd. sent the following letter to Sea Containers Ltd. in which it requests a single meeting on Feb. 24, 1990 at which time matters relating to the purported recapitalization and the election of directors would be considered.

Gentlemen:

We note your press release of Jan. 3, 1990, in which you announce that you have set Saturday, Feb. 24, 1990, for a special general meeting of shareholders to vote on your purported recapitalization plan announced on Oct. 31, 1989. In light of your continued failure to convene a 1989 annual general meeting of shareholders as required by law we believe that your proposed special general meeting is improper. Moreover, your proposed special general meeting is yet another attempt to confuse your shareholders and coerce them into approving your inferior alternative without allowing shareholders an opportunity to accept Temple's fully financed all cash $70 per share offer.

The press release does not indicate when the long promised annual general meeting of Sea Containers will be held; in fact it does not mention the annual general meeting at all. The current board of directors, which has not faced election by shareholders since July 1988, has thus avoided setting any date for such election and has only arranged to put to shareholders the board's own recapitalization proposal.

You have a statutory duty to convene an annual general meeting in each calendar year pursuant to Section 71 of the Bermuda Companies Act 1981. You are also required to hold an annual general meeting under your bye-laws and the New York Stock Exchange rules. Moreover, having defaulted on your obligation to convene an annual general meeting in 1989, you have a further duty under Section 72(1) of the 1981 Act to use your "best endeavors" (which means just that, and not any lesser effort) to call or hold the annual general meeting at the "earliest practicable date." Clearly, if Feb. 24, 1990, is a practicable date for a special general meeting, it is equally practicable for your much delayed annual general meeting.

As you know, on Dec. 21, 1989, Temple and other shareholders holding in the aggregate over 10 percent of Sea Containers' outstanding common shares frustrated by your failure to call an annual general meeting, requisitioned a special general meeting of shareholders to consider Temple's proposals to remove the existing Sea Containers directors and to elect a slate of directors committed to consummating Temple's offer. You have not set a date for such meeting but have stated that the date is likely to be in early March, following your proposed special general meeting.

We believe that your course of conduct as described in this letter is improper and violates Bermuda law. We regard your current decision to hold a special general meeting to vote only on your purported recapitalization plan as a further and deliberate device designed to confuse your shareholders and coerce them into approving your purported recapitalization without allowing shareholders an opportunity to choose between your plan and Temple's fully financed all cash $70 per share offer and to avoid an election of directors with a view to retaining your own positions.

Sea Containers' shareholders should be provided with the opportunity, at one meeting, to consider and choose between the two alternatives available to them: your recapitalization, which purportedly will include a $70 cash tender offer for 50 percent of Sea Containers' outstanding common shares; and election of Temple's slate of directors, which will be committed to consummating Temple's $70 cash tender offer for 100 percent of Sea Containers' outstanding shares. We are confident that Sea Containers' public shareholders will prefer Temple's offer is they are provided with a fair opportunity to make a choice. Accordingly, we urge you to take the logical and straightforward course of holding a single meeting on the date proposed for your February meeting at which time matters relating to the purported recapitalization and the election of directors would be considered.

We request that you respond to our request by 2 p.m., London time, on Monday, Jan. 8, 1990, so that we can promptly take any further action that we deem appropriate in order to ensure that you comply with your legal and fiduciary obligations.

Finally, we should make clear that any action that we do take will be without prejudice to the appellants' conventions in the forthcoming Bermuda appeals as to whether subsidiaries should be entitled to vote at general meetings of Sea Containers.

Very Truly Yours,
Temple Holdings Ltd.

CHICAGO (JAN. 5) PR NEWSWIRE - Gaylord Container Corp. (AMEX: GCR) announced today that production disruptions at its two largest paper mills will adversely affect earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1990 ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Gaylord's Bogalusa, La. mill had its production severely curtailed or halted for a five-day period in late December by sub-freezing temperatures.

The mill also incurred approximately one week of scheduled downtime in October to integrate a new recovery boiler into the mill's energy systems.

In addition, the largest linerboard machine at Gaylord's Antioch, Calif. mill is scheduled to be rebuilt during an approximate three-week period in the second quarter of fiscal 1990. Pre-shutdown construction, in preparation for the rebuild, has resulted in significant production disruption at the mill.

The company expects to report final results for the first quarter of fiscal 1990 during the week of Jan. 22. Preliminary estimates, however, indicated earnings will be in the range of 10 cents to 15 cents per share compared with 57 cents per share (excluding a 21 cents per share gain from a property sale) for the first quarter of fiscal 1989.

SEATTLE (JAN. 6) PR NEWSWIRE - Airworthiness testing for the forthcoming fleet of seven British Royal Air Force AWACS aircraft began today at Boeing Field, Boeing Aerospace & Electronics announced. Piloted by a Boeing crew, the first RAF Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) flew for 2-1/2 hours to begin a three-month program to test its flight characteristics and handling capability.

The aircraft, called the E-3D Sentry by the RAF, differs from this existing AWACS fleet by carrying wing pods that will contain electronic support measures, and a refueling probe to augment the standard inflight refueling receptacle.

In addition to normal flight testing, the airworthiness program will include air-to-air refueling missions with both an RAF Tristar aerial tanker for probe-and-drogue refueling, and a French Air Force C-135 aircraft using the boom-and-receptacle refueling method. France has ordered four AWACS, and the current test program will cover the common airworthiness elements of both the British and French fleets.

Airworthiness testing will be followed by installation and checkout of the equipment which will make the E-3D Sentry an airborne "eye in the sky," able to conduct surveillance and command-and-control missions. In service, the aircraft will carry advanced radars, computers, monitors, data-processing equipment and communications gear.

This mission equipment will be flight tested beginning late this summer, first at Seattle, and in the United Kingdom next fall. Meanwhile, fabrication of the first French AWACS has begun, with the aircraft scheduled to enter final assembly this spring. Deliveries to both nations will begin next year.

ATLANTA (JAN. 5) UPI - Delta Air Lines, despite considering a vague threat a hoax, intensified security on its transatlantic flights Thursday and notified passengers at overseas gates of the threat.

''We really do believe it's a hoax, but we can't treat it that way,'' said Delta spokesman Neil Monroe.

The threat reportedly was received this week at Delta's Dublin, Ireland, office. Airline officials refused to disclose any details of the threat or what special measures it was taking.

Richard Stafford, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said the agency was aware of the situation but he also refused to give any details.

Delta said the threat did not name a specific flight, city or date, but the airline increased security measures for its 53 transatlantic flights each week.

Monroe said gate agents began notifying passengers as they checked in at international gates at Hartsfield International Airport Thursday. He said the passengers were allowed to change to other airlines without penalty, even if they held non-refundable tickets.

Monroe said only two of the approximately 500 passengers notified before the first two transatlantic flights from Atlanta changed their plans.

Last month, Northwest Airlines received a highly publicized bomb threat against a flight from Paris to Detroit. After hearing of the threat, more than three-quarters of the passengers canceled their reservations on the flight, which took off and landed without incident.

''There's been so much attention on the Northwest situation, it generates additional activity,'' said Monroe.

Northwest said 130 people had been booked aboard Flight 51 from Paris to Detroit, but more than 100 apparently canceled or changed their reservations when the bomb threat was made public two days before the Dec. 30 flight.

Northwest confirmed the threat after it was first reported in a Swedish newspaper, which said an anonymous caller with an ''Iranian'' accent had threatened to bomb the Northwest flight in retaliation for the sentencing of two convicted terrorists in Stockholm.

Security was extraordinarily tight around Charles de Gaulle Airport before the jet departed, with police toting submachine guns in front of the Northwest check-in counter. Travelers underwent rigorous baggage and body checks.

TOKYO (JAN. 5) UPI - Japan's domestic sales of four-wheel vehicles in 1989 climbed above five million units for the first time in history, recording the third consecutive year-on-year rise, the Japan Automobile Dealers Association reported Friday.

The association said sales totaled 5,561,594 units, up 11.9 percent over the preceding year. Imported cars accounted for 182,168 units, up 35.2 percent over a year ago, he association said.

It said the 1989 sales included 4,011,265 passenger cars, up 12.6 percent, 1,526,799 trucks, up 10.3 percent, and 23,530 buses, down 0.1 percent. Sales of cars with engine displacement of 2,000 cc or more jumped 66.5 percent to 276,538 units, the association said. Sales in December hit a monthly high of 472,539 units, up 17.0 percent over a year ago, the association said.

Association officials attributed the sales growth mainly to robust personal spending amid sustained economic expansion and a decline in the acquisition tax with the introduction of the uniform 6.0 percent sales tax in April.

Sales by Japan's top automaker Toyota Motor Corp. increased 8.9 percent to 2,308,779 units for a 41.5 percent market share, down 1.2 points from a year ago.

Nissan's share increased 0.4 points to 23.7 percent with sales totaling 1,319,049 units, up 13.7 percent. Sales by Mazda Motor Corp. increased 21.4 percent to 452,809 units while those by Mitsubishi Motors Corp. gained 8.9 percent to 381,470 units.

DETROIT (JAN. 5) UPI - The Honda Accord was the nation's top selling car for 1989, grabbing the No. 1 spot for the first time ever and surpassing sales of the No. 2 Ford Taurus by more than 14,600 units, industry figures showed Friday.

However, the best selling vehicle - which includes trucks as well as cars - was still Ford Motor Co.'s F-series pickup truck, with 566,387 units sold in the United States last year. The Chevrolet C-K pickup truck, made by General Motors Corp., followed with 522,404 copies sold last year. Ford has held the top spot on overall vehicle sales for eight years in a row, a company spokesman said.

In the car end of the market, the Accord's U.S. sales during 1989 totaled 362,707 units, with 60 percent of those models built at Honda's U.S. plant in Ohio. The Accord outsold Ford's mid-sized Taurus, which posted sales of 348,061 units. Ford's Escort subcompact, the nation's best selling car for both 1987 and 1988, dropped to third place, with 333,535 units sold.

However, in November Ford closed its Wayne, Mich., assembly plant - the main source of Escort production - to change over to an all new model due this spring.

Chevrolet's mid-sized Corsica sedan and Beretta coupe, which GM considers to be a single car line, was the fourth best selling car for 1989, with a total 326,006 units sold. Chevrolet's smaller Cavalier rounded out the list of the five best selling cars, with 295,715 cars sold during 1989.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, (JAN. 5) UPI - American investors in Bond Brewing will be asked to grant the bankrupt company a one-month extension on a $32-million interest payment, a Bond Corp. executive said Friday.

Senior Executive Peter Lucas, in a radio interview broadcast in Sydney, said Bond Corp. would ask U.S. bond holders to withdraw their demand for immmediate repayment of a $510 million loan, made after the company failed to meet the interest payments on the loan which were due on January 1.

Lucas said Bond Brewing had the funds but could not make the interest payments because an Australian court appointed an official receiver last Friday at the request of the National Australia Bank and other unsecured bank creditors to oversees the company's financial situation.

"We will be asking U.S. creditors to withdraw their demand and request a one-month's extension on the interest payment," Lucas said. "What we propose to put to them is that they ought to grant a waiver of their default notice until January 31st with a view to seeing that within that period of time the (court) proceedings in Melbourne are disposed of, hopefully positively from our point of view," he said.

In Los Angeles, Wetherby Investments, Inc. and California Pacific International PTE Ltd. said they were interested in acquiring the bankrupt corporation.

Bond is still contesting the appointment of receivers for its brewery operations in the Melbourne Supreme Court. It is also opposing an application in the Western Australian Supreme court by the Western Australian State Government Insurance Commission for the appointment of a provisional liquidator to the Bond parent company, Bond Corp.

Trading in Bond Corp. and its units, Bond Brewing and Bell Resources, was suspended on the Australian stock exchanges. But the uncertainty over the highly leveraged Bond empire was lessened by the first positive indication that interest rates would go down.

The National Bank was the first to announce Friday that from January 8 its prime lending rate would drop one quarter of a point, to 20.25 percent.

TORONTO (JAN. 5) UPI - Campeau Corp.'s interest in five shopping malls in Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Washington state are a key element in restructuring the debt-ridden company, reports indicated Friday.

Campeau is said to be negotiating the sale of its 50 percent interest in the malls which are part of the assets of New York-based Allied Stores Corp. that Campeau acquired in 1986 for $3.5 billion.

The properties include Northshore Mall in Peabody, Mass., Bergen Mall in Paramus, N.J., and in Washington state, Columbia Shopping Center in Kennewick, Tacoma Mall in Tacoma and Northgate Mall in Seattle.

A spokesman for Youngstown, Ohio-based mall developer Edward J. Debartolo Corp., which owns the other 50 percent in the malls, declined to comment on reports it is looking for another partner. The Financial Post said Debartolo is anxious to replace Campeau as a partner and will negotiate to acquire full ownership in one or more of the properties.

An unnamed Wall Street source said a deal could involve cash or concessions on a loan Debartolo made to help Campeau finance its $6.6 billion purchase of Federated Department Stores Inc. in 1988.

Debartolo's loan of $480 million is due in May, 1991 and reportedly is backed by Campeau's ownership of Ralph's Grocery Co. of Los Angeles. As part of the deal, Debartolo acquired 7.5 percent of Federated's stock.

In 1988, Campeau and Debartolo formed a partnership to acquire and develop malls throughout the United States with Campeau's retail stores anchoring the developments.

Allied and Federated operate Bloomingdale's, Burdines, Jordan Marsh, Abraham & Straus, Maas Brothers, Bon Marche, Rich's, Goldsmith's, Lazarus, and Stern's.

Campeau announced a major restructuring in September to reduce the company's debt and ease liquidity problems at its retails units. But analysts said continued inaction on the repurchase of 75 percent of Allied and Federated's debt securities apd the sale of the 17-store Bloomingdale's chain - the restructuring's key elements - has raised the possiblity of a chapter 11 bankruptcy protection filing.

On Thursday, the National Bank of Canada took possession of 35 percent of the voting rights in Campeau after loans to companies owned by Chairman Robert Campeau were defaulted. Allied and Federated have until Jan. 15 to prove to Citibank NA they are solvent and not in default on $2.34 billion in loans.

A chapter 11 filing allows Campeau to request debtor in possession financing to finance continuing operations, specifically guaranteeing payments to retail suppliers.

Analysts said it is imperative that Campeau's financial situation is clarified soon as spring merchandise shipments are scheduled to begin in mid to late January.

LONDON (JAN. 5) UPI - Two British oil companies raised gasoline retail prices Friday after severe cold weather in the United States tightened the international petroleum market.

They warned of additional increases if international prices stay at current high levels.

Esso UK, the British arm of U.S. oil giant Exxon Corp., increased gasoline retail prices by 9 cents an imperial gallon, which is one-fifth larger than a U.S. gallon.

An imperial gallon of premium gasoline now costs $3.08.

British Petroleum announced a 5.2 cents-a-gallon increase effective Monday taking its price to $2.99 a gallon.

The companies also raised automotive diesel prices by 4.3 cents a gallon.

Both companies said steady price increases in international cargo prices for refined oil products since December had forced the retail gasoline increases.

A BP spokesman said the newly announced price increases only reflected wholesale rises at the end of December.

''If we added this week's international increases in, it could mean another 7 cents a gallon on top of the 5.2 cents,'' he said.

An Esso spokesman said heating oil prices in particular had risen steeply, consequently raising the prices of other refined products.

Esso said in a statement, ''Recent cold weather in the United States along with some supply difficulties in both Europe and the United States'' were responsible for higher prices.

For much of December, the low water level of the Rhine River either prevented or hampered barge deliveries to inland Europe.

Temperatures plunged in the United States in December, especially in the Northeast and normally-warm U.S. Gulf Coast where some of the nation's largest refineries were knocked out because their cooling and control systems were unprotected from the unusual sub-freezing temperatures.

As a consequence, U.S. refinery production declined 11 percent last week and heating oil deliveries to the Northeast fell substantially.

Major British oil companies have been the focus of close scrutiny from Britain's Monopolies and Mergers Commission for several months.

Friday's price increases came shortly after the commission completed its report - not yet released - on whether the companies had colluded on their retail prices.

In particular, the commission investigated whether companies consulted each other when raising gasoline prices, and whether mutual ''swap'' arrangements to sell each others' products violated monopoly prohibitions.

The Esso spokesman said he thought the new price increase would have no effect on the MMC's conclusions.

''We feel very confident that the MMC accepts that the allegation that we collude is without foundation,'' he said. ''We work in an industry where costs coincide to a great extent.''

WASHINGTON (JAN. 5) UPI - Charles Keating denied Friday allegations that Lincoln Savings and Loan was involved in sham transactions and said he ran into "headlong opposition and antagonism" from federal thrift regulators.

Keating's testimony came during the sixth day of a hearing on government motions to dismiss a lawsuit Keating filed in May seeking to regain control of the Irvine, Calif., thrift, which was seized by regulators last April. The rescue of the thrift is expected to cost taxpayers as much as $2.5 billion, making it the nation's most costly thrift bailout.

The government said Lincoln was not being operated in compliance with federal regulations and found the thrift unsafe and unsound, even though Keating said he hired accountants and lawyers to make sure the activities of his American Continental Corp. and Lincoln were in compliance with federal regulations.

Keating discounted many findings thrift examiners made in a report that led the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to order Lincoln placed into conservatorship. The executive told the court Lincoln was harassed by federal regulators and subjected to the longest examination in history.

"Their requests were horrendous and not in keeping with a normal audit," Keating said. "The sledding became very difficult." Thrift regulators hounded Lincoln, Keating said, because of his opposition to a 1985 rule limiting the direct investments that could be made by thrifts. "I ran into headlong opposition and antagonism from regulators," he said.

The executive also denied government contention's that a tax-sharing agreement between Lincoln and the now-bankrupt American Continental was designed to siphon more than $94 million from the thrift. "With all my heart and soul I categorically deny that. I had no concept remotely related to that," Keating said.

The government has based its case largely on four transactions including the tax plan, a $11.3 million profit on a stock sale and two real estate involving property in the Arizona desert that thrift examiners contend were set up soley to dissipate assets from Lincoln to American Continental.

"If they didn't like land syndications they should have approved a regulation telling us not to get involved in syndications and we would have complied," Keating said.

"The guy doing the audit didn't like land syndications. If he didn't like it he had a perfect right to tell us not to do it. He had no right not to understand it," Keating said.

The government contends that a subsidiary of Lincoln sold 1,000 acres it acquired for $3 million to WestContinental Mortgage Co. for $14 million. Regulators contend the mortgage company was a "straw-buyer" for Tucson, Ariz., real estate developer E.C. Garcia, who had received a loan from a Lincoln subsidiary to purchase the property.

In previous testimony, a WestContinental executive said he became involved in the deal as a favor to Garcia. The government contends the land transactions resulted in the taking of more than $16 million from Lincoln.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Sporkin, who is conducting the hearings, questioned Keating at length about the lack of paperwork to back up the land transactions, which he said appeared to have been sealed verbally.

"Mr. Keating," Sporkin asked, "Isn't there something wrong with a system that depends on everything oral in a million-dollar transaction? Why have all these accountants and lawyers if they aren't picking up these papers?"

Keating told the judge the two real estate deals in question were, to his knowledge, syndications handled by Garcia. He said he did not know how the final deals were structured. Garcia, who government lawyers had said was a key witness to bolster their case, has refused to testify at the hearing.

WICHITA, KS (JAN. 5) UPI - Air Force and Boeing Co. officials said President Bush should get one of his new modified 747s by the end of the year. The two sides announced Thursday they have agreed to a Sept. 30 delivery date for the first of two new Air Force One planes that Boeing is modifying.

That is nearly two years past the original delivery date. Technical problems and a 48-day strike by machinists late last year are blamed for delays at the Wichita Boeing plant.

The planes are specially modified for the president, his entourage and the press, and are loaded with high-tech communications equipment that will be protected by special shields in the event of thermonuclear attack.

They will have 85 telephones each, more than a dozen television sets, and a private presidential suite. The planes will have about three times the interior space and will be able to fly about 1,200 nautical miles farther than the current Air Force Ones, which are Boeing 707s.

The Air Force estimates Boeing is taking a $385 million loss on the contract to build the planes. Boeing built the planes on a fixed-price contract, which means the government will pay $275 million. The planes are expected to cost about $660 million.

But Boeing is getting invaluable publicity by selling its planes to the White House. "We admit that we had some problems with it and we're sorry it's going to be so late," said Pete Dakin, a spokesman for Boeing Military Airplanes. "But we'll be proud to have the president fly on it. It was worth the money."

The Air Force said the first plane will replace a Boeing 707 built in 1972. The second plane, scheduled for delivery in June 1991, will replace the 28-year-old 707 aboard which Lyndon Johnson took the oath of office following the assassination of President John Kennedy.

LOS ANGELES (JAN. 5) UPI - Lexus, the first Japanese entry into the American luxury automobile market, announced Friday it has cut its 1990 sales projection by 10,000 of its cars due to an overly optimistic forecast of the market.

The announcement by the automaker, which had projected last year selling 70,000 of its cars in 1990, was made at a news conference at the Greater Los Angeles Auto Show, which opens to the public Saturday for a nine-day run.

"Lexus will be among the winners in a fiercely competitive luxury market but that market will be smaller than we originally thought," said J. Davis Illingworth, vice president of Lexus, the luxury division of Toyota Motor Corp.

Illingworth said Lexus plans to sell about 40,000 of its flagship LS400 - the original sales target - but it has cut the forecast of ES250 sales to 20,000 from 30,000.

As a result, Illingworth said, Lexus will make a "slight" change in its "relentless pursuit of perfection" marketing campaign to increase consumer awareness of the ES250.

But the basic approach will remain unchanged, Illingworth said. "The No. 1 function of the ad campaign will be to present an upscale, prestige image " he said.

"We still think maturing baby boomers will drive the luxury market in the coming decade," Illingworth said. "Our long-term view is that the luxury market has the potential to be one of the brightest segments of the decade."

Illingworth also said Lexus, which began selling the cars in September, will introduce a third car - a two-door coupe - next year but declined to give further details.

Toyota and rival Nissan Motor Co., which began selling its new Infiniti line in November, have taken the gamble of plunging into luxury cars, the only section of the car market in which Japanese companies had no significant presence. Infiniti and Lexus are challenging BMW, Mercedes Benz, Cadillac and Lincoln.

Thus far, the sales figures for Lexus - which sells the LS400 for $35,000 and the ES250 for $21,050 - are far more impressive than Infiniti's. For 1989, Lexus topped its target of 16,000 by selling 11,574 LS400s and 4,728 ES250s. Infiniti's 1989 sales totaled 1,723, with 1,072 of its flagship Q45 sedans and 651 of its M30 sports coupe.

An Infiniti executive said Thursday he was "pleased" at the level of sales and said they were on target with company projections. Illingworth said, "We exceeded our target in spite of a very tough market."

Lexus, which will have 88 dealers selling the cars this month, has no plans to offer buyer incentives to promote sales. "Our biggest problem is that we can't supply customers right now," Illingworth said. Illingworth predicted that the dealership base will reach 142 by next year.

Lexus has found that 58 percent of its first 2,000 buyers had previously owned a luxury car, far above the original forecasts. It also found that 28 percent of LS400 buyers had incomes of more than $250,000.

Additionally, more than half of the LS400 buyers paid cash, Illingworth said. "The Lexus customer is a successful professional with very high expectations," he said.

BOSTON (JAN. 7) UPI - A British Airways 747 jetliner from London left for Miami Sunday following an unplanned overnight stay in Boston to check out a bomb threat that proved to be a false alarm.

Flight 293 departed Logan International Airport in Boston at 9:59 a.m. and landed in Miami at 1:35 p.m. without incident, the airline said.

Citing security reasons, the airline refused to say whether all 341 passengers originally aboard had remained on the flight.

The jet was over Labrador, Newfoundland, when the airline's London office received an anonymous call Saturday, saying an altitude bomb had been planted on board. The plane was diverted to Logan, where its 341 passengers and 19 crewmembers were evacuated and bomb-sniffing dogs searched for explosives.

No injuries were reported and no explosives were found, authorities said.

Passengers waited in the airport's customs area for several hours Saturday until they were taken to the Park Plaza Hotel for an overnight stay paid for by British Airways. Buses carried the passengers back to the airport Sunday morning to reboard the jet for the flight to Miami.

John Lampl, director of U.S. public affairs for the airline, said a call came into the London reservations office at 4:12 p.m. London time, saying a bomb would go off when the plane reached 27,000 feet.

''The plane was already four hours in the air and was at 31,000 feet when the call was made,'' Lampl said. ''A decision was made to bring the plane down at Boston's Logan Airport,'' where it landed at 2:48 p.m. EST.

He said passengers were told the plane was diverting to Boston ''for technical reasons.'' They were told of the bomb threat after the plane landed, Lampl said.

In late December, Northwest Airlines received a bomb threat against a flight from Paris to Detroit. Most of the passengers booked aboard the plane canceled their reservations, but the flight Dec. 30 was without incident and landed safely in Detroit.

On Dec. 21, 1988, 270 people were killed, including 11 on ground, when Pan Am Flight 103 exploded over Lockerbie, Scotland, on a flight from London to New York. Investigators said the blast was caused by a terrorist bomb, but responsibility for the explosion has never been conclusively established.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 9) COMTEX - Financially troubled Pinnacle West Capital Corp. will be forced to file for bankruptcy protection from its creditors if it is unable to obtain modifications from its lenders under a $150 million credit facility.

The Phoenix-based real estate and utility holding company currently is unable to repay the debt on the $150 million facility scheduled to expire today.

As part of a proposed financing modification to the credit facility, the expiration date of the facility would be extended, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Failure to obtain an extension of the expiration date would result in cross-defaults and the acceleration of the debt under all the company's other major financing agreements.

If it appears Pinnacle West will not be able to obtain satisfactory financing modifications, the company may be forced to seek restructuring of its debt in the bankruptcy courts.

Pinnacle West is also trying to raise $300 million for its MeraBank thrift unit as part of a settlement with the Office of Thrift Supervision.

Its success in doing so depends on whether the modifications on its existing credit agreements are obtained.

STAMFORD, CT (JAN. 9) COMTEX - Eagle Clothes Inc. has entered a reorganization plan under the U.S. bankruptcy code that would leave its shareholders empty-handed, but would allow Arnold Levine, co-chief executive officer, to receive $1.25 million under a consulting agreement.

Levine is also general counsel, principal shareholder and director of Eagle, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing.

Under the plan, which was submitted to a bankruptcy court in New York on Dec. 15, all of Eagle's common stock would be canceled, and new stock would be issued to an affiliate of Norfolk Capital Corp.

Norfolk, which has provided $3.5 million in financing to Eagle since it filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. bankruptcy court, would acquire Eagle and take it private.

The reorganization plan would also release all of Eagle's current and past directors and officers from all liability.

As part of the plan, $8.16 million would have to be set aside for general unsecured creditors, whose claims total $34 million.

The Norfolk affiliate, York Capital Corp., entered agreements to purchase all of the claims of the company's secured creditors at a discount.

York has agreed to pay all administrative expenses and priority claims arising from the bankruptcy filing.

Eagle has begun liquidating its retail operations to raise additional capital.

Levine and Roth, who are both unsecured creditors of the company, have obtained proxies from other unsecured creditors to vote in favor of the reorganization plan.

The company said it expects its shareholders to vote against the plan, because they will not be compensated.

However, Eagle thinks it will be able to push the plan through under the ''cramdown provision'' of the U.S. bankruptcy code.

The cramdown provision allows a reorganization plan to go through despite the disapproval of shareholders, as long as no creditor class ranked junior to the shareholders are compensated, Eagle said.

Moreover, the company said, shareholders would not receive any compensation if the plan is not approved and the company is forced to liquidate.

The company said the plan must be confirmed by March 30 to become effective.

CUATITLAN, Mexico (JAN. 8) - Violence erupted at a Ford Motor Co. plant here Monday when about 250 armed assailants entered the facility and 12 people were injured when some of the attackers opened fire.

Workers in the plant accused the attackers of being armed thugs contracted by Confederation of Mexican Workers (CTM) union leader Hector Uriarte.

Employees turned over three of the suspects to the police but the others remained entrenched in the car manufacturing company near Mexico City.

Four workers received gunshot wounds, three others were severely injured and another five received slight injuries, the Red Cross said.

"They arrived in CTM buses and Ford security let them pass," one employee said. "But once inside they began to hit us and, when we managed to seize some of them, the others began to shoot pistols and machine guns."

Pay disputes prompted the start of the dispute last year.

It began to turn ugly over the weekend when police arrested six workers, at Uriarte's request. The arrested men were distributing propaganda for a demonstration and had accused Uriarte of defending the company's interests.

Employees are due Thursday to vote in a referendum on whether to keep Uriarte as their leader, union delegates said.

The union also controls Ford plants in Chihuahua and Hermosillo in northern Mexico.

The Cuatitlan plant will remain closed indefinitely, plant officials said.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Telecom USA, Inc. (NYSE: TTT), based in Atlanta, and ALC Communications Corporation (NASDAQ: ALCC), based in Birmingham, today announced the signing of a letter of intent under which ALC would merge into a subsidiary of Telecom USA, the nation's fourth-largest long-distance company.

Under the letter of intent, all outstanding capital stock of ALC would be converted into units of Telecom USA Common Stock and cash. Holders of ALC Common Stock and Series B and C Preferred Stock would receive units valued at $3 for each share (on a Common Stock equivalent basis). Holders of ALC Series A Preferred Stock would receive units valued at $20 per share, plus accrued unpaid dividends. Prior to closing, certain holders of Series A Preferred Stock would be required to contribute to ALC's capital 1 million shares of Series A Preferred Stock and accrued dividends. Distribution to the Common Stock and Series B and C Preferred Stock would be subject to an escrow with respect to ALC's compliance with certain financial conditions relating to stockholders' equity and average gross revenues.

Currently, ALC has approximately 13.7 million shares of outstanding Common Stock, 2.5 million shares of Series A Preferred Stock and 1 million shares each of Series B and C Preferred Stock. Communications Transmission, Inc. (CTI), a supplier of digital transmission capacity, is the owner of all of the outstanding shares of Series B and C Preferred Stock, which is convertible into approximately 17 million shares of ALC Common Stock.

The business combination is contingent, among other things, upon completion of due diligence, execution of a definitive agreement, and regulatory and shareholder approvals. The merger is also subject to ALC's redemption of at least 70 percent of outstanding Senior Subordinated Debentures of ALC at 70 percent of the debentures' principal amount and 100 percent of the accrued unpaid interest.

In addition, the merger would require amendment of an existing 10-year telecommunications capacity agreement between ALC and CTI. The amendment would permit the purchase of additional transmission capacity from CTI at a fixed price in exchange for a payment to CTI of $8.5 million.

O. Gene Gabbard, chairman and chief executive officer of Telecom USA, stated, "In addition to the continuing effects of certain revenue-impacting factors announced earlier, we expect the proposed transaction to be somewhat dilutive to Telecom USA's earnings in 1990. However, we believe that the combination of Telecom USA and ALC will enhance our position in a rapidly growing industry and provide significant opportunities for network and cost efficiencies. Over the longer term, we expect these efficiencies to add to earnings and create additional value for shareholders, as has been the case with past mergers and acquisitions."

John Zrno, president and chief executive officer of ALC, said, "We look forward to becoming a part of Telecom USA as its third major regional operating unit. ALC's strong presence in the Northeast and upper Midwest complements Telecom USA's existing strengths in the Southeast and Midwest. Through this combination, we anticipate offering a wide range of Telecom USA's enhanced products and service to our customers."

Telecom USA was formed in December 1988 as the business combination of SouthernNet, Atlanta, and Teleconnect Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Third-quarter revenues for 1989 were $182 million, an increase of 27 percent over the same period in 1988. Nine-month revenues were $516 million, an increase of 30 percent over the same period of the prior year. The company operates a 3,000-mile digital telecommunications network. Other operations include a local telephone company, a voice- messaging service bureau, a database marketing company and directory publishing.

ALC Communications Corporation is the parent company of Allnet Communication Services, Inc. BLUE BELL, PA (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Suffolk County of New York has selected Unisys (NYSE: UIS) and Grumman Data Systems to design and implement its public safety information management system.

The contract, valued at $12.3 million, includes four Unisys A Series mainframes, 19 departmental computers running the UNIX operating system, 799 Personal Workstation2 (PW2) micro-computers, communications equipment, development of MAPPER software solutions, and customization of the Unisys Standardized Tactical Online Public Safety (STOPS) system.

Unisys and Grumman will work together to provide Suffolk County with an integrated, information management system that will serve major elements in the criminal justice system, including the police department, the jail, the district attorney's office, and the department of fire, rescue, and emergency services. When the system is complete, Suffolk County will be able, for instance, to decrease the number of times arrest records change hands from 14 to 1, because all county agencies will have access to the same information.

According to Thomas J. McAteer, Suffolk's chief deputy county executive, "An integrated, criminal justice computer system for Suffolk County could save an estimated 45,000 patrol hours per year in the police department alone. We will only reap these savings and the others we contemplate if this system is fully integrated - if all the computer users can talk with each other. The extensive system integration experience brought to this project by the team of Unisys and Grumman was a major factor in the final decision."

"Our involvement with Suffolk County demonstrates the Unisys commitment to the Public Safety/Criminal Justice marketplace," said Joseph M. Tucci, president of Unisys United States Information Systems. "Unisys continues its focus on providing totally integrated networks and fourth-generation software solutions."

Suffolk County, one of the largest counties in New York State, expects to be the nation's first county to computerize its entire criminal justice system.

Grumman Data Systems, a Long Island-based company, provides integration and computer services to government, business, industry, and the Grumman Corp. (NYSE: GQ). It employs more than 2,800 people to support its customers and its five data centers.

DETROIT (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) plans to install both driver- and passenger-side supplemental air bags as standard equipment on all Ford and Lincoln-Mercury cars sold in North America beginning in the mid-1990s, Vice Chairman Harold A. Poling announced late Sunday.

In his keynote address to the Automotive News World Congress at the Detroit Westin Hotel, Poling indicated that Ford is the first domestic manufacturer to announce such an objective.

"I believe this action makes an important statement about our dedication to product value, quality and customer satisfaction in every facet of the customer's experience with our products," he said.

Poling said that the air bag decision "assumes that the application of technology and customer acceptance continue to progress at the rate we have experienced over the past few years."

Poling, who will succeed Donald E. Petersen as Ford chairman on March 1, pointed out that the automotive industry is at a "remarkable moment" in its history and that the coming decade will present "enormous opportunities" and "more difficult challenges than ever before."

"There will be aggressive competition," he said. "The political and economic environment will change, especially in the emerging countries that are moving toward reform. Environmental concerns will continue as a critical issue. Consumers' needs and desires will change. Training our work force will continue to present a formidable task. And customer satisfaction will become a paramount concern. ...

"The companies that will be the most successful are those that will rise to these challenges -- by acknowledging the new realities of the '90s, accepting the new responsibilities and initiating the new responses the 1990s will demand."

Poling pointed out that protecting the earth and its natural resources is an objective shared by Ford and the auto industry. "In fact," he said, "there is general agreement among environmentalists and members of Congress that the U.S. auto industry has made a greater contribution to cleaning up the air than any other industry. From pre- control levels, we have reduced hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide emissions by 96 percent, and nitrogen oxides by 76 percent."

With respect to proposed clean-air legislation, Poling noted that the U.S.

automotive industry "is committed to participating in the development of resource-efficient, technically feasible solutions." The focus, he said, "must be on identifying and implementing the strategies that have the most potential for public value. ...

"The challenge," he continued, "is to develop an agenda that is realistic and a timetable that will allow us to accomplish these goals while still meeting the transportation needs of our customers."

DEERFIELD, IL (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Walgreen Co. (NYSE: WAG) achieved record sales and earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

Sales for the quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989, increased 14.5 percent to $1,386,804,000. Net earnings for the quarter advanced 15.9 percent to $28,662,000 or 46 cents per share, compared to earnings of $24,726,000 or 40 cents per share last year.

"Selling, occupancy and administration expenses as a percentage of sales were lower in the first quarter of 1990," said Charles R. Walgreen III, chairman. "That reflects our determination to increase efficiencies and lower operating costs to offset competitive pressures. These pressures, however, contributed to lower gross margins for everyday and promotional merchandise, as well as in our growing third party prescription business." In response, Walgreen Co. continues to invest in sophisticated systems to improve merchandising programs, enhance service levels, and lower costs along the entire distribution process.

The Drug Store Division, which accounts for virtually all corporate sales since divestiture of manufacturing operations in August, had a sales advance of 14.6 percent for the quarter. Sales in comparable stores (those open at least one year) were up 10.7 percent, indicating real sales growth.

Prescription sales, which now comprise nearly one-third of corporate sales increased 21.5 percent for the quarter. Walgreen Co. is now in its ninth year of 20 percent-plus prescription sales increases.

"We opened 39 drugstores since the start of our fiscal year in September," said Fred F. Canning, president. "We plan to open 100 stores this year. During 1989, we increased our market penetration in 58 of our top 72 markets and now rank first or second in 41 of our top 50 markets."

Preliminary sales for December 1989 show a 9.1 percent increase. At Dec. 31, Walgreens operated 1,511 stores in 28 states and Puerto Rico, versus 1,440 drugstores a year ago.

"I want to acknowledge Fred Canning's retirement on Feb. 1," Walgreen said. "He's handled the post of president with exceptional skill and energy for more than 11 years...I look forward to his ongoing counsel on our board of directors.

"L. Daniel Jorndt, formerly senior vice president and treasurer, will succeed him. Dan, who has also been nominated for the board, is eminently qualified for this position. I look forward to working with him to make the 1990s another successful decade for our company."

CHICAGO (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Initial indications are that mail order catalogs increased their sales this past Christmas at about twice the rate of traditional retailers. This, according to a survey conducted by Maxwell Sroge, Chicago-based leading mail order consultant and publisher of the newsletter "Non-Store Marketing Report."

According to the Sroge group the final figures should show an increase over 1988 of about 12 percent for catalogs versus 5.5 to 6 percent for stores.

Here are the actual Christmas catalog results as reported to Maxwell Sroge by some of the leading companies:

Eddie Bauer -- increase in double digit range. Spiegel's -- strong double digit growth. J. C. Penney -- a double digit increase for the month of December. Frederick's of Hollywood -- Christmas sales increased approximately 27 percent over last year.

Sroge attributed the success of catalogs to three main factors: 1) convenience, 2) competitive pricing, 3) excellent service including the fact that express delivery services have enabled catalogs to lengthen their selling season by about one more week.

Maxwell Sroge added that he sees a black cloud on the horizon in terms of higher postage rates targeted specifically at catalogs. He said, "The postal service has lost the battle to control its costs. Before they could do more damage to catalog houses consumers should write their congressional representatives and demand an inquiry. Any postage increase will represent a hidden tax on the American consumer."

WILMINGTON, DE (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Du Pont (NYSE: DD) today reported it will spend $1 billion over the next decade to build plants for nylon intermediates and downstream manufacturing in the Asia Pacific region.

"The investment strategy, beginning with an adipic acid plant in Singapore will position Du Pont as a major nylon 6,6 supplier in Asia Pacific in the 1990s and strengthen its global leadership position into the 21st century," said Chairman Edgar S. Woolard Jr.

The $200 million plant will anchor Du Pont's position in a region where nylon consumption is growing at a rate that is twice the world average, Woolard said.

"We are integrating world-scale intermediates plants with polymer capacity to serve market needs and ensure future nylon competitiveness in Asia," he said.

The Singapore facility, with a projected capacity of more than 200 million pounds annually, is scheduled to be operational in 1993. It will increase Du Pont's worldwide adipic acid capacity to more than 1.5 billion pounds.

Also scheduled to begin operation in 1993 is additional nylon polymerization capacity to support compounding plants being built or expanded in Korea, Japan and Singapore. These plants will serve the region's automotive, electronics, appliance, electrical and industrial markets.

Additional polymer plants and downstream manufacturing facilities, including compounding and spinning operations, will be constructed in strategic locations to meet growing regional demand.

Also on the drawing board for the late 1990s is a world-scale plant for the production of the nylon intermediates adiponitrile and hexamethylenediamine. The plant will complete the Asia Pacific intermediates base in support of the company's global nylon strategy into the next century.

LAFAYETTE, IN (JAN. 8) PR NEWSWIRE - National Enterprises, Inc., (NYSE: NEI) Lafayette, Ind. announced today it has secured various commitments which could enable NEI to complete a repositioning strategy designed to return the company to profitability. These commitments include a tentative agreement between NEI and Arendsnest Corp., Toronto, Canada, pursuant to which the capital required by NEI to complete its repositioning strategy will be provided by Arendsnest in exchange for a 50.1 percent interest in NEI and a definitive agreement with Homecraft Corp. to acquire Homecraft's production facilities in South Hill, Va. Arendsnest will also put its management and financial skills to work with NEI management to attain long-term growth.

David R. Price, chairman, president and chief executive officer of NEI, said that the rules of the New York Stock Exchange, on which the common shares of NEI are listed, normally would require shareholder approval of the issuance of the shares to Arendsnest; but that the audit committee of the board of directors of NEI has approved going forward with the transaction without shareholder approval, in reliance upon an exception to the rules of the exchange in circumstances where the delay in securing shareholder approval would seriously jeopardize the financial viability of the company. The exchange has accepted NEI's application of the exception. NEI, in reliance on the exception, will mail to all shareholders a letter notifying them of its intention to issue the shares without seeking their approval at least 10 days prior to the closing of the transaction.

Upon completion of the Homecraft transaction, NEI intends to close down its current manufacturing operations in Martinsville, Va., and transfer those operations to the South Hill facility. That facility will be reorganized to take advantage of NEI's advanced manufacturing and materials handling systems. These actions are expected to expand NEI's sales base, lower its labor and materials costs, and gain manufacturing efficiencies. The purchase price for the South Hill facility will consist of the assumption of certain liabilities of Homecraft not to exceed the fair value of the assets acquired plus $750,000. It is expected that this transaction will be completed by Jan. 31, 1990.

Also as part of its repositioning strategy, NEI has disposed of certain assets of NRC Inc., its subsidiary engaged in resort community development in Texas. The proceeds of the sale, which was completed on Dec. 20, 1989, together with proceeds from an earlier disposition of receivables relating to those operations, were applied to the repayment of all of NEI's short-term bank debt. This transaction will allow NEI to focus its attention on its core business, the manufacture of panelized building systems. NEI discontinued the activities of its contracting services division in early 1989.

NEI and an affiliate of Arendsnest have signed a letter of intent under which, if certain conditions are met and subject to the signing of a definitive agreement, Arendsnest will acquire shares of NEI equal to 50.1 percent of the common shares of NEI then outstanding for $2,000,000 in cash, and also will provide a $5,000,000 credit facility to NEI. Arendsnest is a dynamic Canadian real estate-based management company actively pursuing business opportunities in North America and worldwide. The company manages assets and investments in a broad scope of areas. Its direct and management interests include land acquisition and real estate development/construction and manufacturing and retail operations.

The proposal from Arendsnest also contemplates the establishment of an employee share purchase plan covering 20 percent of the NEI shares on a fully diluted basis, and Arendsnest would obtain an option on a number of unissued shares sufficient to allow it to retain its 50.1 percent position on a fully diluted basis, exercisable for 24 months at $2,000,000. Existing shareholders of NEI would own 29.9 percent of the shares on a fully diluted basis.
